VOLUME III. CHATHAM, N. B., JULY 16, 1881. NO. 103.

ARTIC EXPEDITIONS.

Another romantic chapter will be added to the strange history of Artic exploration by the cruise of the Jeanette, which left San Francisco for the Polar regions in July, 1879, and has not been heard of since September last. She was well fitted out by the lavish enterprise of Mr. Gordon Bennett, whose first notion was to send her under the command of Mr. H. M. Stanley, to whom he intended to say "Go and find the North Pole," as he had said "Go and find Livingstone." Mature consideration, however, led Mr. Bennett to change his mind, and he named as commander of the expedition Lieutenant De Long, who had obtained some Artic experience in the Tigress, when that vessel was sent by the American Government to the aid of the Polaris. It is impossible to conceal the fact that the expedition was intended to be a sensational one. All the papers were kept a profound secret; and when the Jeanette steamed out of San Francisco, everybody in America believed that she was going straight to the Pole by a route only known to her owner and commander. When she was last seen, in September, by the whaler Sea Breeze, she was about 50 miles west of Herald Island, and steering due north. Since then the utmost anxiety has been felt as to her fate. In consequence of pressure from without, a sum of $35,000 was placed at the disposal of the Navy Department of the United States Government to equip a fleet of search vessels to ascertain the whereabouts of the Jeanette, and also of a number of whalers which sailed up the Behring Strait about the same time and have not since been heard of. Last month the first of the relief ships, the revenue cutter Corwin, left San Francisco. It is not intended that she should winter in the Artic regions, but only supply, as it were, a starting point for other vessels to follow. The Rodgers, however, which left New York on Wednesday last, is provisioned for three years; and it is to that vessel that the Americans look for more important results. But in their fever of anxiety, they do not stop here. Orders have been issued to the Alliance war vessel to cruise in the seas between East Greenland, Iceland, and Spitzbergen, and, if practicable, to sail as far north as the latter islands, in case the Jeanette "should have been carried along the North-east Passage." Now, a fourth expedition is in course of preparation, and will, it is expected, start next month.

A CRUEL EVICTION.

"One of the cruelest incidents yet revealed in connection with an eviction," says the Freeman, "is that resulting in a coroner's inquest in Monagan, on Saturday last. A Northern jury found themselves compelled, to attribute the premature confinement of the wife of an evicted tenant on Lord Rossmore's estate, and the death of the infant, to the terrible mental excitement produced in the poor woman by the presence of the bailiff at her bedside."

Loss of Appetite in Children.

From Chas. H. Colgate, Manufacturer of Flavoring Extracts, 21 Blackstone Street, Boston.

"Last spring my little daughter, aged five, became very much emaciated with loss of appetite and great prostration of strength, so much so that we were obliged to take her out of school, and she remained at home the summer and caused us much anxiety. After trying various remedies without deriving any benefit, our family physician recommended the use of Dr. Cassell's Food. After using it one week we saw a marked improvement in the child's condition, and in a month she was rapidly gaining flesh and strength, her appetite being excellent. At this date she is perfectly well, with round plump cheeks and healthy color, and is again attending school regularly. I consider her restoration to health entirely due to the PERUVIAN SYRUP, and feel that I cannot too highly recommend it as a tonic." Druggists sell PERUVIAN SYRUP.

Profit, $1,200.

"To sum it up, six long years of bed-ridden sickness, costing $200 per year, total $1,200—all of this expense was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters, taken by my wife. She has done her own housework for a year since, without the loss of a day, and I want every body to know it, for their benefit."—N. B. FARRER.

straighten himself and brush some particle of dust from the front of his buttoned frock coat, or from the sleeve of his left arm. Then he would examine his nails, and as a climax, when few statesmen so assailed could avoid some token of emotional restlessness, he would perhaps take out his single eye-glass, and, fixing it firmly, look for an instant at the clock in the front of the gallery, opposite Mr. Speaker, dropping the glass with one quick elevation of the eye. This last mentioned trick being the only part of a series of actions which, though familiar to his observer, was never a mere matter of habit.
