

more interesting and amusing cases in order to give a general idea of the work, and the methods which guided my procedure.

To show the impossibility of giving more than a very few instances, it will be interesting to mention that since I was appointed in 1877 until the end of 1919, there have been 650,000 cases dealt with in the Police Court. The majority of these have been dealt with by me, as for the first twenty years I had no assistant. A mere list of the cases giving only the names of the parties would fill about forty octavo volumes. This will explain why only a very small proportion is all that I could possibly include in these recollections.
