The second French line, however, hurled itself instantly on the foe. In the full finding of the court on the Nerlich appeal it is stated that the question turned upon the meaning to be attached to the word "others" in the only count in the indictment. By alleging that others conspired with Nerlich to aid the King's enemies by inciting Zirzow to join their forces, the draughtsman excluded Zirzow, of necessity, from the conspirators, as he could not by reasonable construction be charged with conspiring to incite himself. As "others," whoever they were, are alleged to be parties to the conspiring, the word others must mean the same persons through the indictment.

must mean the same persons thruout the indictment.

From this finding Mr. Justice Hodgins dissents, stating that he could not see why the words "and with others," apart from the word "incide," could not include Zirzow. The aid and comfort intended was Zirzow's presence at the front and if Nerlich agreed to send him and Zirzow agreed to go it was impossible to imagine a clearer case of conspiracy.

In point of numbers and enthusiasm

In point of numbers and enthusiasm, yesterday's visit and parade of all the northern lodges of Newmarket and southerly, together with the Woodbridge, Weston, West Toronto and Eglinton Loyal Orange lodges to Oshawa, was in all respects a record in the history of these organizations. It was a memorable day, and one long to be remembered by the 6000 or more brethren in line down in the manufacturing town.

The North Toronto C.P.R. station was the rallying point for all the northern brethren, the Newmarket Aurora, Richmond Hill and Eglinton lodges gathering there as early at eight in the morning, preparatory to marching down Yonge street to the starting point. Here they were joined by the Woodbridge, Weston, Mount Dennis, West Toronto, Lambton, Runnymede, Islington, Scarlett Plains and Fairbank District Lodge, Concord, Kleinburg, Alexander Muir, Parkhill, Grouse Hill, Humber Bay and George Syme lodges. They were all there, in many cases occompanied by their bands. Twenty C.P.R. coaches were required at North Toronto to accommodate the big crowds which pulled out shortly after nine o'clock. big crowds which pulled out shortly after

A delightful feature of the day's proceedings was the splendid arrangements made by the Oshawa brethren for the reception of their guests. Nothing which could in any way contribute to their comfort was neglected. At 2 o'clock the lodges reformed, marching thru the principal streets and returning to the park, where the afternoon was given up to speaking and sports.

The Oshawa contingents were in charge of Bro. A. C. Cameron. Bro. Amos Goheen was field marshal, and Charles Davis was the chairman of the reception committee. The lady True L'ues furnished refreshments.

The Darade assembled in the town park at 2 o'clock, marching thru the principal streets of the village and back to the grounds where the speaking and games were held.
