of an obsequious ministry. It occurred, therefore, to Sir Robert Peel, that, as Mr. O'Connell seemed totally unaware of his altered circumstances in the present parliament, and of the humbler tone which it behoves him to assume, it was but right in the very outset of the session to apprize the learned gentleman of the real nature of his new position. The right hon france proceeded at once, therefore, to bet him know the difference between a party which hailed his alliance and a party which proudly scouts it—to show him that in a House of Comwhich proudly scouts it—to show him that in a House of Com-mons representing the true sense of the British nation, the slang of a vulgar Irish bully will no longer be endured—to teach him, in short, that Mr. Daniel O'Connell's political fortunes are identified in the start the start of the start the start of the start the identified with those of his quondam Whig fags, and that the said Mr. Daniel is now reduced, as nearly as may be, to the condition of a noisy nonentity. During the progress of this exeruciating operation, the learned patient was obviously in great torture; but when the tellers aunounced the majority of ninety-one, the knell of O'Connellis was tolled. Now, it is quite right that the indocide spirit which formerly animated that lifeless carcase should pass into purgatory in the usual canonical way. It has a frightful amount of iniquity to get rid of. We hardly know of any fires that can be a finite to the state of the state that can sufficiently parify it. The parliamentary ordeal, how-ever, which still awaits it is a pretty hot one. Its libels upon the women of England will be burnt to tinder. Its calumnies blace upon the "six hundred scoundrels" will be consumed in a blaze. Its many malversations upon the factory question will demand extra fuel. Its venal boroughmongering must crackle in the flaming furnace. Its rent extortions will be reduced to ashes : and after the bellows and crucible have taken their inevitable effect, Mr. Daniel O'Connell will be delivered to big executors effect, Mr. Daniel O'Connell will be delivered to his executors

AWFUL DELUSION .- THE CRUCIFIX.-During the late AWFOL DELUSION.— THE CRUCIPIX.— During the line election, the Kilkenny pikemen suspended a large crucifix from a rope, fastened to trees at each side of the road, and every man that approached Carlow was compelled to march under that crucifix, and pledge himself to support O'Connell and Yates, at any risk. A frigt from a problem in the march whose name is any risk. A friar, from a neighbouring county, whose name is in our possession, harangued the excited multitude at this spot, surrounded by thousands of pikes, which were openly exhibited, and he told them that as the crucifix was the "standard of their religion." religion," they were bound to rally round it, and to fight even to death for that religion. The mob flourished their pikes, and to seath for that religion. The mob flourished their pikes, and crited they were ready to march. At this moment an express arrived that the military, with two field-pieces of cannon, were advancing, when the friar fled; the Kilkenny heroes took to their heels, and the deluded rabble, deserted by their spiritual and temporal leaders, turned their backs to the town, and re-traced their steps homewards, so exhausted and fatigued, that many of them perished on the road that night.—Carlow Sen-timed

A gentlemen of the name of Blake, one of the pages to her Majesty was stretched upon a bed of sickness, and was found to be approaching his end. Her Majesty, with that solicitude which she evinces for even the lowest menial in her household, was particular in her inquiries after him day by day, and on learning from his medical attendafter him day by day, and on learning from his medical attendafter him day by day, and on learning from his medical attend-ant that but faint hopes were entertained of his recovery, she proceeded without delay and unattended to his bed-side, and spoke sweet words of comfort to the dying man, bidding him to rely upon the all-sufficient merits of his Saviour for acceptance with his God, when the things of this world, which were fast fading from him, should have closed upon his mortal sight. She begged him to feel quite comfortable as to his wife and family, for that she would provide for them, and to pass the few short hours that remained to him on earth in preparing to few short hours that remained to him on earth in preparing to meet his God and the coming judgment. Such words of com-fort, we may hope, produced their proper effect, and that the spirit of the departed will have reason, through eternity, to press his Reduced for the proper effect. praise his Redeemer for sending such a messenger of mercy to comfort him in his dying moments. A few days after his de-cease, her Majesty sent for the sorrowing widow, who was left with a family of seven children, and announced her inten-

THE "LATTER-DAY SAINT" SWINDLE. (From the Cheltenham Journal.)

