"The White Feather"

Great British War Office Drama
Coming To-morrow

That "The White Feather" the famous British secret service drama which will be with us tomorrow night will prove to be the biggest theatrical event in Newcastle's history goes without saying. Its coming has been so cleverly heralded that an overflowing house is looked for.

This play has already reached its second year of popularity at the Theatre, New York. It also has to its credit six months in Australia and still playing there to phenomenal receipts. Translations of the play are now being made into French, Russian, Italian, Japanese, Spanish and Dutch, and soon this wonderful drama will be simultaneously running in Paris, Petrograd, Rome, Tokio, Madrid and Amsterdam. Thus "The White Feather" becomes an international success of tremendous import.

As its title suggests, the play concerns a young Englishman who refuses to enlist and go to the front, but the reason for this is soon evident. The play is described as a secret service detective war drama and contains a whole bundle of thrills and a package or two of laughter.

Its story deals with the capture, redhanded, of a quartette of German spies which takes place in an English seaside hotel, of which they are proprietors. Among the guests, who include an English M. P., his family, one or two recruits and various others, are the accepted type of the silly ass young Englishman, who would not enlist, and his mysterious woman acquaintance.

The silly ass is Christopher Brent, whose engagement to Molly Prestor is opposed by her father because he will not enlist for the war. Of course Brent is in the British Secret Service and is on the trail of the German spies who are in wireless communication with German submarines that are about to make a raid on the English sea coast.

The company comes direct from St. John where it has turned away thousands nightly, unable to obtain admission. Albert Brown, who heads the all English company of players, is a wonderful actor and will electrify his audience with his artistry in the role of Brent the British secret service officer. If you miss this performance you will live to regret it.

BACK-YARD GARDENS

Every citizen can render service in the production of foodstuffs. Even in the heart of populous cities something can frequently be done. Cellars and roofs have been utilized for this purpose in New York. One fact worth bearing in mind is that every ounce of needed produce grown is so much added to the wealth of the country. If some part of the energy of every household in Canada were bent upon producing something eatable, no matter how small, thousands of tons of valuable produce would be forthcoming, all of which would be helpful to the wealth of the country. Last year considerable progress was made in the appropriation of seemingly waste land in towns and cities to useful purposes. Considerable success was achieved and this year it is not to be doubted the experiment will be extended with greater results. In fact in many centres plans made last fall or during the winter are already being carried out.

Germany has laid down utilization of the land, every foot of land, as one of her first principles. Every inch of land, according to the Teutonic proclamation, that is not used is so much of the country's resources wasted. France has adopted a regulation to the effect that every bit of space must be used for production: filling this being done by the owner the state is to take possession. Britain has given orders that golf courses and all meadow land are to be used for grazing purposes, and that previous pastures are to be put down in crops. Private parks are also being wooded out and the land devoted to practical agriculture.

A campaign is being conducted having for its object the utilization of backyard gardens and all manner of vacant land. Thus the chief belligerents are setting the world an example in production and thrift that Canada would be wise to profit by as widely as possible, and that municipalities and public bodies should do their utmost to encourage.

Scores of reports of the operations carried on in the season of 1915 by small householders speak of produce being grown worth from twenty-five to fifty dollars, every dollar of which meant so much added to the wealth of the country as well as saved it the cost of living. Financial profit is not the only gain forthcoming. Lessons of industry and thrift are inculcated and the whole household, from the oldest to the youngest, come under the influence of those qualities. They also have the gratification of eating fresh vegetables, the enjoyment of which is tremendously enhanced by the proud knowledge that they are home grown! What the families cannot eat themselves they have the pleasure of giving or selling to their neighbours or sending to some charity. It is hard to imagine any greater or more enduring satisfaction than a household in modest circumstances can experience than that to be derived as the reward of loving industry in a backyard garden.
