SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS & VARNISHES The paint that protects the out-side of a house should not be the same as the paint for a floor or a door or a wall. Different surfaces require different finishes. There should be but one thing in common-Sherwin-Williams quality—the quality that makes each paint, varnish, stain, enamel or other finish just right for its purpose. If you know the paint and varnish you are using on your house or in your home are made by the same maker in the same sure, careful, painstaking way as the paint used on iron bridges, steel buildings, railroad cars and automobiles, we believe you will have more confidence in them,

DON'T KILL PAIN WITH DRUGS.

Search For Its Cause and Have That Properly Treated.

Of all the sentinels that watch to give warning that something within our bodies has gone wrong, pain is the most assiduous, although its importance is frequently overlooked by physicians as well as laymen. Pain is simply an expression of re-bellion against objectionable stimuli;

bellion against objectionable stimuli; therefore, however desirable it may be to get rid of, it is far more important to find and cure its cause.

The old time family doctor's first thought when called to a patient in pain was to smother it by means of powerful drugs. This was sometimes useful in tiding a patient over a short illness, which was bound to right itself, but it was worse than useless in chronic allment because it substituted for the malady in question a far worse disease—namely, the substituted for the malady in question a far worse disease—namely, the opium habit. It was exactly as though a railroad inspector on finding a red lantern on the track should throw a coat over it and go on his way. The patient was satisfied when the pain was lulled, but in this an important danger signal was disregarded and nature's call for permanent relief remained unanswered. In appendicitis, for instance, it used to be the custom to "kill pain" by administering large doses of morused to be the custom to "kill pain" by administering large doses of mor-phine. We now know that this dulls the patient's senses to a degree which makes diagnosis of peritonitis or other complications impossible and that a life may be lost because one that a life may be lost because one of the most important symptoms is masked by drugs. It is interesting also to note how pain in appendicitis sets up a reflex action of the abdominal muscles. The muscles become hard and "boardy," nature attempting to hold the appendix as if in a splint so that further injury may be impossible and conditions favorable to repair may obtain.

Another Story of Louvain.

Another Story of Louvain.

A remarkable incident, testifying alike to the power of Freemasonry and the splendid devotion of a citizen of Louvain, has been reported to me, writes a special correspondent from Ostend, Belgium.

At the time of the sack of the town the Germans seized 50 men reported.

the Germans seized 50 men, whom they bound and told that they were going to be shot.

The firing party had already raised their rifles to take aim when one of the 50, a Freemason, made one of the Masonic signs.

the Masonic signs.

The German officer in command of the squad was himself a Freemason, and just as he was going to give the order to fire he saw the sign, and recognized a "brother." He at once ordered the Freemason to leave the ranks, and told him to go away.

"No," replied the citizen of Louvain, "my fellow-citizens are no, more guilty than I am. If you are going guilty than I am. If you are going to kill them, I shall not go away, and I shall be killed with them."

Touched by this act of devotion, the officer ordered the release of the 50 unfortunate men, who thus owed their lives to the intervention of a Freemason fellow-citizen.

Germans Sob; French Stoics.

There is one marked difference wholly psychological, between the German and the French wounded, who are constantly arriving at Bordeaux, writes a correspondent.

Physically there is little difference between the German wounded soldier being carried by and his wounded French antagonist in a nearby cotthe bullet or shrapnel has torn the German's flesh ne works German's fiesh no more cruelly than it has torn the Frenchman. But almost all the German prisoners are suffering extremely from nervous exhaustion. Therefore the popular opinion of the outlander of the characteristics of the two is wholly reversed.

wholly reversed.

The French wounded, instead of showing signs of nervous excitement, are comparatively calm, whereas the wounded among the Germans. despite their reputed stoicism, spend the greater part of their waking bbing piteously.

War Distances.

War, besides being a great leveller, is also a great educator. Places we had never even heard of previously is also a great educator. Places we had never even heard of previously are now becoming as "familiar in our mouths as household words." The distances so often mentioned in despatches are apt to be somewhat confusing unless understood. It ought, however, to be quite easy to remember that a metre measures about 1 1-12 yards, or more exactly 39.37 inches. A decametre is 10 metres, a hectometre is 100 metres, or a little more than three-fifths of a mile. Our Russian allies express the length of their marches or the distance from place to place in versts. A verst is rather more than a kilometre, the exact distance being 0.66288 of a mile, or between three-fifths and four-fifths of that distance.

Painful Economy.

Painful Economy.

Economy has its pains as well as its pleasures, if the experience of an old darky count for anything. One spring, for some reason, old Mose was going round town with the face of dissatisfaction. When questioned he poured forth a voluble tale of woe in these terms: "Marse Tom, he come to me last fall an' he say, 'Mose, dey's gwine to be a hahd winter, so yo' be keerful an' save yo' wages.' An' Ah believes Marse Tom, yassuh. Ah believe him, an' Ah save an' save, an' when de winter come it ain't got no hahdship, an' dere Ah was wid all dat money on mah hands!"