We promised last week to present our readers with some further particulars respecting this extraordinary delusion, which has estranged the minds of the old and the young-persons of has estranged the innus of the out and the young - persons of substance as well as the labouring classes—and induced them to leave their fatherland to become squatters in one of the most unhealthy parts of America, with wild savages for their neighbours, and an uncultivated tract of land for the scene of their operations. The party we alluded to last week is named Marfrom Mullinalaghter in the county Longford, a poor man who voted for Mr. Lefroy was lately assailed by two of the congre-gation, who spat in his face. The priest identified himself with the persuasions of an itinerant saint, who used to preach in the gation, who spat in his face. The priest identified himself with the ruffians, extinguished the candles on the altar, and indig-nantly exclaimed that he would not celebrate mass "so long as that fellow remained in the chapel." We understand that the that fellow remained in the chapel." We understand that the assault is to come under the cognisance of the magistrates at petty sessions.— Dublin Statesman. THE CLONCURRY PEERAGE.—The eldest son and heir of the ultra-Liberal Lord Cloncurry has for some time showed the most unequivocal dislike to his father's political principles. The Monitor of this night publishes a letter from the hon, gentle man, stopping his subscription to that paper, because of its at tacks upon Colonel Bruen, and some other Conservative prothey found thousands of the disciples of Mormonism undergoing the most deplorable privations incidental on a new settlement, badly supplied with the necessaries of life—comforts completely out of the question. Mrs. Margretts, in a short conversation we had with her, said they had not been there more than a week before the flour stock of the colony was exhausted, and her children crying around her for bread. The woman saw through the affair quicker than her fanatical husband; but the cloud which for a time obscured his common sense was soon doomed to pass away. In the numerous conversations he had with the renowned Joe Smith, the father of the sect, the prophet of Mormon upon earth, he found much more of the calculator than the saint about him—he found that worthy and respectable impostor better acquainted with the mysteries of pounds, shilthan the saint about him—he found that worthy and respectable in postor better acquainted with the mysteries of pounds, shil-lings, and pence, and the multiplication table, than he was with texts from the Book of Mormon. Instead of teasting our friend the pig-dealer's soul with further descriptions of the promised heaven he was daily dunning him to purchase a "beautiful tract of land" in this town (?) of Nauvoo; instead promised networn ne was daily duffining num to purchase a "beautiful tract of land" in this town (?) of Nauvoo; instead of shewing Mr. Margretts of the Leigh, the identical gold plates on which the Book of Mormon was written by the angel from above, he was making daily overtures for taking him into part-nership in his store ! Joseph told the Gloucestershire man that the angel took the gold plates back again with him into Heaven, and Joseph wanted to extract the gold from the poor deluded man's pocket, to replace them we should suppose. Mar-gretts did not like the explanation, his wife did not like the country, his children did not fancy going without bread, the sense as well as the appetites of the party were sharpened, they opened their eyes and looked about them. They found, by inquiring of some of the deluded wretches who had been there some time, and were unable to move for want of funds, that the legel title of the apostle to the land he was ven-ding to his followers was very questionable—they said that he

THE FUNERAL OF THE LATE LORD SYDENHAM. FRIDAY, Sept. 24.

