Thinks the Unitarian Clergyman is Asking For a Too Broad Minded

View of the Sabbath.

To the Editor of the Sun: hand to teach the good people of St. John on the Sabbath question, especially in its relation to the opening of the park restaurant, it may be in place to see how well Mr. Walker has sucseeded in his efforts. As I was born and educated in the states, and have spent many years in observing the manner in which the Lord's day was being kept in that country, and as I have also witnessed the observance of this day in several foreign countries I feel that I am qualified to speak with some degree of authority upon the various phases of this important ques-

In the first place it is quite noticeable that Mr. Walker makes prominent his plea for broad-mindedness in contradistinction to the small and narrow minds which stand opposed to his idea of Sabbath observance. Still, in the states, we have become accustomed to this plea. We know what it When men wish to make some radical departure from the fundamental principles of biblical teaching legitimate, cherished institutions of the people they set up a plea for broad-mindedness, and under this plea many of the loose notions and questionable practices among the people have been introduced. It should be forgotten that there is such a thing as becoming too broad. Men's minds are sometimes like streams they overflow their proper channels and do much harm. The path in which Christians are urged to walk is narrow one. The broad road leads in the wrong direction. The person who is broad enough on the one hand and narrow enough on the other to see and walk in the path which his Lord and the apostles have marked out will not go astray on the Sabbath or any other question. Mr. Walker tells us that "the Sabbath as outlined in the earlier books of the Old Testament is a humane institution" and that "the Sabbath idea ing was the n but how does he reconcile these statements with his plea for the park restaurant? The Bible informs us that in the early days of Sabbath observance the Jews were forbidden to gather manna or to pick up sticks with which to build a fire. Is it likely that under this idea Moses would have approved of the opening of a restaurant outside the camp in which to sell "soft drinks to the people?" The confusion into which Mr. Walker falls is the common one of not drawing a proper distinction between the Sabbath idea and the Lord's day observance. The fact is the Sabbath idea is not altogether in force under Christian dispensation. Paul says, "The law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might justified by faith: but after that faith is come we are no longer under a schoolmaster." The Lord's day idea is not a day of Sabbath rest, but a day devoted exclusively to the Lord's service, hence its name. On this day whatever tends to aid in the service of the Lord is right and proper. But whatever hinders this service is to be avoided. It is always right to do good on the Lord's day. If the sheep is found in the ditch on this day it may be pulled out. But it does not follow from this that we should go about pushing sheep into the ditch on the of the park restaurant aid or hinder the proper devotions of the people on argued for a loose, indecent Sabbath ciples of decency and propriety." But evidently forgets that the loose and been brought about by the gradual introduction of the very things for which he pleads. The simple act of opening the park restaurant and selling soft may be considered innocent enough. But suppose some "broadminded" men should a little later proestablishing a line of conveyances by which the people may be conveyed to the place of drinking. Supand down through the streets with brass bands to advertise their cars or | Kingston, Ont. vehicles, and that an amateur theatre should be established in the park with a low type of vaudeville performers in order to entertain the crowds who are taken out, and all of this is done to make money on the Lord's day. Would it be considered narrow minded or tyrannical for pose such things? This is exactly what has happened in many cities of the United States. This is not all; in many of these cities the distinction between the Lord's Day and the days of the week has almost been lost sight of, the church and Sunday school work have been greatly hindered and the people are becoming more demoralized in consequence of these loose notions and practices. Our brother pleads for a day of rest, but he forgets that the introduction of his idea logically carried out will mean a day of toil for a large number of the working peo-The working people of the United plore the situation existing there, de claring that they are compelled to do more work on the Lord's Day than on to realize their mistake in allowing these things to begin their operations in a small way. If the people of St. John do not wish a repetition of what is transpiring in the most immoral and disorderly cities of the United States and other parts of the world. I plead with them not to allow the thin end of Mr. Walker's wedge to be introduced in this community. In one church in the States for which I preached several of my deacons were compelled to work on the Lord's Day or lose their jobs on which their families were dependent. The selfish and Godless companies for which these men were compelled to work and sacrifice reaped a rich financial reward which they freely spent in keeping open not only places in which were sold "soft" drinks on the Lord's Day, but all kinds of "hard" drinks. While I do not plead for the restoration of the Jewish Sabbath, I do plead for the proper observance of the Lord's Day. The tired clerks and the servant girls ought to be permitted one day, or part of a day, during every week in which to enjoy the woods and the fresh air; Sir-As Mr. Walker, a new man but the Lord's Day should be a day from the United States, has taken in of quiet rest and worship in the temples of God.

