Hot Weather Drinks.

Wear workers often do much damage to their system by drinking copiously of ice cold water, milk, or other beverages. A farm lad came in the other day from the harvest field and threw himself face downward and drank as much as he could from a cold spring. In three hours he was dead. Whenever over-heated, the hands and face should first be bathed and cold water poured upon the wrists.

Then drink a very little at a time until you feel refreshed. Eight or ten minutes are none too long to sup a glass of water or milk.

Milk should be taken even slower than water, in order that the saliva may have a chance to mingle with it while swallowing. A glass of milk taken at one draught has a detrimental effect on the digestion, outside of the fact that it may chill the stomach. The ideal way is through a straw.

Water, with a addition of sugar, and the pure juice of the fruit in season, is the best drink for most people; like the old-fashioned, unfermented currant wine for instance.

A tablespoonful of good raspberry vinegar to a glass of water is cool and refreshing. To cool, refresh and strengthen at the same time, we have found nothing equal to an egg phosphate. An egg is beaten, a spoonful of acid phosphate is added and both beaten again, and then add some soda water.

Whenever you drink, drink slowly.

A Good Investment. Several winters ago a woman was coming out from some public building where the heavy doors swung back and made a groaning noise.

"Cracky! dy'e hear that?" said the boy to a companion standing near. "No; what?" "Why, that lady in seal'kin said 'thank ye' to the likes o' me."

Amused at the conversation, which she could not help over-hearing, the lady turned round and said to him, "It always pays to be polite, my boy; remember that."

Years passed away, and December last when doing her Christmas shopping this same woman received an expeditionary courier from a clerk in Boston, which had caused her to remark to a friend who was with her: "What a comfort to be civilly treated once in a while—though I don't know that I blame the clerks for being rude during the holiday trade."

The young man's quick ear caught the words, and he said: "Pardon me, madam, but you gave me my first lesson in politeness."

She looked at him in amazement, while he related the little forgotten incident, and told her that that simple "thank you" awakened his first ambition to be something in the world. He went to the next morning and applied for a situation as office boy in the establishment where he was now an honored and trusted clerk.

Only two words, dropped into the treasury of street conversation, but they yielded returns of a certain kind more satisfactory than investments in stocks and bonds.

Not to be Taken in Twice. A young gentleman who lately left his father's home, having exhausted his credit belonging to his parent—"

Don't.

Don't forget that you are a citizen of this town and of no other.

Don't forget that you are expected at all times to speak well of the town.

Remember that you do not help the town by speaking ill of it.

Don't forget that Wolfville is the best town in Nova Scotia to live in, do business in, etc., etc.

Don't forget that all your influence is needed all of the time.

Don't tell outside people that this is the worst town in the world and that we are behind the times.

Don't tell all the bad things that you can think of, that the town is dead, etc., but tell its good points.

Don't forget that a true citizen ought to do the same by his town as he would by himself.

Don't be backward or afraid to recommend your town to anybody.

Remember that we have dry goods stores, grocery stores, clothing stores, etc., at which you ought to trade.

Remember that every cent you spend in the town helps it and every cent you spend out of the town hurts it.

Remember that if you don't help yourself nobody else will, and consider the town yourself.

Remember that the town has educated you and your children, and is ready to care for you when you are in want. What have you done for the town?

Women as Detectives. An old detective announces as the result of long experience that women possess qualifications that fit them specially for detective work.

"Men as a rule are not as close observers, and do not give what I call detective descriptions of people. I remember trying to catch a woman counterfeiter once who had been described to me by several men. I found half a dozen women who would answer to her description. Finally a woman who had seen her gave me a description with one strong detective point—the way she tilted up her hair—and on that description I very soon arrested the right woman. Women have peculiar observations in details, and are sure to notice and remember some small but definite point that men would overlook. It is the pleasant work for a woman, but she has detective instincts.

No Class in Dress Here. The Canadian woman does not admit that anything is unseemly for her if she can raise the money to buy it. There is no such thing known in Canada as a class dress. Everybody dresses as well as she can, and the only difference distinguishable are those of expense and taste. This is radically different in other countries. Everyone has noticed the neat black uniform of the French and often of the English, saleswomen and cashiers in shops and restaurants. The dress is perfectly fitted and well made, and has the best of all styles, an admirable appropriateness. The Parisienne has her own special costume too, and the English maid, and it never occurs to her to be dissatisfied with her fit and comfortable dress.

