DECAPITATED BODY OF HUGH SIMPSON FOUND NEAR TRACK

Late Saturday afternoon Driver Griffiths, in charge of locomotive 1591, was backing in from Carleton to the Union Depot, preparatory to coupling up with the C. P. R. outgoing freight. Between Sheriff and Portland streets, North End, he noticed a man's cap rolling down the embankment. He brought the engine to a standstill and upon investigating the incident discovered the decapitated body of a middle aged man which was subsequently identified as being that of Hugh Simpson, living at Fredericton Junction. The shunt in was resumed and upon the station being reached, the matter was reported to Agent Ross, who immediately instituted an inspection of the locomotive. The missing head was found wedged in among the bars beneath the cowcatcher.

The accident occurred at 5.40 o'clock. Driver Griffiths stated that he saw nothing on the track immediately preceding its happening and the supposition is that Simpson was standing beside the engine when he slipped and fell beneath the wheels of the oncoming locomotive. It is known that he was returning to Fairville from the city and it is believed that he became mixed at the crossing and boarded the rear platform of the engine, proceeding, as he thought, to the Carleton side of the harbor. Upon his person when searched by the coroner were found a watch Bearing the name of Hugh Simpson, a razor similarly inscribed, the unused half of a return ticket from Fredericton Junction to Fairville, and two street railway transfers, one good for the Douglas avenue division and punched at 5.10 and one impossible of being deciphered.

Baggage Master Michael Barnes of Fredericton Junction was notified of the occurrence and he came to the city, identifying the torso and head as being those of his nephew, Hugh Simpson.

The body was placed together and taken to Chamberlain's undertaking rooms, Main street, where it will remain pending the decision of Coroner Berryman in the matter of an inquest.

Simpson arrived in the city on Saturday morning's Boston express. He came for the purpose of accompanying his brother-in-law, Wm. McQuesten, who is being operated on for eye trouble at the General Public Hospital. He had no settled occupation, working for the most part in lumber. He was single and about thirty-seven years of age. He is survived by two brothers, William and John, both of Fredericton Junction, and by three sisters, Mrs. John Buller of Enfield, and Mrs. McQuesten and Mrs. Simon Barnes, also of the Junction. It is generally believed that an inquest will be thought unnecessary and that the body will be sent back for burial today.

COUNCIL BESTIRS CARELESS COAL MEN

McLeod Wharf Grievance
Disappears With Aldermen Active

At a special meeting of the Board of Public Works recently held Ald. Elkin brought up the matter of the McLeod wharf and its condition consequent upon the practice of merchants in storing coal there. He pointed out that the warehouse was in a disgraceful state and practically unfit for the ordinary purposes of shipping.

The recorder with Director Peters was appointed a committee to go into the whole matter, but it is now thought that before the report is in the grievance will have been removed and the dock made ready for the use of ships laden with general merchandise.

It was stated Saturday that owing to the council's action in this matter the coal merchants of the city were bestirring themselves and were chiefly engaged in removing all grounds for complaint.

The wharf, it has been generally admitted, was depreciating greatly in value to the city prior to Ald. Elkin's move in the matter and the happy outcome of the affair is being hailed with much satisfaction by those who were instrumental in having it brought to the notice of the public.

WHAT COUNTS IN A STORY.
As I heard a famous raconteur telling a story I had heard in one form or another for many years I could not but recall the statement of some one to the effect that there are but five stories extant and that all we have are merely variations from the original five. As General Taylor, who is something of a story teller himself, puts it: "The story doesn't amount to anything. It's the edition that counts."
