Why Shouldn't He Look Pleased?

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "do you enjoy what people say about you?" "Well," said Hiram, "I don't. A fellow likes to think other folks know he's alive and kicking." As to what they say, that's another thing. If they think a lot of me they'll mention my credit for a hull lot I never thought of before. If they don't, I'll be glad to be overlooked. You can't expect anybody to strike a true balance, an' it 'ud be mighty hard to live up to one 'tiler or down to t'other one. I guess the man that don't hang round waitin' to find out what somebody else thinks or pretends to think about him is best off in the end. He knows himself what he orto be an' do—an' that's enough. It ain't no use to get thin-skinned. Jist jog along an' let most of what you hear about yourself go in one ear an' out the other. I find that a fast-better rule, an' one that makes you sleep better an' do more the next day—yes, sir."
