She wore a tailored suit of navy blue tulle, and black velvet hat, with touches of gold brocade and a spray of feathers, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom's gift was a substantial check. Little Edna Garnett, niece and namesake of the bride, made a pretty little flower girl. She wore a dress of white mull, with touches of pink, and carried a basket of pink and white sweet-peas. She also wore a ring the gift of the groom. The bride was an esteemed member of the famous Lesley Film Co., and was presented on a beautiful chest of silver, monogram engraved. SIGNED UP, TOOK FOUR MEALS AND THEN BEAT IT

The workless in this vicinity are divided into two classes, according to the experience of the local branch of the unemployment service. There are the unemployed and the unemployable, and in strength of numbers the latter have it over the others like the proverbial tent.
Last Saturday a call from a point outside the city was responded to by the employment office in the form of a crew of twenty-three men, who were to start work on Monday morning. They were to receive $2.50 a day with seventy-five cents daily deducted for board and lodging. The gang arrived in time for supper Sunday in idleness during which three square meals were enjoyed and when Monday morning dawned and the crew was lined up for work only eight of the new gang were on hand. The other fifteen had vanished into thin air.
This kind of difficulty is only one of the many with which the local officials have to contend.

UNHEARD OF FOR 10 YEARS; FOUND IN SINGLE DAY
Two sisters last night learned the whereabouts of each other after several years' separation. A Canadian Press despatch from here yesterday, stated that Miss Maud Cunningham, of New York, had arrived in St. John, in search of her sister, May Cunningham, whom she had not seen for several years and of whom she had lost trace. The sisters were born in St. John, later going to New York.
Last night the sister, Miss May Cunningham, was located at 12 Oldfield avenue, Montreal, and was informed that her sister was in St. John searching for her. The news that her sister was alive came as a welcome surprise, and the fact that after so many years they are so near each other was agreeable tidings. She said that it was considerably over ten years since she had last heard from her sister. After training as a nurse in New York, Miss May Cunningham had returned to St. John, and since then had not seen her sister. After some years in St. John she went to Montreal where she has since resided, practicing her profession. She said that several times she had endeavored to locate her sister, and when told last night how and where she could get in communication with her was delighted that at last a re-union is possible.

RUNAWAY HORSE ON CITY TOUR
Ben Hur's chariot race, the ride of John Gilpin and the autumn flower show were all combined this morning in a trip which a horse attached to K. Pedersen's wagon took. The steed had to dodge his way through street traffic and to turn some sharp corners, and it was a corner which finally halted his mad flight when the wagon struck a fire hydrant at the corner of Waterloo and Union streets.
The driver was in front of the store, Charlotte street, fixing the bride when the horse got out of hand and started along Charlotte towards the south end. On reaching Queen street he turned towards the water until he reached Germain street, along which he headed north passing King street like Man O' War coming into the home stretch. He kept this up, slowing a little for the hill, until Union street was reached. Here he started east with a fresh burst of speed and in turning into Waterloo street struck a hydrant and was thrown. Neither the horse nor the wagon was damaged beyond a few slight scratches.
The amazing thing about the whole runaway was the way in which the horse seemed to realize that he had to slow to turn corners, the way he threaded his way among the traffic on the streets, including other teams, automobiles and street cars, without damage, and the terrific fall he sustained without apparent injury.
Policeman Duffy, at the head of King street, made an effort to stop the runaway, at it passed him, but the fact that the bride had been removed made it impossible to hold him.
