JAIL DELIVERY IN 'DERRY FAILS

Two Policemen Killed in Republican Attempt.

Invaders Successful in Getting in and Forcing Ten Cell Doors Before Discovering Gun Fight Follows and Guards Victorious.

(Canadian Press Cable.)

Belfast, Dec. 2.—An attack on the jail at Londonderry with the object of releasing the prisoners there was repulsed by the police guards this morning.

Two policemen were killed and several of the attackers captured. The party gained entrance to the jail undetected, and their presence was not discovered until a patrol of policemen saw a rope ladder hanging over the wall and gave the alarm.

The military guard inside had noticed nothing unusual, but upon investigation they found that the two constables who guarded the Sinn Feiners lying dead in the corridors, they had been poisoned, drugged or strangled.

The Republican party had forced the doors of ten cells when the guards surprised them at their work. The military opened fire. The Republicans replied with revolvers.

Pandemonium prevailed for some time, but the guards finally gained the upper hand without losing any of the prisoners, at the same time capturing three young Londonderry men who made a final attempt to release the prisoners.

Three motors, which had been left with engines running by the attacking party also were seized.

NEW YORK WRITERS' VIEWS ON THE MCGUIRE-SMITH BOUT OF LAST NIGHT.

New York, Dec. 2.—New York sporting editors this morning do not wax enthusiastic over the McGuire-Smith battle last night in Madison Square Garden.

Although McGuire was the favorite, neither of the two claimants of Canadian middleweight honors made a bit of either the public or the "experts."

The bout was one of the most unsatisfactory ever seen at the Garden. "Neither boxer exhibited any qualifications which would warrant serious consideration of a championship prospect," McGuire won beyond a question of doubt, but his victory failed to impress.

"McGuire earned the decision because he made the fighting practically over the entire journey. Smith refused to do the offensive or the greater part of the bout. Both boxers missed repeatedly with blows aimed at the face or jaw and as a consequence there was little effective hitting."

McGuire, an awkward boxer in pose and action, missed miserably on numerous occasions with his rights. Smith, reputed to be clever and skilful, failed to show any such traits.

Smith, in the words of one of the judges, "did not please," writes this expert, "and little wonder. It followed three knockouts that came all in a row. Smith, with a world of cleverness and impetuous defensive tactics, buffered off most of Mike's best meant blows."

Charles F. Mathison, in the Herald, hands the bout a roast. He says: "In Square Garden this year, Mike McGuire last night scored enough points over Jeff Smith to earn for him the decision of the judges. So unsatisfactory was the contest that the spectators booed the boxers during the majority of the rounds. Smith absolutely refused to do anything and McGuire was not clever enough to compel his opponent to exchange blows."

"From the first round up to the 14th the bout consisted of a series of clinches by Smith and a succession of awkward attempts by McGuire to land on his adversary. Smith has either deteriorated sadly or else he has been greatly overrated. His work was so poor that Johnny Wilson, who was present and the spectators, seemed to think that he was not such a bad fighter as his content with Downey in Jersey City indicated."

The Tribune and American display more thoughtfulness for McGuire, stating that he broke his hand in the tenth round and so was not successful in knocking his man out. Both, however, admit that the boxing was indifferent.

The three curtain raisers were snappy. Johnny Risler, 127 1/2, knocked out Mike Ibra, 128 1/2, in the fifth round. Phil Salvatore, of California, knocked out Jimmy Finley, of Philadelphia, in the sixth. Marth Collins, of New York, knocked out Al Walker, of San Francisco, in the third round.
