Mr. Pelletier.

No one has done more to make enemies for the Conservative party than has Mr. Pelletier in his administration of the post office. His first important act was designed to have the appearance of giving the people of Canada a system of parcel post, comparable to that given by other governments to their people when, as a matter of fact, it gave hardly anything as the rates were carefully calculated to protect the express companies in their existing rates. This department, under the direction of Mr. Pelletier, has officially avowed that it continues to make its appointments to postal railway service on the system of political patronage, as everybody knows that it does throughout the country post offices. The post office is to-day being used as a huge machine for the reward of Conservative supporters, but the service has become in some quarters so negligent as to injure the government. In his pre-election speeches Sir Robert Borden promised a reform that would, as far as possible, put civil service under a civil service commission. This promise his Nationalist alliance has made him tear up. The most spectacular and notorious incident of Mr. Pelletier's regime which was fated to become a classic of the Canadian civil service, was that accident by which a letter was sent to a postmaster who had died some years before, telling him that he was dismissed from the service for partisan action in the election campaign. The letter was received by his widow, who had been carrying on his post office since his death, and was made public. While this letter was an accident, it gave undoubted proof of the groundlessness of the accusations on which hundreds of men were turned out of the post office by Mr. Pelletier, so as to secure vacant places with which to reward Conservatives.—Montreal Witness.

Beck's Weekly

Beck's Weekly, edited by Edward Beck, the man who employed the Burns Detective Agents to unearth graft in the Quebec Legislature, and published in Montreal, is a unique publication and one that is growing in favor through the country. While devoted, primarily, to the promotion of honesty in the administration of public affairs it is by no means obsessed of one idea, but is made up every week of clever cartoons and pictures, stories, humorous sketches and a department of intelligent in somewhat caustic comment on Canadian affairs. Among its contributors are several of the best writers and artists in Canada. It furnishes one of the most appetizing week-end collations of information, discussion and entertainment to be obtained anywhere. The price is $2 per year, and the publishers will be pleased to send a sample copy upon request. Address, Beck's Weekly, 335 Craig Street West, Montreal.

Special Sale!

Ready - to - wear Suits and Overcoats for Men and Boys

We are going to make a decided change in our methods of handling Ready-to-Wear Clothing and in order to clean up our very large stock we are giving to you a chance to save many DOLLARS

During the Next Seven Days

Advice from the leading Clothing houses all agree on this—that owing to the war the prices on Cloths and Trimmings has advanced from 10 to 40 per cent, and some lines will not be procurable after stocks on hand are exhausted. When you consider the enormous demand for wollen goods for the armies alone, you can readily see that this is only a natural consequence. However we have a very large stock on hand including the very latest
