

NO PROTEST ON REPARATIONS

Hun Willing to Make Good in France and Belgium. Gist of Other Replies Also Given.

Paris cable: The answer of the Council of Four to the German notes on prisoners of war and labor subjects were delivered this afternoon.

One of the later German notes, dealing with economic clauses of the treaty, declares that they mean the ruin of Germany if they are enforced.

A note on territorial questions protests particularly against the Saar Valley arrangement and the transfer of the Malmédy, Moresnet and Eupen districts to Belgium, as well as the forced evacuation of a part of Schleswig.

A note on reparation does not protest against the payment by Germany for the devastation wrought in Belgium and northern France, which, it says, Germany is ready to do willingly.

The note on the question of prisoners says: "The German peace delegation notes with satisfaction that the project recognizes the principle of the return of prisoners of war and civilians, with the least possible delay."

"Direct oral discussions between the commission and nearly all the belligerents concerning prisoners of war have been considered, even during hostilities, as the surest means of solving the difficulties. It ought today to be all the easier to reconcile the different viewpoints and clear up certain obscurities still existing on certain details of the problem."

"For instance, as a result of the diversity of the viewpoint of the law in the different countries interested, the German delegation considers it indispensable that prisoners of war and the civilians undergoing penalties for other infractions than those of discipline, should be in a group that ought to be repatriated unconditionally."

"The German delegation deems it necessary for reasons of equity to accord certain improvements in the treatment of prisoners, military and civilian, pending the time when they may return to their own country."

Bugs in France.

In the reign of Louis-Philippe, a Monsieur Terrat had been charged with the duty of fighting bugs in the barracks of Paris. It must be believed that the result was satisfactory, since by virtue of an order of the general inspector contracts were made in 1848 with Monsieur Terrat for the destruction of these frightful insects.

Monsieur Terrat demanded 90 centimes for each sleeping room. In case the first fight with the bugs was not decisive, and if he should have to begin again after some years, the second operation should cost 50 centimes a room. Moreover, in these operations, he destroyed the insects in the arms-rack, guard house, police quarters and prisons. When he became old Monsieur Terrat offered to communicate the secret to the state for an indemnity. But this offer was not accepted. The secret died with the proprietor. And that is why the soldiers of to-day are yet struggling against the bug.

ENTERTAINMENT ENOUGH.

"How are you planning to entertain your guests this evening?" "I am leaving that entirely to them. You see the women will get together and discuss various things, while the men will go into the den and talk golf."

TEUTO' ENVOYS REACHED PARIS

Made Sharp Contrast to German Delegates. Courteous Reception, but No Handshakes.

Paris cable says: Karl Renner, the Austrian Chancellor, brought his peace delegation and their attendants to St. Germain, near Paris, to-day, and at a later date will appear before the representative of the allied and associated powers to receive the conditions which will spell peace for the former empire. A notable feature of the reception was the absence of Germans, who had requested permission to greet the Austrians, but had been denied this privilege.

The delegates then proceeded under military escort to the villas set aside for them overlooking the valley of the Seine and Paris, and lacking the high fences and sentries so much in evidence at Versailles.

Chancellor Renner was apparently in excellent spirits. He smiled engagingly, and his eyes shone as he greeted the representatives of the allied countries. In the course of his remarks, he said, among other things: "I hope I may go away with as joyful a heart as I bring."

It was a cosmopolitan crowd which awaited the delegation, French, English, Italian, Japanese, and American journalists and officers. Some of the Austrians gazed inquiringly from the windows as the train entered the station, uncertain of their reception, but Chancellor Renner was sure of his ground, and welcomed the friendly spirit displayed with heartiness, which was reciprocated in a measure by those assembled.

Professor Lammach was accompanied by his wife and daughter, and there were several women secretaries, who were shown the greatest courtesy. The Austrian newspaper men and subordinates were quartered in one of the requisitioned hotels.

After their arrival at the villas the Austrian delegates again thanked the escorting officers for their courteous reception, and chatted for a time, contrasting the sunshine and warmth of France with the snows and bleakness of Austria and Switzerland on the journey thither.

