PARLIAMENTARY DELEGATION

PRESENTATION OF REPORT OF OFFICIAL VISIT TO NEW ZEALAND

Mr. Charles DeBlois (Beauport—Montmorency—Orléans): Mr. Speaker, pursuant to Standing Order 34, I have the honour to present to the House, in both official languages, the report of a parliamentary delegation's official visit to New Zealand. At the invitation of the Speaker of the New Zealand House of Representatives, a Canadian delegation visited New Zealand from November 8 to 14, 1992, and I have the honour to present this report. At this occasion, we had productive discussions with New Zealand parliamentarians on a number of issues of mutual interest, in particular international trade and Canada—New Zealand relations in general.

We had the privilege of having meetings with the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, who extended their warmest thanks to Canada for helping New Zealand get a seat on the United Nations Security Council.

Finally, meetings were organized with some business people who have operations in Canada. This was certainly a successful visit and a most rewarding experience for participants from both countries.

I wish to thank our New Zealand hosts for their hospitality, their kindness and the excellent agenda prepared on our behalf. I also wish to thank and commend the members of the Canadian delegation for their contribution and for having so ably represented this House.