The last act of respect has been paid to the late Governor-The last act of respect has been paid to the late Governor-General of Canada, and his mortal remains now "slumber in the silent tomb." At the suggestion of the town authorities, notified some time previous, the whole of this day has been made a "day of mourning," and observed with all the solemnity of the Sabbath. The shops and places of business have been entirely closed, and all trading and mechanical operations were stopped—the flags of the vessels in the harboar drooped mourn-fully at helf meat, and the neople of the town, every where, stopped—the flags of the vessels in the harbour drooped mouri-fully at half mast, and the people of the town, every where, put on, along with the garments, the "spirit of heaviness."— The funeral procession was appointed to leave Government House at 11 o'clock, A.M. The bells commenced tolling at nine o'clock, and continued to do so till one o'clock, when the nine o'clock, and continued to do so till one o'clock, when the ceremony was over. Soon after ten, all the troops in garrison arrived, consisting of the 14th Regiment, the left wing of the 43rd, the Royal Artillery (on foot), Kingston Volunteer Artil-lery, and the two troops of the King's Dragoon Guards and Major Magrath's Lancers. These lined both sides of Churchstreet, at double distance, extending from St. George's Church a long way up the road by which the faneral was to pass. The only military features in the procession, besides the attendance of officers, were the band of the 14th Regiment, giving to the

She desired her to send such of her family as were of sufficient age to school in the neighbourhood at her expense, and that as they grew up she would provide for them. What Englishman does not feel a real pleasure in becoming acquasingted with such princely acts of benevolence in the widow of our late belowed Sovereign, and in knowing that this nation has placed it within her power to display, by such instances as these, the kindness, and nobleness of her queen-like nature.—Cheltenham Chronicle.

However, he was bound to believe it; no land-buying transactions for him—no partnerships in stores could be though of—flight, "inglorious flight," was his only resource; so, after a three-weeks' peep at the new Jerusalem, he, his wife, and his family, gave Joseph the slip, and halted not until they got to a Christian community, to the town of Port Louis; their reason for this secrecy was that they feared an attempt might be made to stop them. The Apostle, fearing that they would not "settle," had told a confidant of his to say that if they attempted to return through St. Louis they would be mobbed and probably preached a sermon with reference to the demise of the Governor General. A Hymn of a funeral character was substituted for the usual Psalm; and, in addition to this, Pope's beautiful address of The Dying Christian to his soul, was sung by the address of The Dying Christian to his soul, was sung by the choir, which is weekly becoming more effective, in a very solemn and thrilling manner. The 43rd Regiment marched to and from the Cathedral without the usual accompaniment from the band. In the afternoon, the Rev. H. general mourning for thirty days,—Montreal Gazette. AMERICAN INCENDIARIES.—Early on Fiday morning last an attempt was made to destroy the government steamers Toronto and Minas, which were lying at anchor some distance above Chippawa, by means of two kegs of gunpowder, sent floating down the river on a raft of peculiar construction. One of the kegs exploded about fifty yards from the Toronto without doing any damage; the other sunk. A boat was seen and hailed by the guard on deck, which crossed over to the American side, and it is supposed that the perpetrators of this fresh stroicity were the persons in that boat.—Ningara Chronicle. SHIP GONG OVER THE FALLS.—Yesterday was a great day at the Falls. Thousands of people assembled there from all quarters to behold what, in the plazards, was called the "sublime experiment." of a ship going over the cataract, and, judging, by Ningara, we should say that the towns and villages of this region were nevier, on any occa-sion, so emptied of their population; thirless, perhaps, ft was when the United States soldiery tried the "sublime experiment." of leaping over the precipice at Queenston. Soon after three o'clock the ship began to move from her mooring, and th a short time we could see two small boats leaving her filled with men. As she neared the rapids it was evident that she was too near the American side for the experi-ment to turn out successful , had she been forty or fifty yards closer to our shore, we have no doubt but she would have crossed the precipice entire, though probably not without the loss of her masts.— On she came at a quick rate and plunged, into the rapids, soon after davanced a little further, lost the other mast, and finally struck the rocks, where she was firmly fixed when we left the scene, and will most likely remain there unfil the ice of next winter knocks her to pieces. The name of the ship originally was Detroil, but with the ald of a spy-glass we could perceive that she had been re-christenee Fzto, which ha

Every presented has been spectators below mere pigmies. Every precaution has been taken to guard against the possibility of accident occurring to the workmen. From the immense size of the dome, its complete repair is a work of great labour and magnitude.