The Austrian Chancellor, in his speech on arrival, and later in conversation, spoke German, but excused himself, as being unable to speak French.

The Oil for the Farmer.—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

LIVE STOCK FOR EUROPE

Big Conference at Ottawa On Important Subject. Canada Has Reputation and a Fine Chance.

Ottawa Report — At what Dr. J. G. Rutherford called the most representative gathering ever held in Canada of men who are engaged in and know the live stock industry of Canada, proposals are being made and discussed for getting and holding European markets for Canadian live stock, and for developing the industry in Canada.

At the morning meeting Mr. Arkell assured his hearers that Canadian bacon, poultry and eggs have won an enviable reputation during the war. Commission houses or buyers in London or other British cities had their stocks of Canadian bacon taken during the war for the use of the army, while the American dry salt heavy fat bacon was sold to the public under a controlled price.

NO QUESTION AS TO DEMAND. With respect to the demand for Canadian live stock generally from overseas, Mr. Arkell said: "I don't think there need be any question as to the demand for all our products provided we can maintain the quality and organize the business in a thoroughly business-like, systematic way."

In the afternoon discussions occurred as to ways and means to organize the live stock trade for the men overseas of horses and cattle. No conclusion was reached, but enough difference of opinion developed to make it necessary to form committees to make up a report to submit to the meeting with regard to methods of handling business in Canada.

Mr. Arkell stated that if Canadians properly organized themselves there was a market for all available Canadian livestock. They could find a profitable outlet for heavy horses in the British Isles and for lighter horses on the continent.

Canada's opportunity in England is to take the place formerly taken by Denmark in supplying bacon to England and by Russia in supplying eggs. Her pre-war trade in cattle is also capable of further developments.

In the opinion of Mr. Arkell, the Canadian Government will soon not have to supply credits. An international system of credits will have to be developed by the Inter-Allied Council in order to get into devastated areas the products greatly needed for reconstruction. Provisions for that would be made in connection with the signing of the Peace Treaty.

The Resolutions Committee, meeting to-night has two members for each Province. The principal source of contention is as to whether an incorporated company is necessary or not to deal on behalf of the stock men of Canada with the countries needing our products. Many do not want to relinquish control of the livestock export business already in their hands.

TRAVEL BY FLOWERY WAYS

There are many who believe that all big corporations and industrial concerns only look to the material side of things and work machine-like for the production of wealth, regardless of the winter's snow and un-budding of the summer's bloom. This is often an erroneous idea, for it is generally realized that man does not altogether live by offices and pens and papers and engines and other accoutrements of labor—he requires trees and shrubs and flowers and the loveliness of nature.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has always paid considerable attention to the development of garden plots along its lines. It is just thirty years ago since a C.P.R. employee raised a few varieties of flower seeds in his own garden, and distributed them amongst his friends in the service of the company, with the object of promoting flower gardening at the various station plots of the railway. A vast advance has been made since then; and now the company possesses a Floral Department with headquarters at Windsor street, Station, Montreal, and a Floral Committee which embraces members from the Eastern and Western lines. It is under the guidance of this department that the various station plots and other properties of the company are cleared up and beautified. Thousands of packages of flower seeds, bulbs, trees, and shrubs and large quantities of grass seeds and fertilizers have been distributed during the last few years to station agents, section foremen, caretakers of round houses, and all employees living on the property of the company. Travellers on the line observe the happy results achieved. The cultivation work is done in all cases by the employees themselves, who in most cases acquired the art of amateur gardening by taking their lessons from leaflets issued by the Floral Department. The best material is always provided. Amongst the varieties of trees supplied are: Maple, birch, beech, poplar and catalpa. Some of the shrubs are: weigelia, barberries, laurel leaf willow and sumac. Perennials distributed are: Oriental poppies, iris, phlox, veronica, gallardia, larkspur, columbine, sweet william, and pinks. Bedding plants used include: geraniums, coleus, cannas, pansies, asters, verbenas, petunias, and castor oil plants. Standard seed packets sent out contain: Nasturtiums, alyssum, mignonette, sweet peas, phlox and kohls. Ferns and house plants are given to the larger stations. The establishment and main-
