LOSSES ON THE CHAMPLAIN.
Amongst the heavy losers by the fire which destroyed the steamer Champlain was J. A. Hawkes of 125 Victoria street, who, with his wife, conducted the dining saloon on the boat. Besides about $125 worth of supplies and $80 worth of confectionery, Mr. Hawkes lost some good clothing, and his wife's purse and some dresses were destroyed. A $5 bill in the purse was also consumed. They also lost a quantity of personal effects. Robert S. Orclard, manager of the boat, lost $54 in silver.

Owners of the steamer Champlain had her insured for $5,000, the insurance covering about half the value of the vessel, which was placed at between $15,000 and $20,000 by steamboat men. The vessel was so completely burned that it was considered the wreck would not be an obstacle to navigation.

BILBSTER CLAIMS COVETED TROPHY

Harbor Commissioners Called Upon to Adjudicate on Unusual Position—Vessel's Bows Damaged.

(Montreal Gazette.)
With the arrival of the Canada Steamship Lines' steamer Bilbster in port at seven o'clock yesterday morning, the harbor of Montreal welcomed its first visitor of the season from deep water. The Bilbster came here directly from Norfolk, Va., bringing a cargo of nearly 8,000 tons of coal, which she is unloading at the Century Coal Company's wharf at Windmill Point. During her passage up the golf and river she was compelled to buck ice to an extent that will necessitate a visit to drydock before she can again proceed to sea. Several of the vessel's bow plates were damaged by the ice, but below the water-line she was unharmed and will not require any extensive repairs.
As the Bilbster sailed originally from Rotterdam, leaving that port on March 21, her master, Captain W. H. Benning, believes he is entitled to the gold-headed cane annually presented by the harbor commissioners to the first transatlantic vessel to reach Montreal. The Bilbster spent five days, from April 9 to April 14, in port at Norfolk, but her voyage was, nevertheless, from Rotterdam to Montreal, Capt. Benning states. The question of whether the trophy should go to the Bilbster or to one of several vessels now racing to Montreal direct from transatlantic ports was the source of considerable discussion in shipping circles yesterday, and will be finally decided by the harbor commissioners. The situation which has arisen this year is without precedent, it is believed, as in past years the first ocean arrival has in almost every case come from a port in the British Isles, with the exception of one or two small river or coasting vessels, which are not eligible for the award.

The prices of meat have advanced between 200 and 300 per cent. in recent months.

DUMBELLS RETURN WITH 1922 REVUE

New Offering Original, Colorful and Replete with Catchy Song Hits.

(Montreal Gazette.)
Old and new friends of the "Dumbells" gave the members of that organization an enthusiastic welcome on their return after an absence of some four months to His Majesty's Theatre last night with an entirely new production called "The Dumbells Revue of 1922." Francis and Albert Plunkett, the two original producers, were somewhat below their usual standard, and they performed in the new show with greater finish and as much whole-hearted enjoyment as in the original production. While last night's audience was not a capacity one, the house was nevertheless comfortably filled and bestowed evidence of its approval generally. Marjorie (Ross Hamilton), the company's prettiest member and one who is always a strong favorite in Montreal, is recovering from pneumonia and made his (or her) first appearance last night in four weeks. Although he was on the stage only three times during the performance and his voice, owing to his recent illness, was somewhat below its usual standard, his impersonation of the fair Marjorie was as convincing as ever. As Marie Antoinette, and in singing "The White Sultan" in the most Oriental scene which opens part two, Jimmy Goode in "I'm Nobody's Fool" and "I Makes Mine Myself" and Tom Young in "Girls of My Dreams" are other bright features.
The new revue is introduced by an original prologue, in which Emile Lebina, a French shepherd, meets at Mont St. Eloi the great three Canadian soldiers, representing the spirit of the infantry, the spirit of the artillery and the spirit of the air force. They tell him that although the C. E. F. has passed away, the Dumbells still live in Canada, and the performance of the revue follows for the benefit of the French peasant.

UNUSUAL AUTO TOP BUILT IN FRANCE

Canvas is Separate from the Frame—Kept Under Rear Seat.

An unusual type of automobile top is one of the features of a car manufactured by a French firm. The firm in question, having been a pioneer in the aviation movement, has paid a good deal of attention to head resistance in the design of its cars, and has condemned the conventional type of top as responsible for a considerable waste of power. They claim their design cheapens production, reduces weight and improves streamlining of the car.
On close-coupled, four-seater semi-sporting type bodies the top is carried on a couple of steel tube T-members, the forward one of which is dropped into a socket immediately behind the front seats and the rear one in a similar socket back of the rear seats. At the base of the vertical member of the T is a notch which fits over a pin in the socket, thus preventing any tendency to rattle. The canvas is entirely separate from the frame. The top and back are in one piece, and when not in use are folded up and kept in a suitable pocket, or under the rear seat cushion. When required as a protection, the canvas is fashioned down at the rear by push buttons, carried over the top of the windscreen frame. Attachment is made at the front by a stiffening bar running through the front edge of the canvas, and having its two ends fitting into eyes on the top of the windshield frame.
When not in use, the vertical leg of the forward T-piece drops into the corresponding leg of the rear T and the two are stored under the "deck" back of the front seats.

ST. JOHN ELECTIONS.

Fredericton Mail: The election of H. R. McLellan as mayor of St. John yesterday did not come as a great surprise, considering the fact that he had a most decisive majority in the primaries a fortnight ago. The fact that his majority yesterday was slightly increased goes to prove that those who voted for him a fortnight ago were in dead earnest. The people of St. John want hydro electric power at cost and they are going to have it or know the reason why. The new mayor has an excellent opportunity to render a real service to the city.
