

And here it may be suggested that it would accord well with the spirit of the resolution which this Synod unanimously passed in 1882, expressing a desire to extend to King's College such moral and material aid as might be possible, if more members of the Synod would become members of the Alumni Association and take an active interest in its work.

The results of the Degree examinations, which were conducted by extra-collegiate examiners, show that good work has been done during the past year.

The Collegiate School has just entered upon its hundredth year, and through the energy of the Head Master an excellent and commodious gymnasium has been built by private subscription to commemorate the Centennial.

The good will of the College towards this Diocese is shown not only by the courtesy which is always extended to your representative at the meetings of the Board of Governors, but by the selection of the Rector of Fredericton to preach the Encenia sermon, and the election of Rev. Canon Brigstocke to the Board of Governors by an almost unanimous vote of the Alumni at their annual meeting.

Respectfully submitted.
