Victoria St. House Damaged By Fire

Fire in Charles Parker's Home Thought to Have Caught from Lighted Lamp.

The family of Charles Parker, 131 Victoria street, and some visiting friends received a somewhat unpleasant surprise last evening when flames were seen bursting from a room in the rear of the house, and for a time excitement was high. An attempt was made to throw some water on the blaze, but it was soon seen that sterner measures than this were necessary, and an alarm was sent in from box 131. The department made a quick response and soon had the blaze under control, but it was about three-quarters of an hour before the all out was struck.

Members of the family were unable to account for the fire, as there was no heat in the room and the only explanation they can offer is that a lamp, which had been left lighted, and in some manner the curtains have caught from it. The door was closed, and the first intimation they had that anything was wrong was seeing the flames coming out around the door casing. The intense heat burst the window out and the flames were seen shooting up the side of the building. Fortunately the flames were confined to the room in which they originated, and outside the damage was all around the window casing.

The fire occurred in the second floor. Some water damage was done to the lower floor and smoke damage to the upper floor.

The building was owned by E. B. Johnston and occupied by J. W. Mealey, on the first floor; Charles Parker, second floor, and Charles Rourke, third floor.

It was stated last evening that all parties carried insurance to cover their losses. The alarm was rung in at 8.50 and the all out blow struck at 9.35.

Two Arrested For Supplying Morphine

Archie MacNeil and Walter Sproul Taken Into Custody by Government Officers.

Two arrests for the unlawful sale of morphine were made by officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police here yesterday acting on behalf of the opium and drug section of the Federal Department of Health. An officer of the Federal secret service arrested Archie MacNeil, a shed foreman for the C. P. R., at five o'clock yesterday afternoon after MacNeil left No. 8 warehouse at Sand Point where the S. S. Melita is taking on cargo.

At about the same time officer Roffe of the R. C. M. P. placed Walter Sproul, a brick mason, under arrest on the Eastern side of the harbor. Both men were taken into custody on warrants charging them with unlawfully supplying morphine.

Although no morphine was obtained on the person of either man, it was alleged that a small quantity had previously been obtained from each of them.

It is said that a stool pigeon acting for the authorities led the men to believe he was open to buy the drug, and that both of them, who were each suspected of having cached a supply, were led to deliver samples to the man, and the warrants thereupon issued.

The arrests are the first of their kind in the province, previous arrests had been made for the unlawful supply of opium but never before of the "white stuff," morphine.

It is believed that the two men were working independently of each other, and it is further asserted that they were effecting a considerable sale of the drug in the city, as there are quite a few addicts in the city including women.

Although nothing has yet been disclosed as to the source of the drug it would appear that it must have been brought over the water, and that the local men were used as clearing houses.

An application from the local Chataqua committee for exemption from the civic license fee of $10 per annum was received by the city council yesterday and several matters of routine business were dealt with. Commissioner Jones reported on the proposed sewer in the Lansdowne Avenue area and the members of the council will make an inspection of the ground. He also presented a report that the sewer would not be possible to serve Reed's Castle with city water without using a pump.

Mayor Schofield presided and Commissioners Thornton, Jones, Frink and Bullock were in attendance.

The report of the committee of the whole, as published yesterday, was adopted. A communication was received from No. 2 Salvage Corps that W. E. Deming had resigned and his warrant was ordered cancelled.

George Carvell, water and sewerage engineer, reported on the proposed sewer in the Lansdowne Avenue area and the members of the council will make an inspection of the ground. He also presented a report that the sewer would not be possible to serve Reed's Castle with city water without using a pump.

Commissioner Jones reported that he had looked into the request of W. I. Fenton for water and sewerage installation to the Reed's Castle property. Mount Pleasant and found the water would not rise to the level and it would be necessary to use a pump and he was so reporting to Mr. Fenton.

