Amendment on By-Election Outrages Defeated Straight Party Vote.

PELLELIER HAD TO TALE BACR WORDS

Some Heated Exchanges When Hon. M. Lemieux Arraigned Members of Govt.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—Shortly after midnight Sir Wilfrid's amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne was defeated in the Commons on a straight party vote of 119 to 71. The amendment was: "That this House begs to represent to your royal highness that in the by-elections of Macdonald and Richelieu there were practices calculated to terrorize and corrupt the electorate, and which were connived at by your ministers, and which deserve the censure of this House."

Mr. Mondou, Nationalist-Conservative member, moved an amendment declaring against a naval contribution until the right of representation in the imperial councils is accorded the Dominion.

Amendment Lost. This was defeated in the House at an early hour this morning by a vote of 184 to 4. Mr. Lamarche, of Nicolet, spoke for the amendment, as did Mr. Mondou. Sir Wilfrid Laurier opposed it as being inopportune. An opportunity, he said, would be given later for such an amendment, which might well command the serious consideration of the House.

The leader of the Opposition did not personally commit himself upon it. The Prime Minister said he would oppose the amendment at any stage, as it sought to commit Canada to the position of being unable to help the Empire in any emergency. Had it been in effect ten years ago, not a man, nor a gun could have gone to South Africa to aid the Empire.

Mr. Lemieux, also spoke against the principle and object of the amendment. Lemieux Arraigned Government. With the deputy speaker calling impatiently for order, while the Government benches shouted and screamed to prevent the speaker from being heard, Hon. Mr. Lemieux concluded a telling

Gets Your Stomach Under Perfect Control

Instant Relief For Indigestion and Stomach Troubles, May Be Relieved Upon By Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is no occasion to suffer from indigestion or any similar stomach trouble when you can so easily get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. There is scarcely a well-stocked drug or general store in the United States but what considers these tablets part of their staple stock.

You Can Travel Anywhere and Eat Anything They Serve, If You Have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets With You.

Millions are used every year—and when every other man or woman you meet recommends them to you if you will but inquire why do you continue to suffer from stomach trouble? The reasons why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are such a widely-used remedy are very easy to understand. These tablets contain almost the same elements as the gastric juices of the stomach. And when your stomach is sick and not working just right, it does not give out enough of the natural digestive juices to properly take care of the food you eat. So if you will only give the stomach a little help by taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after meals you will relieve the stomach of its chief duty and allow it the rest it needs to recuperate. One grain of the active principle in a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet digests 3,000 grains of food, whether you place it in a glass jar with cooked food or in your stomach after you have eaten the food. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and once you try them you will never again wonder what to do for a disordered, sour and gassy stomach. 50 cents a box.

arraignment of the Government on its chameleon naval policies, in the Commons this evening. Passing from his dealing with Hon. Mr. Rogers and Sir Rodolphe Forget, the eloquent ex-postmaster-general referred to the declaration of naval policy as contained in the speech from the throne. "When," he observed, "I want to learn the exact meaning of an English word I go to Webster. There I am taught that an emergency is a sudden or unexpected occasion, an unforeseen occurrence, a pressing necessity or an exigency. If Britain is confronted with any of these conditions I will be the first to join in any vote that is deemed necessary or best, for the jingo members have not a monopoly on loyalty. But nobody will be stampeded if an emergency does not exist."

There are those now on the Government benches who in the last campaign declared in the House of Commons that they owed nothing to England. The Liberalism of Laurier had no recourse to the language of demagogues. The British preference was the test of Liberal imperialism, and the Laurier naval policy—the development of a Canadian fleet unit to take its part in imperial defence—was the test of Liberal imperialism.

Defends Cartwright. Proceeding Mr. Lemieux dealt with the Nationalist policy as advocated by the Nationalist wing of the Borden Government, "no navy, no contribution, we owe nothing to England." This was the kind of literature that Mr. Ames, "Jingo of the jingoes," paid the postoffice to spread over the province. The Conservative-Nationalist orators talked about a "deep-laid plot between Laurier, Borden and Earl Grey," and, added Mr. Lemieux, "the loudest shouters and the most persistent shriekers are now in the Borden Government."

