Ottawa, October 20, 1921

Mr. Alex. D. Broce,
R. R. No. 1,
Unionville, Ontario.

My dear Bruce:

Your letter of the 17th instant, which I have received on my return to Ottawa this morning, anticipates one I had intended writing you as soon as opportunity for correspondence was afforded.

I cannot tell you what a relief it has been to my mind, during my absence in the Maritime Provinces, to know that you have been in charge of the organization work in North York. I know how heavy is the tash you have entered upon, and commot thank you too meartily for your willingness to undertake it. I am all the more deeply appreciative, recalling as I do your very serious illness of last spring. I do hope you have found your thealth again in very full measure, and that the strain of the compaign will not prove too serious a tax upon your strength. You will be careful, I trust, not to permit this. Your chief usefulness, in any event, will be in seeing that others do the work.

I shall not write more at the moment, for I find myself faced with an accumulation of correspondence that I must dispose of before attempting anything else. I look forward, however, to seeing you on Friday next and having a good talk with you then about the whole situation as you have found it.

With all kind remembrances and regards, Believe me,

Yours very sincerely,

WLMK
