I peeches followed from W. R. hite, Q. C., Rev. Mr. Carson and Hon. Peter White. Dr. Presson, M. L. A., for North Lanark, he first speaker, said the Conservative party had more than a fighting chance to regain North Renfrew, and he believed that if each Conservative did his part there should be no doubt but that the electors would speak in favor of the Conservative party on the first opportunity which presented itself. He ridiculed the idea that the present Government had a surplus, and condemned Hon. John Dryden's administration of the agricultural affairs of the Province.

assailed in the present day by "forces issuing from the gates of hell."

In opening he discussed the reasons Christ gave to regenerate and reform humanity. Because of the turpitude, the vice, the idolatry and the depravity of men, the Messiah came to redeem the lost world.

And first the family had to be purified, regenerated, transformed into a foundation of virtue and holiness. How was this to be effected? By the institution of the holy sacrament of matrimony, the indispensable corner-stone of the new civilization.

author of the bill says it is an outrage that one man should lose his life through the criminal carelessness of another, and that other get.off scot free. "I thought it was a deer," is getting to be as common a plea as "I didn't know it was loaded," and neither should entirely excuse the pleader.

The news that the Imperial War Office has decided to confer medals on those who took part in the fight against the Fenians in 1866 and the "subsequent troubles" will be halled with the greatest satisfaction uy many veterans, who will march in "subsequent" patriotic processions with greater vim than ever. The "subsequent troubles" of the cablegram giving the information is, rather vague, but I suppose the term includes both the Riel rebellions of 1869 and 1885. If my conclusion is right, there will henceforth be lots of bold warriors entitled to wear medals, and quite a number a medal and a clasp. ressary legal authority to preserve order and protect property in this section of the country, both of which are believed to be jeopardized by the large number of lawless characters gathered near the nouth of the Yukon.

The wonderful Diamond Dyes have found ago reached the highest point of fame and popularity. They are called into use in the homes of all classes in Canada, and have always been true to name and given the most unbounded satisfaction. It is as easy to dye a dress, coat, vest or pair of trousers with Diamond Dyes as to wash any of these saffments.

With the Diamond Dyes—so easy to use—there is no necessity for sending work to the city steam dyeing establishments where you pay from $1.50 to $2.00 for work that you can do in your home at a cost of from ten to twenty cents.

The ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union chose wisely when they selected Toronto as the place for holding their international convention and Buffalo for the national convention, which follows closely after it. In this way the good women will see two very handsome and hospitable cities, which will present some marked contrasts for their study. They will be able to ride on the Toronto street cars on Sunday, a recent Innovation, and will find unusual opportunities for investigating the workings of the beneficent Raines law on Sundays in Buffalo. The Toronto Sunday and the Buffalo Sunday will alike interest Home dyeing with Diamond Dyes is

The cable informs us that the "Leftists" and "Rightists" of the Austrian Unterhaus—lower house of Parliament, I suppose—on Tuesday night indulged in a free fight. A more august assemblage than the Unterhaus indulged in the same kind of thing not many years ago, but the combatants were honored by more dignified names. "Leftists" and "Rightists" is evidently a mere cable coinage.

Referring to my suggestion that railway companies should insure their passengers against injury, a correspondent suggests that the idea would be all right except for the fact that it would give a lot of trouble. Not a bit of it. The only difference would be that in case of accident the company would escape sult for damages, law costs would be lessened, medical evidence would be unnecessary, delay would be avoided, and the passenger would know exactly what was coming to him. There would be no more chances for fraud than there are now.

It is not always that an American is so absolutely fair. If the extra nice fall we have been having would but hold out a wee bit longer, how the ladies would enjoy themselves, but the condition of the trees is ominous! Mr. Martin is one of the pioneer painters of Canada, having come here from England 30 years ago; he has ground grey in his profession, and is at present a picturesque old gentleman, who, aside from being a familiar local artist, is an interesting talker on many subjects. He is exclusive the control of It costs something to run even a Mayoralty election in New York. Senator Platt,

He is ex-clusively a painter of Canadian subjects, believing, as he does, that an artist should be the painter of his own times and coun-try. He follows the seasons pretty well in his work, painting landscape in the sum-mer, still life (such as gamo, fruit, etc.) in the autump, and devotes much of his time to portraits in the winter. Russell Sage is said to have entered into aussen sage is said to have entered into a scheme to defeat the machinations of the Huntington-Gould syndicate to obtain control of the Union Pacific Railway. But where does Russell sage come in? He has never been accused of patriotic philanthropy before, and it is hardly likely that he is prepared to plead guilty now.

to portraits in the winter.

Mr. Martin, besides his large figure subjects, which are characteristically Canadian, has some nice things in water-color, the results of his summer outing at Springfield, charming sunny bits of wheat fields and farmhouses, shady nooks in low tones, with pines and maples and rippling brooks, which will find ready sale, so bright they are and so moderate in price.

one of Mr. Martin's most character! the and original bits of work is a figure subject; in the immediate foreground are two large oxen, against which a farmer leans weeping. His sheep dog is beside him, and near are some geese. In the background is the postoffice, with a figure in the door. The farmer has evidently been there and received bad news, for at his feet lies a black-edged envelope, which is the cause of his sorrow. The story is quite a sal one, from which one turns mournfully away to look at the still life, flower pieces, and landscape, of which there are such large numbers. Mr. Martin will undoubtedly, judging by his success so far, make a good sale of his work. Mr. Martin has very kind things to say of the Toronto public, which has stood by him and encouraged him so many years, and certainly just now there seems to be no falling off in his popularity. Charlotte Bronte was of the opinion that a memory without blot or contamination must be an exquisite treasure. That is my dpinion also, and my memory proved itself contaminated when, in referring the other day to the anniversary of Lord Palmerston's death—vesterday was the 113th of his birth—I spoke of 94 Piccadilly as Cowper House, instead of Cambridge House. Lord Palmerston married Lady Cowper, the widow of the fifth earl and sister of Lord Melbourne. As the Lady survived Old Pam, and both as Lady Cowper and as Lady Palmerston lived at Cambridge House, the mistake, it will be seen, was one easily made. It is a member of the Naval and Military Club, now resident of the city, who corrects me. The M. and M. Club, whose guest I had the honor of being six or seven years ago, are the present tenants of Cambridge House, which was pamed after the youngest son of George III., who died there in 1850.

Kingston, Oct. 20 .- A son of Charles Ereman of Gananoque, 14 years of age, manufactured a small cannon from the handle bar of a bleyele, and, along with some other boys, was testing the new toy. They put in quite a large charge of powder and as he set off the cannon it recoiled and struck him near the eye, along the nose, boring a hole in his head for a distances of four or five inches. Fortunately, however, the base of the brain was not touched, nor is it expected that the sight of the eye will be destroyed.

Forty of the hymn books loaned to the andience at the Moody meetings were not to be found at the close. The secretary of the Y. M. C. A. is advertising for their return. Brennan of Gananoque, 14 years of age,
