A CONSIDERATION.—GENTLE-MEN—My brother suffered from summer complaint and was extremely weak. We tried many remedies but without eff. ot. At last my aunt advised us to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and before he had taken one bottle he was cured. We consider it saved his life.

and abroad, been the most splendid models of sincere Catholical virtues that it has been given to the historian to record.

Seldom if ever do we hear the Highland Catholics boast of their sohievementa, they are silent, too much so, on the glories that cling to and cluster around their past. We would advise all who are anxious to learn the remarkable story of our Faith in Scotland to read a splendid work upon the subject written by Rev. Father Dawson of Ottaws; it is beautifully and elegantly composed, couched in graphic language, and it bristles with facts of the greatest stitutions and decrees of the stitutions and decrees of t to make known those who may be holding such writings; and all this is enjoined under the pain of codesisatic censures. Given at Philadelphia, the 28th day of April, in the year of our Lord, 1892."—Catholic Standard.

revered and the spirit of Catholicity walked ab oad over the entire land. There lives were simple and honest, their forays were numerous and bitter, but their characters were noble and true. Their Faith was as solid as the adamantine base of proud Ben Venu; their hope was as loty as the cloud-cupt summit of Ben Ladi; their charity or love was as placid and pure as the face of Lough Katrine or the bosom of Lough Lomond; while their lives flowed on, between banks of alternate flowery slopes and rugged rocks, like their own historic Tweed. On Culloden's gory field a blow was given to the Jacobite hopes of the Highlanders; proud Cumberland, whose "bloody eye" shone on defeat at, Fontenoy, sat upon his charger that
