Down, Down For "Spirit Gold"

CORNING, Ark.—Bearded, mud-spattered and armed to the teeth, eight Arkansas farmers have left their crops to rot in the fields and are sinking a 27-foot shaft in a river bottom quarrying to get a chest of buried gold that only the ghosts have seen.

How do they know the gold is there? The spirit world says so.

There is in this town a young girl who, it is said, communes with the spirits. She was born, her parents say, with a veil over her face; and when she talks with the unseen phantoms of the other world she draws a veil over her eyes and goes into a sort of trance.

This girl told the eight farmers that through the phantoms she saw a chest of gold and silver buried beneath the earth. She could see through the chest, she said, and could make out the dates on some of the coins. And while she did not actually lead them to the scene, she described its location by landmarks so that the men fixed on it as a small marshy island in the Black River, near here.

CONSULT OTHER MEDIUMS

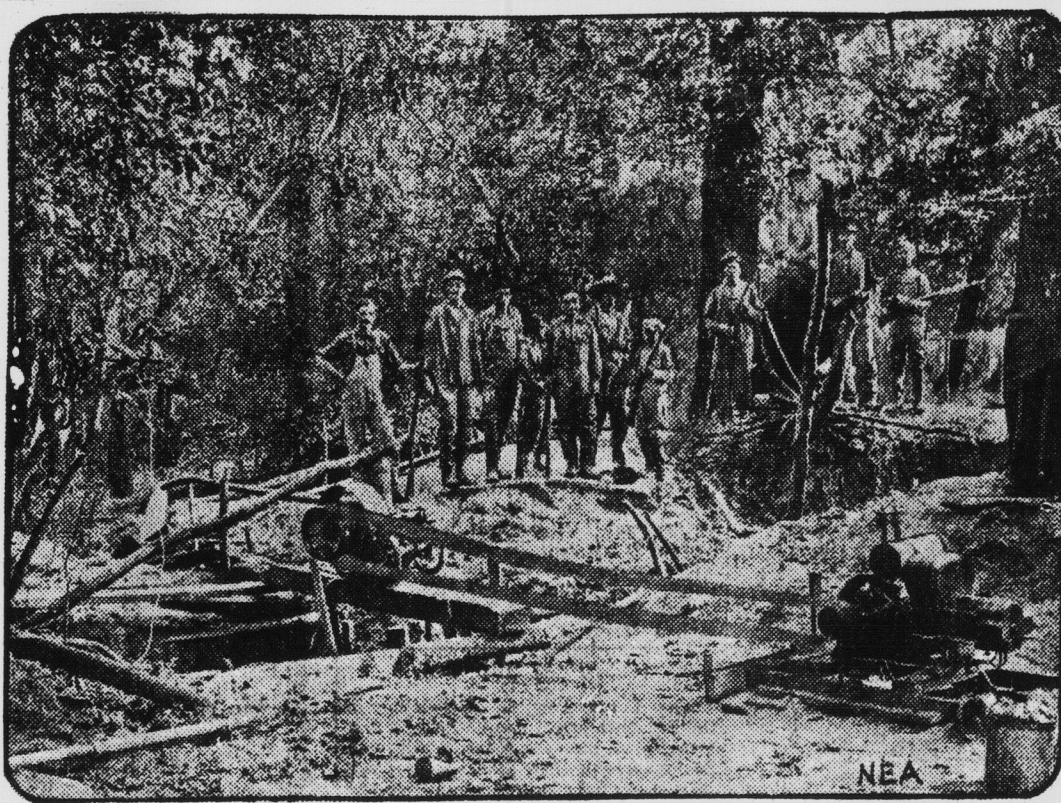

That was a year ago. Last fall they made several excavations, unsuccessfully. Then winter stopped them. In the spring they went to other mediums. These agreed that the gold was there, and gave more explicit directions: so this year the men dug a new shaft a little distance away from the old one.

