HALIFAX NOTES.

Among the events of last week left unrecorded owing to Dominion Day taking Procurses to press a day earlier than usual, was the very pleasant tea given on Friday by Mrs. Samuel Brochfield, or Mrs. Thomson, one of the brides of the season. The day was a delightful one, and though there were three other teas going on, Mrs. Brockfield had a great many guests who divided their energies between tea and tenuls.

The very great novelty of an orange tea and reception given on the Academy stage at the close of the performance had a good deal to do with the large audience at the matinee last Saturday. The stage looked very pretty with a large table set with tea, tees and cakes, and the ladies of Mr. Harkins' company made charming hostesses. There was rather a deadly pause at first, before the audience summoned courage to leave their seats, but if another orange tea were to be given, there would be no fear of a repetition of such hesitation to profit by it. Little Miss Kittle Hughes looked both pretty and unaffected; she received a bouquet and various boxes of sweets from her guests, and deepened the favorable impression she had made on Halifax audiences.

At today's matinee she will present her photo.

At today's matinee she wiil present her photo. graph to everyone as a farewell souvenir. There has been no doubt about the success of Mr. Harkins' company here, and it is with regret we see it go, even though replaced by a Boston success.

The band of the Liverpool regiment has begun its Saturday afternoon concerts in the public gardens, and curiousiy enough plars to an audience solely composed of mothers, children and nursemaids. In other towns, the gardens would be a tashionable resort, but with the abolition of the tenpis grounds the star of fashion set as far as they were concerned. Nothing except a strong effort on the part, say of the first ladies in the gardens. Even with that done, there would be a great factor in bringing society wanting; the tea tables vanished with the tennis racket from the west-side of the garden, and the eitle in consequence know the place no more.

The Archbishop of Hailfax and Father Murphy visited the French man of war, the "Magron" on Monday, and lun hed or His Grace was received with a salute of three guns.

Rev. T. and Mrs. Duncan are making a visit to their daughter, Mrs. H. ts. Beuld. Mr. Duncan was for some time pastor of St. Andrew's church, and has many friends here; his home is now in Scotland, where he return next month.

The Misses Maclean returned on Saturday from Moston.

Invitations are out for two teas next week; one on Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. J. Y. Payzant, one on Thursday given by Mrs. E. G. Satynes.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Jones gave a large garden party at Bloomingdale, N. W. Arm. The afternoon was fortunately very fine, as there was an enormous number of people present, enough even to crowd a large house had the weather been wet. As it was all arrangements had been very well made to prevent or common the standard of the control o

JULY 5.—The Y. M. C. A. has been in advance of all else this week in supplying pleasures at whole sale. On Tuesday evening their sixth anniversary was celebrated in a very interesting way. Their large hall was literally packed with visitors, in response to a kind invitation, but those who were unfortunately late, shared the fate of the "focilish virgins" and retired, wishing the hall were double its dimensions for at least that particular evening as the programme off-red attractions too excellent to miss without regret.

Prominent among the numbers was a solo from "Ruth and Naomi," by Mrs. W. Y. Chapman, of Reading, P.a., whose sweetly pathetic voice has the same fascination as when she graced the Amherst stage as Miss Greenfield. "He diverth His Beloved Sleep" by Miss Miles afforded intense pleasure to the audience, her pure contraito voice was certainly at its best. The semi-circle of gentlemen on the platform was formed of President J. McKeen, 1st vice-President M. D. Pride, 2nd vice-President, B. D. Beut (the trio were quite typical of the three pillars, wisdom, beauty, and strength), Rev. Mr. Steele, J. H. McDonald, Rev. Mr. Grierson and Rev. T. B. Smith with Messrs. J. A. Biack and W. B. Robb. The near departure of Mr. Fred H. Barrow, their popular secretary for the past four years, seemed to overshadow the event. His great consideration for the boys coupled with his generosity, has won for him a first class position in their estimation to say nothing of the host of friends made in an older circle. On friends yevening a delightful little social was held for his especial pleasure as it was possibly the last one he will enjoy here as he purposes leaving Amherst this week. Mrs. Casey, Miss Miles and several other of his friends were the promoters.

A large number of our young people, chaperoned by Mrs. Machine the adding the work of the w crowded house, and was as I perceited, an immense success. Everyone was pleased, which goes without saying, for a great many admiring papas and mammas, not to speak of sisters, cousins and aunts, made of themselves a large and appreciative audisonce.

The operatta itself was very pretty, and went smoothly and without a hitch from start to finish. The best of it all, in my humble opision at least, was the sight of the tweuty-four pretty little maidens who composed the caste, and who were in themselves, if I may be allowed a bit of very mild slang, "a sight for a father." More beautiful children one would have to go far to see, and I at least would have gone a good deal further than I did for the mere sake of looking at them. Anything more winsome and fetching than little Gladys Stroom, Ethel Brown, the two Elist's, Nita Rassell, Ethel Weston and in deed the whole troop, I never saw anywhere. A gipsy camp in the second act was a pretty bit of color and grouping, the brilliant costumes of the gipsies showing well against the white tent and green background, and bringing out effectively the dark, as well as the fair beauty of the wearers.

The Misse Churchill, of Hantsport, played a violin duet, Moret's "Petite Symphony," and gave as an encore an air from "I II Trovatore," and Miss Gilkins of Kentville, is paying a visit to her friends, who are very sorry to have her make her home under another flag, an adjusting the brilliant costumes of the gipsies showing well against the white tent and green background, and bringing out effectively the dark, as well as the fair beauty of the wearers.

She has shown us what artistic taste and skill combined with patience and perseverance can accomplish, and I thank her in the name of the audience for a pleasant evening and one of the prettiest sights I have seen for many a day.
