THE ASIATIC LABOR PROBLEM. Nor is Mr. Bruce Smith in accord with the Government in minor matters of administration. He criticised harshly the mail muddle, which has since been settled. This has been the main topic, indeed, for some months past. Labor influences in the last parliament succeeded in inserting into the Postal Act a clause that mail contracts should not be given to any steamers that carried colored crews. This was extending the White Australia policy to a White has a colored crews are now carried by both the Orient and the P. & O. lines, which together supply Australia with an excellent weekly mail service to London. SOCIETY.

"English society has changed a great deal in the last 30 years," said Lady Jeune. "Thirty years ago, for instance, people with small incomes did not keep a carriage. The women did not dress as they do now, but on the other hand, at that time each costume was more expensive than now. In fact, the cheapening of food and clothes, and the other necessaries of life is the outstanding feature of the last 30 years,

In her case, if an eminent man hitherto unknown in society was invited to dinner, it was a matter of course with Lady Jeune to invite his wife also. I brought up my own children with as little restraint upon them as possible. Indeed, it may be said that these are the days for the young. It seems to me the better way, for it is a great thing to have treated your children from an early age as friends, so that they look back to nothing but happy memories, and to a time when their lives were without cloud or sorrow.