The eight men and their families are living in tents beside the shaft. Their farms go unattended; their crops are rotting, unharvested.

There is a collection of rifles and revolvers in their camp that makes it look like a small arsenal. They have sentries posted constantly, and they have announced that if any suspicious-looking persons prowled around at night they will shoot first and investigate later. The people of this town do not bother them.

The shaft is now 27 feet deep. Digging it is slow, laborious work, because the soil is little better than quicksand. Thus far there has been absolutely no trace of any buried treasure. But the men are not discouraged.

When the chest is found its contents will be divided equally among the eight diggers. The men do not know how much money is in it, but they are con-

Where the Arkansas farmers are digging for the ghost's gold. The mouth of the shaft, with the gasoline engine that keeps it drained, can be seen in the foreground.

TOIL IN RELAYS

A gasoline engine keeps chugging to pump the water out of the oozy shaft. The men go down in relays, plying spade and mattock in its damp depths.

hoisting the slime and muck in buckets, digging, digging, for the ghostly treasure.

Just who buried the treasure in the first place, and why, is a point that nobody, not even the spirits, seems clear on. In a general sort of way it is assumed that "somebody" buried it during the stormy Civil War days, when guerre some communists, carried letters stating that they were authorized to collect funds, but the money they brought home never reached the federation's central fund.

MINERS' BODY TORN BY FEUD-OVER CASH

Official Deputation to U. S. Finds Reds Collected Money There First

Canadian Press Despatch.
LONDON, Oct. 4.—According to the Daily Express, there is a feud within the Miners' Federation growing out of money collected in the United States for the striking miners in the British Isles.

The newspaper asserts that general surprise was occasioned by the smallness of the response to the official delegates sent to the United States to collect funds and that the reason for the small contributions has now been disclosed in the report of the delegates.

All the money the United States unions could spare, says the Daily Express, was collected by an unofficial delegation which visited the United States just before the official representatives went there. These unofficial delegates, it is asserted, among whom

BACHELORS ASKED TO SEE 2,043 GIRLS

Mayor of Wallasey, Eng., is Trying to Get Mates For Surplus Women

British United Press.
WALLASEY, Eng., Oct. 4.—Lonely bachelors, not only in England, but also in Canada and the United States, have been invited by J. W. Holdsworth, called the Matrimonial Mayor of Wallasey, to come over and meet Wallasey's 2,043 surplus women.

Mayor Holdsworth is serious about his undertaking. He even holds up the climate of Wallasey as an added attraction in pointing out to uninformed bachelors the beauty of Wallasey girls. His campaign is already under way and is well advertised in England, but he is determined to interest the bachelors of the United States and Canada.

CANADA IMPRESSES CRAIG

Believes Advertisements to Get Immigrants Should Suggest Work Here

Canadian Press Despatch.
OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Rt. Hon. Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, returned to Ottawa today after an extended tour of the Dominion and in an interview he said he is deeply impressed with Canada as he has seen it, and its future. "I believe," said the Ulster premier, "that the common sense of the British people is such that they would appreciate an indication in the advertising of Canada, that the Dominion is hard work and that slightly less brilliant picturing would certainly do no harm."

HE IS PAST the kid stage if he is no longer proud of how long he stayed up last night.

Do This Daily

A naturally beautiful complexion will come as your reward
By NORMA TALMADGE

This is the simple rule beauty experts urge

GAINING a clear and charming complexion today no longer involves long and costly beauty treatments. Modern skin care strives for natural loveliness, effected in a natural and simple way—a way any woman can follow without expense or bother.

The simple rule below has brought the reward of a naturally clear skin to more women than any other method known.

Try it, if only for one week. Note the improvement that comes. The world's accepted beauty method today is simply the balmy olive and palm lather of Palmolive Soap used in this way:

THE RULE—MAKE IT YOURS STARTING TODAY
Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely—naturally colorful and clear.

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your face." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company of Canada, Limited.
