

Doctors' "Special"

FOR MEN AND WOMEN

LAST WEEK among the visitors to our KING STREET STORE was a shoe manufacturer, of forty years' standing in the United States. He was attracted by the display of DOCTORS' "SPECIALS" in our show window. After a critical examination he said, "These are the best goods I ever handled". The quality of stock, thoroughness of workmanship together with the excellent quality of lining make them the best goods I have ever seen for fall walking.

And this from a man who makes thousands of pairs annually.

Story of the Opera

The scene is Easter morning, in a little Italian village. Turiddu is a young villager who has, some time previous to the opening of the opera, become a soldier. He is the son of old Mother Lucia, the wine-shop keeper, and is lover of Lola, wife of Alfio, the teamster. Lola once betrayed Turiddu, married Alfio during Turiddu's absence in military service, and when he returns and wins the affections of the beautiful Santuzza, Lola decides to win him back. On Easter Morning, Santuzza, desperate because Turiddu has deserted her, comes to see him at his mother's wine-shop. He spurns her and she betrays him to Alfio. Turiddu, Alfio challenges Turiddu and kills him.

In conjunction with this Mr. Kettle has arranged for the appearance of Romeo Malpica, the world's greatest baritone, and Josephine Rondoni, soprano, together with our favorite contralto Fernestine Gauthier on the same evening.

USE ADVERTISING TO GET RECRUITS FOR BRITISH ARMY

London, Sept. 17.—The army is wanting men badly, and, in order to obtain them, the Army Council is following the lines of other enterprising people by adopting new methods of advertising. Twenty years ago young men who wished to "adopt the military life" were invited to do so simply by means of colored placards posted in post office windows or on the notice boards of other public institutions. But now the death of recruits has become so serious that newer methods have had to be brought into play.

The death of recruits is attributed largely to soldiers on furlough wearing plain clothes and being seldom seen in uniform in the large towns.

It has been decided to pay soldiers proceeding on post or furlough to Birmingham at the rate of 1s. per diem for three hours' work to walk about in their uniform in such localities as the recruiting staff desire, and use their best endeavors to get young men to join the colors. Both non-commissioned officers and privates are to be employed and they are to wear their attractive regimental clothing. And now the death of recruits has become so serious that newer methods have had to be brought into play.

When the army exercises end on September 26 the towns and villages in the Midlands are to be invaded by the county regiments, who are to carry out recruiting marches in Derby, Nottingham, and Northampton.

SCOTLAND YARD LOSES GIGANTIC POLICEMAN

London, Sept. 17.—Scotland Yard lost its most gigantic and picturesque figure when Inspector William B. Kemp retired this week. Kemp was the biggest man physically in the Metropolitan police force. He weighed over 300 pounds, and this, too, without an ounce of fat. He was over six and a half feet tall, and built generally on a titanic scale. For many years he had charge of some of the toughest districts in London. He had the credit of the arrest of Chapman, one of the famous prisoners of England years ago. He was afterwards one of Superintendent Frost's right-hand men in solving the mystery of the murder of Belle Elmore by her husband, Dr. Crippen.

In recent years Kemp has been Inspector Secretary to the Superintendent of Scotland Yard, and also of the committee for the reception of foreign police officials.

CANADIAN SURVEYORS KILLED BY LANDSLIDE IN THEIR ALASKAN CAMP

Ketchikan, Alaska, Sept. 17.—Two surveyors attached to the Canadian boundary survey were killed last Saturday when a landslide destroyed their camp at Cape Musson, Dall Island, according to word received here today. The names of the men were given as Robertson and Bader.

The party had been working on the boundary survey up Portland Canal and Dixon entrance all summer, maintaining camps at Cape Musson and Cape Chaco.

A prospector who went to investigate found an immense slide had started from the top of the mountain, tearing down the mountain and cut into the bay 100 feet and in several places for a width of more than 100 feet. No trace could be seen of the former camp.

THE CLOSURE

Early Threat in Ottawa Against The Liberals

WHEREIN IT IS WRONG

Important Matters of Redistric, Tariff and the Navy Demand That Members Have Free Opportunity to Discuss Them

(Carleton Sentinel)

We have the semi-official assurance that the dominion parliament will not be called to meet till early in 1914. We have it hinted that the session will be a short one, and it is also hinted that to make it short, the closure will be employed. When in the extremity of their trouble last session the government introduced the closure, it was justified as a mild measure to prevent mischievous "obstruction." Now it is to be employed as a mere party instrument to limit necessary discussion in the interests of party legislation. It is to be swung as a club to assure legislation being rushed through. Parliament is to be run like a railway restaurant. One can buy all sorts of things to eat, but he must bolt it, for the time is limited by the inexorable closure represented by the departure of the train.

