Two Firemen Injured in Disastrous Outbreak Which Swept Portion of Seattle's Wholesale District

ESTIMATES OF FINANCIAL LOSS

Place Damage in the Neighborhood of a Million Dollars—Relieving the Victims of the Flames

SEATTLE, June 11.—Nothing but a scene of desolation marks the spot where occurred last night's fire, the worst since the great fire of 1889. All day long the tired out firemen were kept busy subduing the flames which burned until late in the day. A search of the ruins has been proceeding and contrary to expectation no bodies of fire victims have been discovered. It was believed at first that over a score of persons lost their lives but missing ones have turned up and so far as known at present no lives were lost. Of the many injured but two were hurt at all seriously, both firemen of No. 3 company, L. Eager and George Furt, the former having his foot lacerated by a nail, the latter overcome by smoke. Both were taken to the city hospital.

Estimates of the financial loss do not vary much from the first figures. The aggregate loss is figured at from $800,000 to $1,000,000, but these figures are little more than guesses. Thousands have visited the scene of last night's fire and police guards are needed to keep the curious from the dangerous proximity of live wires. That the sudden lull in the high gale which prevailed at the time of the fire was the only thing which saved North Seattle from destruction is the belief. The fire brigade had reached its limit of endurance and effectiveness and could do no more. The providential rain fell just at the right moment when man's resources had been taxed to the breaking point.

While the Princess was among the poor children of Lambeth, she said, complete change prevailed in reply to her observations with "No, Missus" or "Yes, Missus" This led her to inquire, "Now, my little girl, do you know who I am?" For some time the child hesitated, and then she blurted out, "Wales, Missus."