Mr. Lamarche, of Nicolet, wanted to know if, when it was stated that Canada owed nothing to England, it was not Sir Richard Cartwright who was being quoted. (Conservative applause.)

"If fools there be," replied Mr. Lemieux, "who attribute such disloyal sentiment to the gallant old knight, pity them. A Mr. Cartwright is a lie. The member for Nicolet said himself one of the worst offenders, though he was less responsible than the Postmaster-General, who had been a member of the Quebec Government and had taken the oath of loyalty to the King."

"In a few days now we shall learn how many of these demagogues jettisoned their principles for office, and the trouble and how many have brass enough to repeat in parliament what they said in Quebec. I charge the Postmaster-General, the Minister of Inland Revenue and the new Secretary of State on having made statements during the election campaign that they dare not repeat in this House."

"We of the old Rouge party, led by the Old Chief (prolonged Liberal cheering)—fought the demagogues as best we could. We stood for a sane imperialism and a sane Canadianism."

"If the member for Rouville can show, even in a newspaper clipping, where I ever said such things I am willing to resign," interrupted Mr. Rainville, of Chambly and Vercheres.

Called on to Resign. "I heard him say so at a meeting in Chambly and Vercheres," put in Mr. Mederic Martin, of Ste. Marie, amid Liberal cries of "Resign!" Mr. Lemieux produced copies of Le Libérateur and read reported utterances by Mr. Rainville, in which he declared that "Borden had allied himself to Laurier, and was the mascot and tool of Laurier in this naval business."

Reading from another reported speech by Mr. Rainville, Mr. Lemieux showed that, speaking with Mr. Armand Lavergne, Mr. Rainville stated that England would let the United States take Canada, and that England had always refused Canada what she asked.

One for Pelletier. "The first prizes goes to the member for Chambly and Vercheres, but the crown of laurels and gold medal for this kind of talk belongs to the Postmaster-General, Mr. Lemieux declares, and more uproar. Liberals were shouting "Resign!" at Mr. Rainville, and Conservatives, "Take it back!" to Mr. Lemieux. Mr. Crothers rose and led the shouting.

"If I take it back, I shall have to tear up Le Nationaliste, his gospel and yours," cried Mr. Lemieux when Mr. Pelletier shouted again to the deputy speaker to make him "take it back."

"Take it back!" screamed Mr. Pelletier, shaking his head. "It's too true." Mr. Pelletier rose and protested. "The member for Rouville has got to be courteous and civil to members of this House. He said that the member for Chambly and Vercheres had said that Canada owed nothing to England. The member denies it, and he has got to take it back."

"I said that he made statements worse than that," reiterated Mr. Lemieux. "The member for Chambly and Vercheres denies it," put in Deputy Speaker Blondin.

"He won't take it back, and there's no good trying to make him," shouted Mr. Pelletier, while the Liberals cheered Mr. Lemieux.

"He won't take it back, and there's no good trying to make him," shouted Mr. Pelletier, while the Liberals cheered Mr. Lemieux. "He won't take it back, and there's no good trying to make him," shouted Mr. Pelletier, while the Liberals cheered Mr. Lemieux.

in question Mr. Guthrie's stand on reciprocity. The member for South Wellington rose instantly. "I did say during last session that in my opinion reciprocity was dead," said Mr. Guthrie, "but no one misunderstood my position. I favored reciprocity then. I think it is right now. I never changed my opinion. When I spoke I meant that it was not then the immediate issue before the people. I am for it now as much as I ever was."

There were now Liberal demands on Mr. Pelletier to "Take it back." The Postmaster-General, he would accept the word of the member for South Wellington, and order was finally restored.

Hon. Mr. Pelletier, who followed the ex-postmaster-general, spoke, but briefly, confining himself mainly to a general denial of the latter's statements as to his pre-election anti-imperialist utterances, and to a defence of the honor of Sir Rodolphe Forget. The member for Charlevoix, he said, was one of the men of whom Quebec was proud, and he had been grossly calumniated by the preceding speaker. As to the Nationalist speeches of Messrs. Rainville et al., Mr. Pelletier claimed that they had been incorrectly quoted, and Mr. Lemieux was violating the rules of honor and of the House in refusing to take back his statements. The Postmaster-General did not go into detail in discussing the issues raised.