Improving Their Figures. Mothers ought to put corsets upon their young daughters for the first time and begin the process that will improve their figures (if should read the account published recently in a French medical journal of the experiments of a French physician. While travelling in India he procured a number of female monkeys, whose forms he explains were very similar to those of women, and enveloped them in a plaster of Paris jacket as near like an ordinary corset as possible. Then he gave them chloroform to see the effect of the chest restriction upon the respiration. Several of the monkeys died very quickly. All suffered seriously. In these days of dress reform, hygienic waist and the like, a trim figure is easily attainable without the strappy corset, like a coat of mail, which has been thought necessary.

Sir John's Repartee. Col. Wylie, the father of the Canadian press, is an octogenarian. Although so low he can only at times speak so as to be understood, he was able recently to tell the following reminiscence: He met Sir John on the occasion of a press excursion some ten years ago, at Riviere au Loup. Sir John asked Col. Wylie how old he was.

The Colonel said: "I'm older than you, Sir John."

Sir John replied: "The nearer Heaven, then."

The Colonel said: "We'll, Sir John, if all the stories they tell about you are true, I am afraid you will never see Heaven."

Sir John clapped him on the back and whispered in his ear: "Blessed are they that are reviled."

A Desperate Chance. A Russian exile relates how he once saved himself by a desperate rifice. A police official searched his house for compromising papers. There was in his possession a document the discovery of which meant serious danger to himself and his friends.

Wherever he might hide it, it seemed certain that it would be found. He coyly handed the document to the official, who scarcely glanced at it, and handed it back.

After the most careful search, the official, his nose blackened with soot and his hair decorated with feathers—for he had even examined the stove pipes and the bedding—departed empty-handed.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

It's flowery beds of fees that lawyers love to sleep on.

Corporations have no souls. What a disappointment that must be to the devil.

The deeper and broader a nature is the less likely it is to be comprehended by others.

What is the difference between a clam and a gossip? One keeps his mouth shut and the other doesn't.

Small boys and green apples are now one in body. Use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for colic.

Oh, no, men are not vain; but the barber shop which beats the man is the shop with a mirror facing the operating chair.

Nothing adds so much to a person's appearance as a fine thick head of hair of even color, and to assure this, use only Hall's Hair Renewer.

When you hear a woman declare that she married the best man that ever lived, it is pretty safe to assume that she is a widow.

Don't be discouraged about that eczema till you have given Ayer's Sarsaparilla a persistent trial. Six bottles of this medicine cured the complaint for George S. Thomas, of Ada, Ohio, when all other remedies failed to afford any relief.

"Excuse me," said Gus de Jay, "I was swamped in thought." "Your own thought?" asked Miss Sharpton. "Certainly." "Weren't you afraid of taking cold?"

The evils resulting from habitual coarseness are many and serious; but the use of harsh, drastic purgatives is quite as dangerous. In Ayer's Pills, however, the patient has a mild but effective, superior to all others, especially for family use.

We and our neighbors think there is nothing that will build up a person as quick after a severe attack of La Grippe as Dr. Norton's "Dyspeptic Purifier," which we believe saved very many of our lives in this place this spring and returned us to health soon.

"I have always wondered," said the newly arrived missionary to the genial cannibal, "what became of my predecessor." "Oh! he," returned the cannibal, "has gone into the interior."

"Bread is the staff of life," observed Mrs. Haslam. "Yes," remarked the home boarder, as he wrestled with a home made slice, "and I think this might be used effectively for a club."

Edward Linoleum, of St. Peter's, C. B., says "That his horse was badly torn by a pitchfork. One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT cured him."

Livery Stable men all over the Dominion tell our agents that they would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT for twice the cost.

"Smoking's not allowed in this room, sir. You'll have to quit." "I'm not smokin', sir." "But you have your pipe in your mouth, sir." "Yes, and I have me fat in me boot, but I'm not we kin'."

Allen's Lung Balsam. Coughs, Colds, Croup. Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectation and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; breaks the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many drenches when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Cough, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 50-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Price COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.
