

trading partner for many countries. Canadian exporters can successfully tap the China market if they are price- and quality-competitive, prepared for sometimes lengthy negotiations, and committed for the long term.