The Peterboro Review asserts that The Advertiser is displeased with the result of the recent Tupper secret convention in Toronto. Our contemporary does us an injustice. We are delighted with the convention. Supposing it had been organized to suit our views, and to promote our interests, it could not have worked better.

If the Presidential election could have taken place within a week or two after his nomination, Mr. Bryan would in all probability have been elected. But the leading newspapers, whether Democratic or Republican went against his policy, as not in the interests of the country, and he was defeated. Publicity and discussion did spent in hiring and fitting up the

The advantages of advertising were recently illustrated in London. A man advertised for the return of a lost cat. In less than a week 322 of them were brought to his house. The advertisements in an up-to-date paper like The Advertiser are as closely scanned by the average reader as

Some people wonder how the United States uses up all the eggs laid by the hens over the border and millions of dozens imported from other countries. The explanation is found in the fact that calico print works use 40,-000,000 dozen eggs per year, wine clariflers use 10,000,000 dozen, the photographers and other industries use many millions, and these trade orders increase more rapidly than table de-

In Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, women voted in the recent United States Presidential election on a perfect equality with men. The Philadelphia Bulletin says that in five times out of six the women, if married, join the party to which their husbands belong; or, if unmarried, that to which their fathers, brothers or lovers may be allied. Why not, if they believe in the principles which their male friends support?

At the dinner given to Hon. Mr. Davies in Charlottetown last Thursday evening he said he did not favor the spoils system. "A competent civil service," he added, "is a necessity which must be maintained. It would be an unmitigated curse to change the civil service with every change of Government. But neutrality is the price of civil service permanency. vote just as he pleases. But when Presidency. he goes beyond that, takes an offensive partisanship and evidently strives for political fame we propose to give him such a chance by ridding him of the ties which bind him to his office."

Public attention is particularly called to "The Plain Truth About Asiatic Labor," by Hon. John Barrett, United States minister to Siam, in the North American Review for November. Mr. Barrett describes from personal observation the actual conditions of in-dustrial efforts in China and Japan, and discusses the probabilities of such a development of productive capacity in the manufactures of these nations as would make them formidable rivals of the United States and the leading

The Latest United States Outlook.

Though the majority for McKinley is smaller than the first returns indicated, it is apparent that the Ohio man has a secure hold on the Presidency. He will be inaugurated President on Thursday, March 4, 1897, and Mr. Hobart, of Paterson, N. J., will take his place as Vice-President of the Republic on the same day. William McKinley will be the 25th President of the United States. On the 26th of February, six days before his inauguration, he will be 52 years of age, the same age that Abraham Lincoln was when inaugurated in 1861. Mr. Lincoln, like McKinley, was born in the month of February-on Feb. 12, 1809. He was inaugurated on the 4th of March, 1861, twenty days after the completion of his 52nd year, whereas Mr. McKinley will be inaugurated six days after it. Like Lincoln, Mr. McKinley served as a Representative Every man has a perfect right to in Congress before his election to the

Then we have newspapers grumbling because fifth form work is not taken up in the public schools, and we have trustees excusing themselves on the alleged ground that the Minister preventsit. The fact is that fifth form work is authorized to be taught in the public school, and what is more, it can be taught by the headmasters in the London public schools in connection did the late Government stop there in with their own work without extra its anxiety to spend money for cost, and to the relief of the Colleers do not everywhere co-operate with the alleged benefit of the per- giate Institute. Another outcry is that Collegiate Institute education costs the taxpayer too much, and that the individual pupil professional life. That, too, is in the hands of the people's trustees. They can, if they choose, impose fees on pupils, either in all the classes, or in only a portion. Many other cities pay as much as one-third of the salaries of the teachers from these fees. It is entirely a matter of choice that London takes another course.
