As for the Island improvements, we cannot act too promptly in doing something that will preserve for us this most valuable possession. Torontonians do not exactly thow yet what an acquisition the sandbar at them and to the city. Take the Island on the control of the control of the control of the control of the city.

is to them and to the city. Take the Island from Toronate and you take away her most beautiful decoration.

Whenever there is need of water mains there should be money on hand to build them, and if the money is not raised by debentures it, will be got in some other way. The issue of debentures is the best way of raising the funds in this case.

We hope to see more interest taken in the voting only these bylaws to day than was manufested when they were submitted a short sime ago. Everyone who is qualified to vote should make a point of putting in his yea or may, otherwise it will be farcical to submit to the peeple any such measures at all. When a great majority of the voters are indifferent, a very small elique can, with a little pushing, direct the voting as they please.

Take Infertunate Country.

The was to believe all we hear there never was such an unfortunate country as this Caneda. With British free trade on one side of us and Amesican protection on the other, we are fased to be ground up as if between the upper and the nether milistone. We are to be weighted with the disadvantages of both, while at the same time we are allowed the advantages of neither. To begin with, protection over the border is pronounced a tremendous success; the greatest of this or any other age. Yet, whenever we propose to try the same policy on this side, we are told that for Canada to make such an attempt would be utterly preposerous. Our business should be limited strictly to what are "natural industries" in this country. These, we should maderstand, are the production of lumber, fieb, iron ore, grain, live stock, meat, butter, cheese, and such like. The making of cloths, metalgoods, machinery and, generally speaking, all included in the term "manufactures." are industries" in this country. These, we should understand, are the production of lumber, fish, iron ore, grain, live stock, meat, butter, cheese, and such like. The making of cloths, mederstand, are the production of lumber, fish, iron ore, grain, live stock, meat, butter, these, and such like. The making of cloths, metalgoods, machinery and, generally speaking, all included in the term "maunfactures," are things we had better leave alone. We fail to find any "natural" reason for this. Such reasons as have been alleged or hinted at are artificial—in their characters all through, and are far from being of "natural" growth. Let us take one case for example.

The cotton manufacture is one the growth and extent of which can be accurately noted from year to year, inasmuch as all its raw material has to be imported, thus enabling us to tell from the custom house records just what it amounts to. Well, during the fiscal year 1877-78 we imported about seven and half million pounds of raw cotton. During the year 1885-86 we imported some thirty millies pounds, or four times as much, so that is the interval our production of octton goods had multiplied by four times. So remarkable a growth as this seems to show that the industry was somewhat natural to the country, we should say. And yet this industry is by the free traders classed as smong those which we should not attempt at all, because it is not like the production of grain or potatoes—"natural"—to the country. And yet you cannot give us any shadow of a reason why the cotton manufacture is any more "natural"—to the country, we should not attempt at all, because it is not like the production of grain or potatoes—"natural"—to the country. And yet you cannot give us any shadow of a reason why the cotton manufacture is any more "natural"—to the country. And yet you cannot give us any shadow of a reason why the cotton manufacture is any more "natural"—to the country. And yet you cannot give us any shadow of a reason why the cotton manufacture is any more "natural"—to the country. And yet you cannot give us any shadow of a reason why the cotton manufacture is any more "natural"—to the country, and yet this is in this province of Ontario, or anywhere in L

London, Aug. 1.—In the House of Commons to day Mr. Balfour, replying to a question by Mr. Parnell, intimated that it was probable that the Government would withdraw the clauses of the Land Bill which yet awaited action, and were of a nature to excite opposition if the passage of the measure would be thus expedited. Continuing, he said it was unfair for the Opposition to introduce other clauses outside the intention of the bill.

Mr. Parnell disclaimed all intention of bringing on extraneous metter, and promised that most of the amendments offered by the Nationalists should be withdrawn.

Mr. W. H. Smith stated that in order to facilitate the closing of the session the Government would persist in but few of the measures before the House, including those relating to the regulation of mines, and the commutation of allotments and titles. The House would, Mr. Smith said, sit on Saturdays until prorogued.
