

REMEMBER OCTOBER 17, 1878

"We Will Do It Again," Says the Royal City of Guelph.

Conservative Leaders Were Listened to by Thousands on Monday Afternoon—Great Ovation to the Tearing Orators—Berlin's Contingent Numbered 400—Mr. Kloepper Speaks, Also Sir Charles, Hugh John and Mr. Foster.

Guelph, Sept. 17.—(Special.)—The Conservatives of South Wellington turned out today to a man for the political ovation tendered Sir Charles Tupper, Hugh John Macdonald, Mr. George Foster, the Sir Three, and the other members of the tearing party. Sir Charles arrived in Guelph in the morning, and was met at the station by the Citizens' Brass band and many citizens and escorted thru the town to his hotel.

The speakers and the more prominent members of the tearing party were seated on a large raised platform, that was flanked and guarded by Union Jacks in great numbers, and covered by a canopy. The speaker, Mr. Kloepper, M.P., for South Wellington, was the first to speak. He was followed by Sir Charles, Mr. Foster, Mr. Macdonald, Mr. Tupper, Mr. G. C. M.P., and Major Beattie, M.P., D.C. The tearing party was well represented by the audience, and the band played "See, the Conquering Hero Comes," and the cheers went on again and again.

Behind the select party came the Berlin contingent, 400 strong, that had come into the city by special train, and the ranks rapidly filled, until there were few seats unoccupied, and when filled, according to Editor Armstrong of the Aylmer, were over 500 persons. That may be taken as an independent estimate of the numbers present this evening.

Sifton was beaten by Hugh John.

Sifton was beaten by Hugh John. [Applause.] Sir Charles said that the Conservative party was the victor of a great victory, and would be carried to success by an unadvised and unwise tariff. He said that the Fielding tariff had contributed something to the welfare of Canada. Which tariff? There have been two tariffs. There was one that enabled Sir Wilfrid Laurier to get the Cobden medal on the ground that the tariff made no discrimination in favor of England as against other countries.

There Sir Wilfrid made a mistake, for shortly afterwards the present tariff, giving England alone preference, was brought in. Of course the Cobden medal was sent back. [Laughter.] The Fielding tariff, 1888, and now in vogue, had been on the statute books, when the Liberals came into power, and any change, Fielding made in it, married it. The Fielding tariff was the Tilly tariff, and the Foster tariff. It was a monstrous piece of folly to call that tariff the Fielding tariff. [Applause.] Sir Charles was cheered at the conclusion of his speech, which lasted an hour and a half.

J. P. Downey, editor of the Guelph Herald, in a few glowing words introduced Hugh John Macdonald. His introduction was greeted with the loudest cry of cheering, that became deafening when Hugh John arose to speak. Another little speech, he mentioned the loudest cry of cheering, that became deafening when Hugh John arose to speak. Lowell's First Client.

James Russell Lowell studied law and took an office, but never had a case at court. The Rev. Edward Everett Hale told, however, the story of Lowell's first client. The poet had laid aside his law book for the nonce and was polishing off a sonnet when the door opened and a strange man appeared with a look of doubt on his face.

Lowell hastily hid the sonnet in a pocket, sprang up with all the alacrity of courtesy he could command, offered a chair to the visitor, took his hat and put it on the table with as much reverence as if it were a retainer, drew up a chair opposite, pulled out a brand new notebook and, waving his pencil in a soft, inviting, confidential way, began: "Well, Sir, I am all ready to take notes of your case. Please tell me everything, even the most trivial circumstance."

The stranger stared at him with open mouth for a minute, then grinned most amiably at the answers. "I'm the painter of your sign, sir; come to get my little bill."

LOOKING OUT FOR THE "CHILLUNS."

The Old Negro Declared His Authority on the Battlefield. "There were four of us boys," Major Pelham said, "and we left home together to save the Confederacy. Our mother had the proper things, as she thought, packed for us, and also sent along a faithful old negro, who had been prominent in our bringing up, to take care of us in the army and wait on us. The last words she said to him at the lawn gate were: 'Now, take good care of my boys, Tom, and Tom is as certain that he would be successful in carrying out her repeated injunctions as he ever had been in former years that he would bring us home safe from a possum hunt.'

"Don't you never be uneasy 'bout dat, Mis' Sue. I gwinter bring dese dear youngsters back safe an' sound, an' dey gwinter have de best dey is in de land."

"After the brush was over, up came old Tom, ashly, but determined. His clothing was torn and he looked down with pride on the table with as much reverence as if it were a retainer, drew up a chair opposite, pulled out a brand new notebook and, waving his pencil in a soft, inviting, confidential way, began: 'Well, Sir, I am all ready to take notes of your case. Please tell me everything, even the most trivial circumstance.'
