Two Subscriptions and Some Presentations—Last Night's Fire

The treasurer of the Horticultural Association acknowledges receipt of the following unsolicited subscriptions—Rev. A. Kuhnring and Fire Chief George Blake, each $5.

Mr. Kuhnring, in sending the subscription, writes in appreciative terms of the management, and adds that in his judgment the park and gardens form an important factor in the moral development of rich and poor.

A little time ago Harold McIntyre of Havelock street, a member of the 29th Battalion, went to the park for a visit, and while there he captured a great horned owl which he thoughtfully presented to the park.

The reason was the German seizure of Kiao-Chow, which was the origin of the Boxer movement. This feeling was shown in the fact, though there were missionaries of other countries there, a German missionary was the only one to suffer massacre in the uprising.

KAISER CUTS HIS GROCERY BILLS

Gives Subjects Lesson in Frugality

ONLY WAR BREAD SERVED

Delicacies Are Banned - Chef Has No Chance to Display Genius - Few Guests Entertained

Copenhagen, Jan. 30.—The Kaiser and Kaiserin are cutting down the expenses of the imperial household and teaching the German people a lesson in frugality. The standard of meals at court appears to be no higher than that of many private families in the West End of Berlin. This, at any rate, is the statement published in the German papers and given out officially.

The Kaiser's chef has had no opportunity of displaying his inventive genius for new dishes since the outbreak of the war. Very few guests have been entertained at the Palace, and the Kaiserin has placed a ban on table delicacies. The Kaiser ordered a trial meal with "war bread" last November, and since then he has ordered that it be eaten at every meal. A few weeks ago it was placed on the menu at Great Headquarters, where it was said that it was greatly appreciated by the Kaiser himself.

The use of white bread for the members of the court at each meal, and the Kaiser's breakfast, when he eats at Berlin, is simple, consisting of an egg, tea or coffee, and war bread. Soup is served at one o'clock, and this is followed by a plate of meat or vegetables, but nothing else.

The evening meal is less frugal, but served in their skins, which are also eaten, says the Vossische Zeitung, and the Kaiser permits both meat and vegetables to be taken at this meal. The Kaiserin's choice is generally a slice of cold meat.

Both at the front and in the palace in Berlin, the Kaiser lives with Spartan simplicity. His choice is restricted to thick soup, containing chopped meat, and the Kaiser visits the kitchen every day, giving orders and superintending the cooking. "We cannot live sumptuously while our brave soldiers in the trenches are making great sacrifices," he is reported to have said.

Cakes, whipped cream, and other luxuries are forbidden at court. When the children of the Crown Prince and other members of the imperial family are invited to afternoon tea, a few crackers appear on the table, and even if the crown prince or the Duchess of Brunswick is a guest at dinner, no extra dish is added to the simple menu.

SOLDIERS TO CHURCH

North End will be the center of interest for tomorrow morning's church service. The members of the C. A. S. C. under the leadership of Mr. W. H. The 29th also will have a strong representation at the North End. There will also be companies at St. Paul's, while a large body will go to St. Peter's. Bands will accompany the units.

He worked on several of the dailies in the bigger cities and was also a contributor to different magazines, notably the Youth's Companion, writing generally under the non-descript name of "Wim Standish."
