Poetry. THE GLOOM OF AUTUMN. (For the Huron Signal.)

Hail ! ye sighing sons of sorrow View with me the Autumnal gloom; Learn from thence your fate to-morrow, Dead, perhaps laid in the tomb. See all nature, fading, dying, Silent all things seem to mourn, Life from vegetation dying, Brings to mind the mouldering urn. Often, Autumn tempest rising, Makes the lofty forests nod; atch. Letters in all cases must be addressed, Scenes of Nature how surprising View in Nature; Natures God

See our Sovereign, sole Creator Lives eternal in the sky, While we mortals yield to nature, Bloom awnile, then tade and die. v6-n10

Nations fall by dread Bellona, Through the tyranny of King's, Just like plants in pale pamona, Pall, to tise in future springs. Mournful scenes when vegetation Death and frost and worms devour, Doubly painful, when a nation Falls by neighbouring nation's power. DRY Goods, Groceries, Hardware, Crockers, Stationery, &c., &c., &c., Corner of Hamilton Street, Market Square, Goderich, p22

Death and war my mind depresses, Autumn shows me my decay, Calls to mind my past distresses, Warns me of a dying day. Autumn makes me melancholy, Strikes dejection through my soul, While I mourn my former folly, Waves of sorrow o'er me roll.

What to me are Autumn's treasures, Since I know no earthly joy; Long I've lost all youhiti pleasures. Time must youth and health destroy. Pleasures once I fondly courted, Blooming like the blushing rose; Ah ! to me, how once I sported, Now embitters all my woes.

Age and sorrow since have blasted Every youthful pleasing dream; Quivering age with youth contrasted Oh ! how short their glories seem. As the autumnal frosts are cropping Leaves and tendrils from the trees, So our friends are yearly dropping. By old age and dire disease.

Former friends, how oft I've sought then Former triends, how oft I've sought then Just to cheer my drouping mind; But they're gone, like leaves in Auumn, Driven before the dreary wind. When a new more years are wasted, When a few more days are o'er. When a few more griefs are tasted, I must fall to rise

Fast my sun of life's declining, Soon t'will set in endless night; But my b pes, pure and refining, Rest in future life and light. Cease thy fearing, trembling, sighing, Death shall break the sullen gloom; Must be borne beyond the ton