Yours respectfully. J. F. FLOYD,

Pastor Coburg St. Christian Church.

To the Editor of the Sun:

Sir,-That Mr. Walker's sermon on Sunday last should cause some "comment in the city" was to be expected, as his subject was advertised, and would not fail to attract a large congregation. While the religious press of the United States continue to deplore the great increase in Sabbath desecration, the people of St. John will not be anxious to copy their methods in regard to the Sabbath, nor much clined to accept advice from one who is so evidently inexperienced on the subject of Sunday observance, and so ready to condemn as "tyranny" the Dr. Hardy Who Was Engaged With a action of our clergymen who have given much thought to the subject of a Sunday restaurant in the park. As it has been promised that the question will be submitted to the vote of the people there seems no need for further argument. The subject has been fairly and faithfully discussed by our own clergy who differ in many points from the young preacher who so openly assails their views and who evidently does not believe in the Divine command, "Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath Day." ST. JOHN'S, Nfid., May 17. - The sealing str. Aurora, bring Messrs. Wallace and Elsen, with Leonidas Hubbard's body, arrived here this afternoon. The body, which was enclosed in a hermetically sealed leaden coffin at Battle Harbor, Labrador, is in a fair state of preservation, though it was hauled 550 miles across a trackless wilderness. It will be sent to New York by the str. Silvia tomorrow night. Wallace and Elson will accompany it. Wallace (who is a lawyer of New York) was four months in bed and unable to walk owing to frostbitten feet. He is still weak in the ankles and knees. Elson (the guide) is in splendid health. Wallace reports that Dr. Hardy, attached to the Grand River Lumber Mill at Hamilton Inlet, Labrador, who attended Wallace, died himself March 27 of pneumonia, Dr. Hardy was a native of Prince Ed-

The Daily Patriot of Charlottetown of the 16th, contains an interesting account of a man who, hearing that valuable property belonged to him in France, set out to look for it, but came back empty handed and broken down in health as a result of the vicissitudes and excitement of the journey It seems that Francis Gortell of Georgetown, a native of Granville, France, where he was born in 1837, had reason to believe that considerable property awaited him in that place. He had been thinking much about the matter when a man named Le Coq called upon him, claiming to him all about the property and to be able to restore it to him. if he would sign a voluminous document which Le Coq represented to be an application setting out his claims. This he did and Le Coq went away promising to write frequently regarding the progress he hoped to make, and contending that he would return the following summer with his wife and family revel in the luxuries of yachting and partake of other enjoyments which Georgetown as a summer resort afforded. A long time went by and Gortell, giving up the idea of ever hearing from his supposed friend, decided to go to France himself search of the missing fortune. He went, but was taken sick there and had to be looked after by the British consul, who had to send him home Up to the present time no word has been received concerning the property, and Gortell's mind has unfortunately weakened. While abroad, however, he had the satisfaction of meeting his sisin which men may violate all prin- der Ferrozone, and normal conditions | ter, whom he had not seen for a great many years.

Annual Meeting Held Last Tuesday,

Much Good Work Has Been Done But the New Building is Badly Needed.

The annual meeting of the members of the Y. M. C. A. was held Tuesday in the parlors. The retiring president, Frank White, was in the chair, and wenty-five members were present. Reference was made and regret expressed at the absence through illness of J. E. Irvine.

The president read his retiring address. After thanking the members for their support, he said that he felt when elected that at no time in the association's history would there be such need for fidelity and courage. They had to face the possibility of failure in a project which meant a great deal to their work, for unless they provided the new building they could only do part of the work intended.