Railroad "Scout."

The Canadian Pacific Railroad has added to its staff a "scout." whose duty it will be to travel over the system and discover those employes who are especially worthy of advancement. tem and discover those employes who are especially worthy of advancement. Incidentally he will report those found wanting; but it is significant that his function primarily is not to make complaint, but to make doubly sure that the deserving are recognized.

EXPLODING EXPLOSIVES.

One of Two Methods, Combustion or Detonation, is Used.

explosive is a body which, under the influence of heat or shock, or both, is, speaking popularly, instantaneously resolved entirely or almost so into Practical explosives consist either of bodies such as nitroglycerin and nitrocellulose, which are explosive in themselves or mixtures of ingredients which separately are or may be nonexplosive, but when intimately mixed are capable of being exploded.

Explosives are exploded either by simple ignition, as in the case of black gunpowder, or by means of a detonator containing mercury fulminate. The molecules of an explosive may be regarded as in a state of unstable chemical equilibrium. A stable state of equilibrium is brought about by the sudden decomposition of the original compounds with the evolution of heat. An explosion is thus an extremely rapid decomposition, accompanied by the production of a large volume of gas and the development of much heat.

There are two well defined modes of explosion which can be described as combustion and detonation. In the former case the explosive is simply ig-nited, and combustion takes place by nited, and combustion takes place by transference of heat from layer to layer of the explosive. The rapidity with which the combustion proceeds de-pends not only on the physical form of the explosive, but also en the pressure under which the decomposition takes place. When in the form of fine grains combustion proceeds much more quick-combustion proceeds much more quick-ly than when the grains are large. Detonation, on the other hand, has to be started by a sufficiently strong im-pulse, such as the explosions impulse, such as the explosion of a charge of mercury fulminate; it preceeds much more rapidly and is due to the formation of an explosion wave that has a velocity of thousands of meters a second.

"High" explosives indicate those, such as dynamites and nitrate of ammonia explosives, which detonate and have a greater shattering power than the "low" explosives. — New York

ENGLISH FEMALE PORTERS.

Muscular Wemen Carry Heavy Loads In Covent Garden Market.

Visitors to Coven Garden market, the great flower market of London, will find that in addition to much floral will and test in authors to much haves beauty there is a wholesome, muscular athletic womanhood that is good to look upon to be found among the wom-en porters. The flowers that are sold in huge quantities in this market are bought by retail flewer dealers, to whose vans the flowers must be delivered in the surrounding streets. The work of carrying is done largely by women, and the Covent Garden woman porter is one of London's character

These women, who carry loads of flowers on their heads, are hardworking, conscientious workers. As a rule, their hours are from 5 to 9 in the morning—not long perhaps, but during that time the women de what might well be considered a good day's work. It is not light work, as a woman porter frequently carries two dozen large pets of plants on her head over a distance of several hundred yards. Light and heavy loads may or may not come alternately, but all are accepted cheerfully. The payment, as a rule, is adequate, but depends upon the generosity of the temporary employer.

The powers of endurance these women possess are quite remarkable, and the work agrees with them. One woman recently pointed with pride to her daughter, a girl of twenty, with cheeks glowing with health and muscles that would do credit to any system of physical culture. The girl had been delibut a few weeks' flower market caused a decided improvement, which increased as time went on.

A somewhat odd recognition of their work is received annually by these flower porters in the shape of a shawi and two aprons each, a gift from the Duchess of Bedford.—London Mirror.

Another Way Out.

Walter Damrosch, the musical conductor, played in his youth in a noted orchestra. He wore, as is the way with musicians, long hair and unusually bushy besides.

A thin haired violinist seated behind Mr. Damrosch in the orchestra used to take exception to the young man's coiffure. He said one day:

"Look here, Damrosch. Why don't you get your hair cut? Then maybe I could see the conductor. Mr. Damrosch answered calmly over

"Why don't you learn to play better? Then you'd sit in front of me.

Painfully Particular. "If you refuse me this time," he said, "I shall never ask you to be my wife again."

"Oh, please," replied the girl from Boston, "try to use better English. I never have been your wife. Why, should you ask me to be your wife again?"-Chicago Herald.

Brockville Business College

On the east side of the Fulford Block, Court House Avenue, Brockville, is a large sign bearing the words BROCKVILLE BUSINESS COLL-EGE. This sign last year needed repainting and a sign Painter offered to do same for $10.00 per word or a total of $30.00. This sum Principal Rogers thought too much, so the painter made the following offer: To paint the first letter for one cent and the price was to be doubled on each succeeding letter of the three words BROCKVILLE BUSINESS BOLLEGE, i.e., that is the doubling process was to go on for 24 times after the first letter. To this the principal agreed. When the painter sent in his account the principal was alarmed and thinking there was a mistake sat down and worked it out. Finding that the account had been rendered correctly the business college manager sent the painter a check for $30.00. If the painter insists on his own proposal, how much is coming to him?
