Express says:

"The surrender of the Austrian army led by Generals Dankl and Von Auffenburg is imminent. The heir to the Austrian throne, Archduke Charles Francis, is with General Dankl's army, which is entirely cut off from communication,

"Five German army corps marching to the relief of the Austrians have been checked at Grodek by the third Russian corps. General Dankl's army is caught in the morass west of the River San. Farther west a flanking army of 100,000 Cossacks is awaiting it. Its artillery has Cossacks is awaiting it. Its artillery has been lost and its cavalry is in the bog.

"The last hope of the Austrians is to concentrate between the triangular fortress works of Przemysl, Cracow and Jaroslaw. They can accomplish this, if at all, only by tremendous losses."

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Daily News correspondent, following the pursuit with the allies, laments the lack of sufficient cavalry. He says:
"The French cavalry has not been fortunate in this division. Too often it timed its brilliant charges too late, and only swept over the crest when the German guns had secured the range to mow them down. Hence, their support has not always been available at the right mo-ment, but their courage and dash have been characteristic."

More About Banking

The newspapers are now discussing banking with more or less ardor. The Globe of yesterday has a lot to say about the federal gold reserve, some of which our contemporary thinks is uselessly idle. By the recent legislation parliament released some of this gold so as to help the Dominion to pay its debts and thereby incidentally help business. So far, so good; what about the action of the banks in frowning down the use of bank notes as legal tender in the clearing house settlements between banks? A word from The Globe might strengthen the hands of the minister of finance in asking the banks to live up to the law of parlament. Because, as we have pointed out, the excess currency of the banks would be much more likely to come out and help "to finance business" as Lloyd George suggested to the banks in England.

We would not be surprised to hear today that the Bankers' Association had come to the view that it would be wise on their part to loyally accept the decree of parliament. Parliament did a great deal for the banks in the recent legislation when it suspended gold payment in regard to bank notes; it will not, we trust, be long before the clearing house will have an opportunity of resuming its old practice of gold settlements, and we also trust of having their note currency put back on a gold basis.

The Ottawa Journal, also discussing the bank situation, does not quite see how the public can ask the banks to assist to finance business. It points out that the Bank of Upper Canada, which failed in 1866, failed because it helped business hime years theretofore, when a commercial crisis had obtained. Whether that is so or not, we cannot say; we prefer to deal with the things of today; and if the banks think that they should not take the risk of financing business in times of war, they have a right to that opinion, and perhaps a right to govern themselves accordingly. But if that is the case, then it comes back to the country at large to try and decrease a result of the country at large to try and decrease and country at large to try and decrease at large try at large try at large try at large try at vise a system of banking that will secure bank support in times of stress, and especially a system that will do what Lloyd George wishes to see done, business carried on in any time of trial by the co-operation of state and banks.

chise; that money used in banking comes largely from the savings of the people and that the public in their collective capacity have a right to be heard as to the policy pursued in connection with these common savings; and that some kind of public responsibility goes with the exercise of a great public franchise; and that a banker like a minister of the crown, or like the head of a great railway, has at least some kind of responsibility to the community. Banking is very much of a public service in those countries which now have a modern system of banking, based public service in those countries which now have a modern system of banking, based on a national currency and on the employment of the credit of the nation so as to facilitate trade and so as to find sufficient currency for the purpose of business. All we ask is that our chartered banks somewhat revise their attitude in the light of the modern way of banking, especially in the light of the supreme interest that the public must have in it and in its ramifications. They are no longer entitled to their fran-chise to print money. The governmen, is backing it all now anyway. Wha should the government not issue it all?

Editor World: Only yesterday one of our best farmers (here in Essex) was refused a small loan, to enable him to harvest his bean crop. It is high fime something was done toward remedying the conditions.

Branches of chartered banks are new to be found in every village and hamlet. For what purpose? Not to accommodate the local community, but to borrow money by way of deposit.

The present is an opportune time for the manufacturers and farmers of Canada if they had only proper and adequate financial accommodation.

The claim is made that the banks are not dealing fairly with the people and the union was the "greenbacks"—a national currency.

In the present emergency in Canada the government has gone on the hypothesis that the bankers of the country could be depended upon to act in the public interest. The government, upon this hypothesis, has given the banks notes its imprimatur, has given the banks the right to issue a greater volume of currency—backing every cent of it—and has deposited with the banks Dominion notes of an amount presumed to be sufficient to guarantee against any sudden occurrence of panic in any quarter.

The committee is composed of representatives of civic organizations, fraternal societies, women's organizations and churches. This big committee will be divided into three subcommittees, executive, supply and distribution. A fund will be raised by private and popular subscription and by grants from the municipal treasury as required. As far as possible work will be provided for the unemployed in construction of roads, sewers and other civic works, and every case where charity is dispensed will be investigated to prevent imposition or overlapping.

