BRITISH ACCIDENT OFFICES do not appear to be quite holding their own in Canada, says "The Insurance Observer." In 1899, as the subjoined table shows, rather more than one-half of the aggregate premium income in respect of personal accident and employers' liability insurances was received by them, as compared with 35.7 per cent. by Canadian, and 14.0 per cent. by United States companies, but in 1902 the several percentages were: British, 46.8; Canadian, 44.9; United States, 8.3:
