The Redemptorist Mission at St. George's

The mission for the men and the children began on the last Sunday in April. The children's mission continued until Wednesday, April 30th, when they received Holy Communion; they formed in processional order at the school hall the little boys in the lead followed by the little girls dressed in spotless white, veiled like the virgins in the Apocalypse; then similarly robed, bearing the banners of their sodality, came the children of Mary; the church was thronged by the parents and other relatives of the little ones.

After mass, Father McAndish closed the children's mission with a most impressive address, showing them the favors and graces they had that day received, by making their little souls, for the first time, the temples of our Redeemer in the Blessed Sacrament; a miracle which would make the vigil of Ascension 1913, ever memorable, ever blessed, the most perfect day in all their lives. He then pledged the boys to total abstinence until their twenty-first year, and the girls to keep from walking the streets at night until the same age, and both boys and girls to say three Hail Marys morning and night, in honor of the purity of the Mother of God.

The men's mission closed Sunday at 7 p.m. Every man in St. George's and Sandy Point attended, no matter how the weather, crossing by boat from Sandy Point, at 5 o'clock in the morning and at 10 o'clock at night; coming by land from Flat Bay, from Muddy Hole, from Barachois, the crippled and partially crippled hauled along the way in carts by their neighbors, sights most admirable and never to be forgotten in St. George's.

The effects of the men's mission is plainly to be seen in St. George's, a congregation of men pledged to total abstinence for twelve months, the hasty oath, the rude jest, the foul word, is unheard on the lips of any; courtesy and hospitality, virtues for which our people were already renowned, have increased an hundred fold, and during the days of the mission, one's house was not held to be so much his own as his neighbor's; it was an example of that wide hearted hospitality, sung by Longfellow: Long may the spirit and the grace of the mission sway the hearts of our citizens.

The women's mission began on the first Sunday of May, and on Thursday, the 7th inst., confirmation was administered by His Lordship Bishop Power, to two hundred and eighty-eight children; after the figure of the Babe of Bethlehem was borne on the shoulders of four little boys, in processional order around the church grounds; the sodality, all the newly confirmed and the tots not old enough to receive that sacrament taking part. The children were then dedicated to the Infant Jesus and were blessed at the altar rails; this was one of the most pleasing and beautiful of the day's ceremonies.

Twitching of the Nerves

A Distressing Symptom of Nervous Exhaustion Cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. John McKellar. What sympathy you feel for anyone whose nerves twitch and jerk, and what resolves you make to never allow your nervous system to become exhausted, until paralyzed of some form claims you as a victim.

The only way is to watch the warning symptoms, such as sleeplessness, headache, indigestion, tired feeling and irritability. By the prompt use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can feed the feeble, wasted nerves back to health and vigor, restore the vitality of the body, and prevent serious disease.

Mrs. John McKellar, 11 Barton street east, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I was injured some years ago, and that left me with a broken-down nervous system. I could not sleep, and suffered from twitching of the nerves and disagreeable nervous sensations. I then began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that I never used any medicine that did me so much good; in fact, I am entirely cured of my old trouble. The Nerve Food not only strengthened the nerves, but also built up my system in every way." Under date of Aug. 29, 1912, Mrs. McKellar writes, confirming her cure, and states that she has had inquiries from many people who had heard of the great benefits she obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50. All dealers, or Edmans, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

On Sunday, the 11th, mass was celebrated on a hill three-quarters of a mile from the church; the spot that had been selected for the erection of the mission cross.

The procession of the whole congregation to Holy Cross Hill was a picture to linger long in the memory.

The Star of the Sea Society and the men of the Cathedral Parish formed up on the road toward the Court House, these then broke rank and the acolytes, the boys, the girls in their white confirmation garb, the Children of Mary, and Rev. Father Holland, who was the celebrant of the mass, in a carriage, accompanied by the Bishop and the other clergy, completed the procession. There were over six hundred people in line.

When the acolytes came within a few yards of the hill, the procession divided through its whole length, to allow the Bishop and clergy to be first at the spot where the cross was to be set up.

Father Holland vested with alb and stole, performed the impressive ceremony of the blessing of the cross, after which it was kissed by the people.

The morning had been cloudy and cold, but now the sun came forth gloriously and there in the middle of half an acre of land roughly cleared with an axe, surrounded by the gently swaying firs, which seemed to be offering incense, the mass was sung, the congregation joining in the chanting of the kyrie and credo and the responses and kneeling reverently on the rugged, and in parts, be-mired ground, regardless of their spotless attire, this ever memorable mass came all too swiftly to an end.

Then the word was given by Capt. Albert Garnier, to the waiting men and slowly the great cross, the symbol of our salvation, rose, while at the same moment, led by Father McAndish, poured forth the prayers of the congregation; slowly it arose and strong men wept as the memory of Calvary's glorious sacrifice struck home more forcibly than e'er before to their souls; slowly it arose, away, towered upright, slipped into its place, and the mission cross of St. George's erected to the honor of our Blessed Redeemer and the Most Holy Trinity was set.

The following inscription in English and Latin, was sealed in the cross:—

"The greater Honor and Glory of the Most Holy Trinity and the Most Holy Redeemer, as well as to the memory of the mission preached with great fruit by Fathers Holland and McAndish of the congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer, founded by St. Alphonsus, this Cross having been solemnly blessed and erected on Pentecost Sunday, A.D., 1913. Plus the Tenth Pope happily reigning, George the Fifth being Emperor of Great Britain, Davidson, Newfoundland, Vice-Roy, Most Rev. M. F. Howley, Metropolitan, Most Revs. Bishops March, of Harbor Grace and Power, of St. George's, Suffragans; Sir E. P. Morris, Colonial Premier, M. G. Sears, Rector of the Cathedral, Father Joy, Master of Ceremonies, R. McDonnell, Magistrate, A. J. O'Reilly, President and J. A. McLellan, Secretary of the Star of the Sea Association, in the name of all the Catholic people by the above named Mission Fathers, was dedicated."—Com.

Co-operation is the Only Hope.

Earl Grey Says This Principle Must Be Applied in Labor.

London, May 12.—Several manufacturers interested in the question of profit-sharing co-partnership attended a meeting in London to hear the views of Sir William Lever, whose fortune has been estimated at $2,000,000. His model town, Port Sunlight, where the employees of his firm live in the happiest conditions, is the most successful co-operative establishment of the kind in England, probably in the world.

Sir William Lever said that the most important point in considering a co-partnership scheme was not to fetter the management. The first requisite was high-class management. The policy of the business should be free from any control of the rank and file. His experience was that if this was not guarded against the system of co-operation might eventually prove a source of great weakness in business. Without long experience, he continued, the rank and file could not partake in the management, but some, if they entered into the spirit of co-operation with a loyal manager, stood to benefit immensely, and it was only right that their loyal co-operation should find a reward in some share of the profits of the business in which they were engaged. In a scheme of that kind, however, there must be no maudlin sentiment. No faddish ideas must be allowed to govern the business.

Earl Grey, who was present, said that the hope of the industrial future of this country, the hope of industrial peace, the hope of the worker, the hope of the country, depended upon the application of the co-partnership principle to the industrial enterprise of the United Kingdom.