WILL ORDAIN PRIESTS INTO BASILIAN ORDER

Archbishop to Officiate at Ceremony-Diocesan Appointments Announced.

Hamilton Times: Sir Edmund Osler, M.P., who has just returned from England, expresses himself as delighted with the way the British Government has financed the war and the measures it has taken for the protection of the British trade. Lloyd George has proved himself in his own department just as capable as has Lord Kitchener as minister of war.

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, a number of young men will be ordained to the priesthood in the Basilian order, by His Grace Archbishop Neil McNeil. The ceremony will take place in St. Basil's church.

Since taking charge, of St. Patrick's Church, McCaul street, Rev. Father Connelly, C. S. S. R., has been working assiduously to carry out his avowed intention of relieving the parish of debt. Over $100,000 has been paid and only $25,000 remains.

The following changes in the diocese have been announced by the archbishop. Rev. Father McGrath of Lourdes, Toronto, has been made pastor of Schomberg; Father Egan goes from Thorold to Lourdes, Rev Father O'Brien, recently ordained, goes to assist Rev. Father Doyle, another young priest has here apparented acceptant.

sist Rev. Father Sullivan of Thorold; Rev. Father Doyle, another young priest, has been appointed assistant to the Rev. Father Coyle, of the Hely Family, and it was intimated today that Rev. Father Trailing, of Port Col-borne, would succeed the late Father Rohleder in St. Joseph's parish.

WAR MEASURES IN FIFESHIRE

Mrs. McKendrie, Haddington, Scotland, writing to her brother, Mr. Lattimer, Earlscourt, stated that the farmers in Fifeshire received instructions from the government at the commencement of the war that, in the event of an invasion, they were to take their cattle to the hills and to burn their houses and barns. They are now thankful that at the present time this is a remote contingency.

GERMANS ON DEFENSIVE ON WHOLE BATTLE LINE

Official Communication From Paris Says That, on Rearguard of Enemy Being Overtaken, Large German Armies Were Rushed to Assistance---Large Number of Prisoners Taken.

Canadian Press Despatch.

PARIS, Sept. 16, 5.45 p.m.—The following official communication was issued at 3 o'clock this afternoon:

"During the days of Sept. 14 and 15 the rear guard of the enemy was overtaken by our pursuing force and obliged to turn and face us. Reinforced by large armies the Germans waged a defensive battle along their entire front, on which certain of their positions show strong organization. This front is bounded by the region of Noyon, the plains to the north of Vic-Sur-Aisne and Soissons, Laon, the heights to the north and to the west of Rheims, and a line which runs thence to the north of Ville-Sur-Tourbe, to the west of the Argonne by another line which passes north of Varennes, a point that has been evacuated by the enemy, and reaches to the neighborhood of the forest of Forges, which is north of Verdun.

Numerous Prisoners.

"During the pursuit of the enemy, executed by our troops after the battle of the Marne, the Germans abandoned numerous prisoners to our hands. To these men there has been added a large multitude of stragglers who were hidden in the forests.

"No exact accounting of these prisoners, or of the war material captured by us, so far has been possible. It is for this reason that the minister of war, who does not want to give out figures which might be considered fantastic, refrains from announcing the details of these captures."

Kossuth—Greatest of Hungarians

HIS noble lover of Liberty was to his beloved Hungary what Parrick Henry was to American Independence. Give me Liberty or give me death" meant to Kossuth all that made life worth the living. He lived for ninety-two years, and his long and honorable career was devoted solely to secure for Hungary National Independence. For it he suffered imprisonment and exile. For it he worked as few men have ever worked. His fiery soul was expressed in his writing, and his impassioned oratory thundered across the two continents. All the world read and listened to this high-souled Hungarian Patriot. When exiled our government sent the U.S. Steamer Mississippi to Turkey and brought him to our shores as the guest of the Nation. To day we have millions of Flungarian citizens, each one a lover of Personal Liberty. To secure it they sought our shores, and to a man they will fight to the death to keep forever alive the spirit and letter of our immortal Declaration of Independence. They make good citizens, and like Kossuth detest prohibitory enactments which make the many suffer for the faults of the very few. For centuries Hungarians have as a nation been moderate users of barley brews and light wines. Their votes are always registered against any legislation which proposes to regulate human diet by law. Thou shalt NOT eat this—thou shalt NOT drink that—to those of brave Hungarian blood is insufferable tyranny. For 57 years Anheuser-Busch have been proud to serve their Hungarian patrons. They have helped to make the sales of their great brand Budweiser exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the public demand for Budweiser.
