hulk. Intense excitement prevailed in Dublin up' to Sunday night, but has since given way to deep and solemn silence, which denotes stern preparation and resolve. A liberal provision will be made by the nation for the convict's family. When a verdict of guilty against Mr. Mitchell was delivered, a scene of great confusion ensued in the court, but the tranquillity of the city of Dublin was not materially disturbed.

On the following day, the 27th ult., Mr. Mitchell was brought up for sentence, and after some speeches, equally defiant as his previous conduct of all authority whatsoever, he was sentenced by the court to 14 years' transportation. On the same day, he was conveyed in the ordinary prison van to a Government steamer lying close to the quay. We torbear to touch here upon all the liberty and tyranny are struggling for the tender and affecting circumstances of the upper hand.
