

196 Heligoland to Keeling Island

It is an old saying that the British Navy can "go anywhere and do anything." The operations on the Belgian coast put an almost literal interpretation on that phrase.