

Croup

Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis, Balls Creek, N.S., writes:—
"My little boy, aged six years, had a very bad case of croup, of which nothing seemed to help him. Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine was resorted to, and he was soon entirely relieved."
(Mr. Alex. J. Campbell, J.P., states: "This is to certify that I am acquainted with Mrs. Joseph Lewis, and believe her statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Linseed to be true and correct.")

ABOUT SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

"Sometimes I don't know what to make of my children," the mother of five said to me ruefully the other day. "They do and say such queer things. The thing that bothers me most is the way Richard and Jane fight. They seem to positively hate each other. It seems to me the most awful thing for a brother and sister to feel that way."

"She seemed to think her case was unique. I suspect that many, many mothers who read this column could rise up and tell her that it is not."

Within a few days I have seen two such cases of uncongeniality—both, by the way, between older brothers and a younger sister.

He Was Painfully Sincere.

In one case I said jestingly to the mother of three girls and a boy: "Mrs. R. has three boys and a girl, you had better trade with her." Whereupon the elder brother who had overheard me spoke up, "Give her Ann," he said with an obvious sincerity that was rather appalling.

In the other case the mother told me that the brother teased his sister so that she felt sure the child really hated him.

Of course all these cases may have been, and probably were, simply temporary phases. After the worst of the teasing stage is past, the brother and sister may become very fond of each other again. That often happens.

But there are cases in which two children in the same family are uncongenial at the beginning and remain uncongenial to the end. Such cases are unfortunate, of course; but what will you do?

Not Necessarily to Blame.

There is nothing abnormal about them, nothing necessarily to the discredit of either child. These antagonisms of temperament occur every day and it is unfortunate, but not strange, that they should sometimes occur among brothers and sisters.

Think the matter over. Perhaps all the traits you enjoy least in your husband have gone into one child and all the traits he enjoys least in you have gone into another. Is it strange that the two personalities thus made up should not jibe?

But what is one going to do about it when this happens in one's family? Nothing.

Don't Force Them on Each Other.

No, on second thoughts I don't mean that. One cannot do anything to radically change the natural uncongeniality. That is inevitable. But what one can do is to let them keep apart as much as they possibly can; do everything in one's power to teach them the self-control that keeps harmony even where there is not congeniality; and lastly, do what one can to help each child understand the other, and to be as insofar as in you lies, a just judge in the disputes that will inevitably come up between them.

It appalls me sometimes when I think of the wisdom a woman needs to be a really wise and impartial mother-judge. What Lincoln once said always comes to my mind in this connection (I quote from memory and under correction):

"Many times I am driven to my knees by the feeling that I have no place else to go."

Harbor Grace Notes.

It is with much regret that we learned the sad news on Thursday that Miss Johanna McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Frank McCormick of Bristol's Hope, had passed away at the General Hospital, St. John's, where she had gone for treatment. Miss McCormick had been ailing but a short time, and on Tuesday went over to the city to undergo an operation at the above institution for appendicitis, which sad to say, did not prove successful. The body will be brought here for interment. Our condolence is offered to the sorrowing family.

Quite a number of our unemployed have received tickets necessary for work on Bell Island, and are now waiting the arrival of a steamer to convey them to the Island. It appears that the dissatisfaction over the matter of half time among the men has been settled to some extent, and we trust they will not be held up here owing to unfavorable weather.

The train which had been tied up since Wednesday, arrived yesterday afternoon, after a short stay at Carbonear, passed through again for St. John's. Near the Look Out quite a time was spent shovelling the snow banks and making a cut during Wednesday and Thursday. We hope that the snow squalls for this winter are over, and as the season is so far advanced we believe there are not many more due us.

A good many of our townspeople had the pleasure of seeing the aeroplane flying over the town yesterday and many were disappointed at not being so fortunate. This is quite an odd spectacle, and we hope to see the plane call again soon. Such a visitor is a rare thing at this time of the year—and in fact, at any time, although it is not so long since the "Handley Page" was here in our midst.—COR.

EDDIE MCGINLEY OPENS ENGAGEMENT AT CRESCENT.

Mr. Eddie McGinley, famous vaudeville comedian direct from Loews Circuit, Boston, arrived by the Digby on Friday night, and opened an engagement at the Crescent Theatre on Saturday. "Eddie" was given a tremendous ovation and caused convulsions of laughter from the audience. He appeared in original laughing blackface satire. His sketch being a complete vaudeville entertainment in itself, consisting of well selected songs, followed by a bright monologue and catchy steps. His parody on "I Got A Girl in Mobile" adapted to St. John's was an instantaneous hit calling forth a rousing applause, to which he was compelled to respond to repeated encore. As advertised elsewhere in this issue Eddie will appear to-night in a complete change of programme, singing popular and novelty songs, telling funny stories which build up his laughs as he goes along. Eddie McGinley is also a well known and popular baseball player, and manager and catcher of the Providence, R.I. Independents, and last season developed Jack Conroy the Providence Southpaw, who summured with the Boston Braves to the pitching peak. Eddie has some wonderful baseball recitations and monologues in store for patrons of the popular Crescent.

Level the Gulches.

Shelter sheds are now being erected at Signal Hill and on the Southside for the accommodation of those who will be employed at stone breaking. A large number of men are still engaged snow shovelling in the city, principally in the back streets. It is stated that this work so far has cost over $20,000. Some very useful work would be accomplished if some of the gangs of men were sent to work levelling the gulches on New Dover and Duckworth Street. The accident to cabman Baker was caused by his being thrown from his sleigh whilst crossing a gulch.