THE "OVERPAID" ESTABLISHMENT IN IRELAND .- From the last published report of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in Ireland, it appears that the stipends paid to the 36 licensed curates of Dublin amount to 2013/. 19s. 4d.; while the salaries to commissioners, screetary, treasurer, and clerks, are 62622. 3a, 6d. THE EFFECT OF UNDER-DRAINING.—There is a field on the estate of the Earl of Leicester, at Longford, in this county, which some years ago was occupied by Mr. John Sherratt, and brought forth rushes in such abundance that the occupier gave leave to anybody to carry them away who would be at the trouble to mow them. Three years ago the field was drained, ander the direction of Mr. T. Harper, of Foston, and this year, we are told, the present occupier, Mr. T. THE EFFECT OF UNDER-DRAINING .- There is a field on THE CONVICT FROST.—A gentleman who lately arrived in the fight with fists and kickings, just as if a gang of pugilists had became general. Can any thing better be expected from demo-rost with a gang of his fellow-prisoners, was missing. They had procured a whaling-boat, with which they attempted to esand the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finialized, and so the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finial the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finial the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finial the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finial the scene of sicking the Bill, in the Canadat A finial the scene of the scene on his farm, was all a delusion! This was the unkindest cut of all. However, he was bound to believe it; no land-buying

"settle," had told a conduct of his to say the hey and they are they are to return through St. Louis they would be mobbed and probably murdered; but the intimidation had no effect on Margretts and his wife. Arrived at St. Louis, they found hundreds of Mormonites who had escaped the fange of Mr. Smith, compelled to take up their residence there from sheer want of money to carry them further. To show the delusion in its true character it is only necessary to say that Mrs. Margretts told us money was any of the three salaried commissioners who have entertained us with the report from which we extract our figures. THE DEATH OF THE CHARTIST PREACHER MOORE.—We mentioned a few days since the death of this Chartist, in the Tewkesbury Union workhouse. Just before he died he made a solemn declaration, from which we extract the more impor-tant part:—"I here solemnly declare on what I expect to be soon my dying bed, and before that God in whose presence I joining the Chartist Association. Little did I whink that I was going to surround myself with men of primeiples so con-trary to those of pure religion. Oh that I had listened to Christian advice! And now I wish it to be known throughout having so aufold.

UNITED STATES.

Political disorganization, and unchecked lawlessness continue to increase in the United States. The Whig (i. e. the Conservative) Cabinet have all resigned, except Mr. Webster, in consequence of Mr. President Tyler's second Veto. At various places the President has been burnt, shot at, and insulted, in every possible manuer in officer burth.

even in after years, will never be forgotten. After the sentences in the burial service were read, the choir sung a hymn. After dixi custodiam was read, the choir chaunted "Domine Refugium," (Psalm xc.) When the lesson was finished, and while the body was lowering into the vault, the choir sung an appropriate anthem. The service being completed, large numbers of the inhabitants visited the Church to see the vault and the mourning decorations. The vault is built under the floor of the middle aisle, not far from the altar, and near the pulpit and reading-desk .-The body was inclosed in three coffins,—the inner one of walnut, the next of lead, and the outer one of mahogany, covered with black silk velvet. There was no ornament upon the coffin, except a silver plate with the inscription, surmounted by the coronet of the deceased.

by the coronet of the deceased. Many people came from a distance to the funeral. Among others, the Mayor of Oswego, and several gentlemen from that place and Sackett's Harbour. We also noticed the Mayor of Toronto and Mr. Sheriff Jarvis in the procession. Yesterday it rained all day; but to-day it has been fine weather, affording the crowds from the town and country a good opportunity to witness the funeral.—Montreal Gazette.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the Rev. Mr. Cartwright, anticipating the wishes of the very large concourse of spectators, gave orders to admit all such as wished to take a last look of the final state. the final resting place of the illustrious deceased; and hundreds accordingly proceeded in files up the centre aisle, returning by the two side aisles; this prevented, I believe, a great deal of confusion—by two o'clock the company had, for the most part, dispersed.-Toronto Herald.

The plate on the coffin was of silver, surmounted by a The inscription was as follows :---
