

Notre Dame du Sacré-Cœur

YOUNG LADIES' LITERARY INSTITUTE

The Young Ladies' Literary Institute, founded in 1849, is the oldest Establishment of its kind in the city. Its rapid growth, unprecedented success and steadily increasing popularity furnish ample evidence that as an Educational Establishment, it possesses merits of the highest order.

This Institute, situated in the capital of the Dominion, necessarily affords unusual advantages for the acquisition of a thorough knowledge of the two prevailing languages of the country; the entire course of studies being followed in French and English.

In the Department of music particularly, this Institution has acquired a brilliant and wide-spread reputation; the system is modelled on that of the Conservatory of Paris and all music of a trivial character is rigorously excluded.

The Departments of Drawing, Painting, Embroidery, Needle-work, Culinary Art and Domestic Economy are presided over by practical and efficient Teachers who make their respective branches a specialty. The mild, persuasive yet firm discipline, the constant and judicious care bestowed on the moral and physical well-being of the Pupils, the attention given to Correct Deportment and the efforts to inculcate principles of Courtesy and Social Amenity, all contribute to render this Institution a refined and happy home.

Terms: Board and Tuition, including English, French, Bed, Washing and Entrance Fee, $126 per year.
