

BEHIND THE SCENES WITH THE LOVELY RUTH CLIFFORD

Bluebird Actress and Her Director Differ as to Methods of Courtship—Chinaman Gets Part in "Home James" Because He Possesses a Pigtail—"Home James" Does Not Always Mean "Home James."

Ruth Clifford, the Bluebird star, who will be remembered as the blacksmith's daughter in "The Kalsner," and Elsie Jane Wilson her present director, are "mad" at each other.

Miss Clifford "fell down" in a scene in "Home James," her new picture, and bled her nose. Besides, losing blood Miss Clifford drew down upon herself the reproaches of her director for wasting film! It happened in the climatic scene of the picture when Miss Clifford rushes to meet her sweetheart who appears at a ticklish moment.

"Hurry, now, hurry Ruth!" admonished Miss Wilson in rehearsing the scene.

Then came the "taking." When Al Ray, cousin of Charlie, made his entrance, Miss Clifford "turned in her tracks" and made for the door. Tripping over the edge of a rug she still heard ringing in her ears the words "Hurry, Ruth!" and with a last effort the star hurried herself forward, expecting to land in the arms of Ray. But the juvenile leading man had been directed to remain standing in the doorway and Miss Clifford struck the doorpost first. Ensnared the blood-lusting and a mad rush out of the set for a brief "weep."

"Now I'll tell you why I just couldn't hurry to meet Al," explained Miss Clifford to Miss Wilson later. "I didn't want to tell you before, but do you think it's quite proper for a young woman to rush across the room into the arms of her sweetheart who stands in the doorway waiting for her? Now, if I were directing this picture I'd have Al rush over to me!"

Treasured Possession.

"Wong Yung likes velly much to see Bluebird actresses—plittiest of all actresses!"

So remarked Wong Yung, the Oriental, now a Bluebird performer. Mr. Wong has a part in Ruth Clifford's latest picture, and as a newcomer to the Bluebird studios he was interviewed. He submitted gracefully, "I go 'round pitcha places all 'long," said Mr. Wong. "I look all time for plittiest actresses to work for. Bluebird have plittiest of all actresses—I catchum steady job heah—no?"

When the Chinaman applied to Director Elsie Jane Wilson for a role she told him she might use a Chinaman in "Home James," but she wanted a "fellow with a pigtail."

Wong looked hurt at this but retorted: "Cue—he go oulla style seven year ago. No moah cue on Chinese-boy!"

Miss Wilson, although properly rebuked, insisted she must have a cue for "atmosphere." So Wong delved into a capacious pocket and produced in her a snaky affair, silken in texture and of oblong hue—his "cue," which he had amputated seven years ago when democratic Chinamen renounced the imperially favored hirsute appendage.

"Cue, he velly fine," asserted Wong. "When lillee boy I glow him—three, fo', five foot long. Now—no mo'. But fo' pitcha I paste 'im on, so!"

"Home James."

Jimmy Horne, who used to direct for Universal, but who now makes pictures for Bluebird, is the director of "Home James."

There are long strings of coral beads, which fall over a white or pale bisque waistcoat very effectively, and there are strings of coral and shell gold, to which are attached smart lorgnettes. Coral-set arrow thrust through convertible coat collars and coral-tipped hatpins project from sailors of lustrous black felt or velvet.

A woman lunching at a hotel wore a taupe suit, a small black velvet turban draped with a long taupe-colored veil and black patent leather pumps, with taupe-colored spats.

"OUR WOMEN CANNOT FAIL!"

As long as Toronto mothers get such messages as these from sons can they help but echo the above words? One mother's boy writes from an English hospital, after four years out there:

"I was so glad to hear from you—and so proud, too, that you write and say that you are glad I am not permanently disabled and will be able to return to France again. So many people say, 'Oh, you have done your bit now—come home and rest.' And I have done nothing compared to so many. Why, my former sergeant (having got his commission) is here now and preparing to return—although he has been wounded five times, and has the Military Medal and a bar to it!"

We, who are your women, when have we failed you? We who stood beside you when dread or doubt assailed you in the old days of living over the war-call hailed you?

We who are your women, we hand you the sword. We bade you forth to battle in the Service of the Lord. We promised faith and aid and strength to be your sure reward.

We, who are your women, now that you are gone, Shall we sit with idle hands, thinking every one, That her task has been fulfilled, that her work is done?

We, who are your women, you callus overseas For shelter, care and comfort—your sterner things than these, All that makes for might and strength against our enemies.

We, who are your women, by all that makes our pride, By love, by hope, by courage, by our hearts denied, Pledge these sendings to you through sendings multiplied.

We, who are your women, be sure we see aught The single day left for us who speak to you to fight! We who gave the sword to you—we must keep it bright!

We, who are your women, when have we failed you in the old days of living over the war-call hailed you? As we gave the sword to you—we must keep it bright!

WHEN ON A VISIT BE YOUR OWN MAID

How to Take Care of One's Clothes When Away from Home—Remember to be Careful of the Property of Your Hostess Also.

Clothes are more expensive than they used to be—one does not have quite so many. And the handmaiden is one of the people who has put her prices up. So the average woman is taking on her own shoulders little more of the burden of keeping her costumes in order than she felt it necessary to do in seasons past.

A small electric flatiron will prove worth its weight in gold—frocks may be smoothed out in a few moments, handkerchiefs and neckwear may be freshened and even blouses of the modern, soft sort, done up satisfactorily in one's own room, by aid of the electric iron and a basin of soap and water. The pure soap flakes that dissolve in water easily will be best for dainty belongings and such garments should not be hung in a sunny window, but back in the room where they will have shade and breeze. Iron will still damp.

The woman who is careful of other people's property will put into the bottom of her trunk a small pressing board and an asbestos mat for the hot iron. A layer cake tin inverted will be still better for the iron. Never spread a towel over a polished bureau top or table for your ironing—the towel will stick to the varnish, and the piece of furniture will be ruined. In lieu of the pressing board, carry along a small blanket and fold this several times to make a mat on which to iron.

Carry with you also preparations for removing spots from blouses and neckwear, and be careful to use any of these preparations only by daylight, and not near any room where there is an open fire. Silk stockings may be soaked over night and rinsed out without undue rubbing in the morning. If worn only once before the washing, suits and frocks that will not be convenient to press out should be carefully hung on wooden hangers, with tissue paper in the sleeves, and pockets or other parts apt to sag pinned neatly in place.

Do This Each Morning, You Won't Need Cascarets

Great exercise! Keeps Stomach, Liver and Bowels active. Nothing like it! Splendid!

But if you insist upon taking your exercise in an easy chair you simply must take a laxative occasionally. The very, very best laxative is Cascarets—10 cents a box. "They work while you sleep."

Nothing else works the bile, sour fermentations and poison from the liver and bowels like harmless Cascarets. When Headache, Bilious, Constipated or if Breath is Tainted, Complexion Sallow, Stomach Sour, just take a Cascaret at night. Wake up next morning looking rosy and feeling fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken. Cause no inconvenience!
