Hermandez placed one out in deep short field and it would have been safe if Dunlop had not pulled off a very sensational and a very difficult catch. However splendid these cat-ches were, that which followed com-pletely eclipsed them. Cristall drove out a long, hot one, headed for deep left field. Comstock ran like an Indian and then leaped for it, just managing to get his fingers on it. That was enough for Comstock, however, as he has the stuff in his glove that Buster Burrill has. He fell and rolled over, because of his long leap, but "Rilly" was out and the game finish-"Billy" was out and the game finish-

Comstock was easily the star of which scored Comstock.

The next run was chalked up to the Brants' credit in the fifth. Comstock was again first at bat, and he again. Not only did he field nist position perfectly, making three nice catches, but he also batted 1000, and Reisling, Graham and Lacroix; Described and the only two runs of the Auld and Harking.

His own teammates refute this. Geo. McBride, the veteran shortstop and captain of the club, says:
"Johnson has as much stuff as he ever had. He is a better pitcher than he ever was, because he knows more about pitching. Now, Johnson has developed his curve ball, and whereas he used to rely entirely upon his tre-mendous speed, now he mixes 'em up.

"Johnson is what ordinarily would be called a hard-luck pitcher. To begin with, we never get the runs for him that we do for the other pitchers.

The absolute lack of lost motion in his pitching, the grace and rhythm to his delivery and the uncanny control, in view of his tremendous speed, still makes Johnson the wonder of wonders among pitchers. From time to time Grover Alexander's supporter's declare he is the equal, if not the superior, of Johnson.