And yet there is most important legislation which, in the interests of the country, should receive ample discussion. We shall have, or should have, a redistribution bill introduced and that especially should be well talked over, maturely considered. The government will be tempted in such a bill to load the dice against the opposition; and if we are to judge by the past the temptation will not be strenuously resisted.

This bill was due in the session of 1912, the first after the decennial census, when as the confederation act prescribes, the seats should be readjusted. The government will not be anxious to introduce this legislation. It is mortally afraid of an appeal to the country in a general election.

As a matter of fact, it can't consistently go to the country without a redistribution of seats. If it does between fifteen and twenty constituencies in possession, will not be allowed to have the representation to which the population entitles them. While redistribution is wanted, the government will have that as an excuse for not holding a general election.

Then there is tariff revision. Surely the dominion government is not willing to continuously endorse the Fielding tariff. Good as it was in its day, it doubtless needs some measure of adjustment to changed conditions. The rate of customs and other taxation raises an unnecessarily large revenue; and the high cost of living is held to have some vital relation to high tariff. The United States is amending its tariff, and though we may resolve theoretically and at election times to have "no truck nor trade with the Yankees," our largely increasing exports to, and imports from that country make the changes which the tariff revision will produce in industrial conditions, a matter of direct concern to Canada. While we do business, as we are doing increasingly every year, with the United States, the tariff which influences our business relations cannot be a matter of indifference to us.

Then the naval question is bound to come into some sort of prominence at the next session. Mr. Borden is committed to Canada taking a large share in imperial defence; as Australia and New Zealand have done. He certainly is not going to stop with his inadequate contribution policy. If Mr. Borden will introduce, as he seems anxious to do, a naval policy that is worthy of the dignity of Canada as the most important of the overseas dominions, he will find that the Liberal party, and even the senate, will not stand in the way.

With three such important measures on the programme and others that will doubtless arise, there should be an opportunity for the free and full discussion of their importance demands. But if the government, in the pride and arrogance of its power represented by a large and pliant majority, sees fit to choke off discussion, to apply the closure, the opposition must protect the interests it is bound to serve, and invoke the senate which can and should be depended upon to express its opinion of legislation forced through the popular chamber without adequate consideration, and therefore crude and imperfectly digested.

The government may seek to apply the closure and force through the measures that may not be in the public interests, but they will be wise if they refrain from misusing their power to make Canada anything but a free country, where the British principles of free speech and adequate discussion of public measures should not be at the mercy of a partisan majority.

RECENT WEDDINGS

Lamb-Cooke.

Worcester, N. B., Sept. 16.—Miss Margaret Lamb and Jeffrey Russell Cooke, of Canmore (Alta.), were united in St. Luke's church this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, Rev. A. S. Hazel performing the ceremony. A marriage reception followed, and Mrs. and Mrs. Cooke left on the evening train on a wedding trip to include Montreal, Toronto and New York. Mr. Trevor E. Cooke, of Toronto, was best man. The ushers were E. R. Vince and Arthur M. Fisher. The bride was given away by her uncle, Arthur F. Garden. Miss Mary Wright was bridesmaid and Miss Margaret Dibblee and Miss Kathleen Taylor, of Fredericton, maids of honor.

Fredericton Mail.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bird at Maryville was the scene on Wednesday, Sept. 3, of a very pretty but quiet wedding when their youngest daughter, Margaret, was united in marriage to W. J. Kelly of St. John. Rev. Mr. Hicks performed the ceremony. Only the family and a few friends were present. Mr. Kelly is well and favorably known in Fredericton and vicinity, being leader of the Gene Theatre orchestra, of which his bride is a valued member.

At the George Street Baptist parsonage, Fredericton, yesterday, Andrew Duple, of Ennisville, and Miss Howe, of Blissville, were united in marriage by Rev. J. E. Wilson.

OF COURSE THIS IS TRUE

A Campbellton paper is responsible for the following:—The route of the International Railway is through one of the best districts in the province, for both large and small game; numbers of moose, deer and foxes being seen from the engine every day. But it was for the boys on the express out of Campbellton on Saturday morning last to bring a good "game" story; however it is vouched for as being "the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." As the train was whistling along through a likely stretch of country, and with Mr. Doherty at the throttle, was making pretty good time, it raised a large flock of partridge. The birds attracted it fly across the track, but the train was too quick for some of them, they were hit by the front-end of the car and killed, falling down on the car platform. Mr. Malcolm's private car was attached to the train, and Charlie, the chef was along too, so the birds were immediately decapitated and prepared for dinner; partridge pie being on the menu card quite unexpectedly.

THE LATE JOHN J. RUSSELL.
The funeral of the late John J. Russell, of Milford, took place yesterday afternoon. Beautiful floral tributes gave expression to the sympathy of friends, and included twin sheaves from Mr. and Mrs. Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Donald; roses and other flowers from Mr. and Mrs. Knox and Miss Cate; flowers and ferns from Mr. and Mrs. Gale; and sheaf of cream and white asters from the W. A. of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville.
