The Yreka Company will soon be nipping ore to the Crofton smelter. While the shipments at first will not be large, the company expect soon to charter a steamer of their own, which will take from 800 to 1,000 tons a trip, and will be capable of making about five trips a month.

The tramway, which will soon be com-pleted, is 3,890 feet long, and with an elevation of 1,200 feet from the water-front to the mine is worked by gravitation. Not only is there sufficient power given by the descent of the full buckets to carry back the empty ones, but there is also about twelve horse-power additional generated, which may be used for other purposes about the mines.
