THE

Broken Heart!

A pale wan man was seen, Crouching among the thistle's flowers,

And angry was his mien.
The moment that he heard my step,
He turned on me quite bold,

And then into my willing ear,

Did his sad tale unfold.

I bought a pound of Tea, he said,
When I went into Town, And as I came up Graham's hill, My Tea it all went down.

She said I knew the Tea had strength,

Through twenty bags 'twould go,
And had I the Tea securely wrap'd,
'Twould not have happened so.

He paused, the tears streamed down l

face,
His bosom heaved a sigh.
And then he said with a bowed head,
To gather the Tea I'll try.
He tried, he tried and tried again,

And begged that I'd lend him the price

Then looked quite sad at me.

f on me he would call

saw he was much moved.

We've had our cup of Tea,

We get the Tea to suit our taste

By giving Ball a call. His Tea has strength and flavor too, It makes us feel quite strong:

Then said the thing that charmed the hearts
Was the pleasing kettle's song,
And now, kind friends, my story's don

Of another pound of Tea. I said I'd lend him just the price,

He said he guessed he'd rather not, For he bought his Tea of Ball. I handed out the cash at once, When he went on his way.

I met this sad, yet pleasant man Again on Saturday. I told him that he looked quite spruce,

That he had much improved, He looked, and as he caught my eye,
