

DEW DROPS

Vol. IV.

TORONTO, AUGUST 18, 1900.

No. 33.

FAITHFUL ROVER.

This picture represents a scene on the corner of one of the busy streets of London, England. This poor little boy with the ragged stocking is the six-year-old son of a drunkard, who sends the young lad to a certain corner every day with packages of matches or shoe laces to sell?

The little man is always to be found there rain or shine and by his side the faithful dog Rover. Sometimes he gets so tired standing in the hot sun that he falls asleep, at which time Rover curls himself around the little fellow making a support for his head, He always lies perfectly still so as not to disturb his master and always keeps his eye open on the watch.