Commissioner Jones presented a plan of the proposed trunk sewer in the Lansdowne Avenue area. It was intended to lay a 36-inch sewer from Dufferin Avenue across the rifle range and from there an open trench leading into Newman Brook. The open trench would be about 500 feet in length and the cost would be about $12,000. It was proposed to lay the sewer pipe on a concrete base. On the suggestion of Commissioner Frink it was decided to visit the site before taking any action and the members of the council will go over this afternoon at three o'clock.

The publishers of Industrial Canada wrote that they were publishing three editions dealing particularly with the Maritime Provinces and suggesting that the city advertise in these issues. A page in the three issues would cost $188 and a half page $105. The matter was left with the mayor with power to act.

Rev. A. L. Todd, J. W. Flowering and B. P. McKinnis, representing Chataqua, appeared and asked that the city license fee of $10 per day be remitted. They claimed this was the only city in the 797 in which they did business that such a tax was imposed and as the enterprise was not a money making one they should not be called on to pay it. Mr. McKinnis claimed Chataqua had never been given a fair deal in St. John. The members of the council promised consideration of the request.

States had not jurisdiction in the matter he was compelled to come to New Brunswick.

An Interesting Lecture Delivered

Mrs. Kate Trounson Spoke on "Woman's Political Progress and Her Political Outlook."

The lecture room of the Natural History Society was taxed to its capacity last evening by the large number of women who attended the lecture delivered by Mrs. Kate Trounson, secretary of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance, on Woman's Political Progress and Her Political Outlook.

In a clear, lucid, and most interesting manner, Mrs. Trounson traced the gradual emancipation of women and their securing of the vote in the different nations throughout the world, and the several reforms they had been successful in obtaining.

Although the meeting was largely a woman's meeting, two or three men were present, and among them were some of the most prominent men of the city who acted as the chairman of the evening.

After being introduced to her audience, Mrs. Trounson spoke of the kind of reception that had been accorded her by the women of St. John, which she assured them, she greatly appreciated.

In addition to the welcome, she thanked the citizens for the opportunity that had been afforded her to visit the schools, libraries, factories, and other public institutions where she had learnt a very great deal.

Canada she said was possessed of a land of space and breadth, originally and youth, and those of the old country invited them to send representatives to the Old Country, so that they might be refreshed by their vigorous viewpoints and instructed by their accomplishments.

Taking up her subject she stated that the aim of the Women's International Suffrage Alliance was to obtain full political rights for the women of all the civilized nations of the world.

In 1914, she said, the number of women possessing the right to express themselves politically could be counted on the fingers of one hand, but during the war twenty-one nations had granted their women that privilege and today were looking to their women, who possessed exactly what was needed in the work of reconstruction.

All the new nations of Europe established through the disintegration of the Germanic, Austria-Hungarian, and Russian empires, had granted the vote to their women, and even in Musulman Crimea, in India a number of provinces had granted her the privilege, although through the creation of the present Free State they had not yet reached the same status as that of the women of Great Britain.

Mrs. Trounson commented on the fact that this had caused the women's organization of both the South and the North to meet and unite in a demand for full political rights.

Referring to the status of women in Great Britain, the speaker said, that women there were eligible for membership in the House of Commons and in all local political bodies, and only recently to the House of Lords.

Every woman of twenty-one or upwards was entitled to stand as a candidate for the commons, but no woman was allowed to vote until she had attained the age of thirty. At that age, she could vote, provided her husband was a householder or lodger. As regards municipal government, she could vote at twenty-one if the husband was a householder or lodger, and at thirty if the woman herself fell into that category.

Mrs. Trounson expressed the view that the entrance of women into politics had not changed the power of the political parties, but had only tended to make them pay particular attention to questions regarding women.

Through the emancipation, she said, women had won the right to practice in all the professions to which they had hitherto been barred. They might serve as jurors the same as the men, but might be excused from any case in which the evidence was of an objectionable nature—a privilege condemned by the Suffragettes who insisted on no distinctions—and all public offices had been thrown open to them except those in the Army and Church.

Referring to the principles which the women were still fighting for, Mrs. Trounson said they included an equal vote for both sexes, and that men, violent in the moral code should be subjected to the same punishment as the women.

Mrs. Trounson said there had been three women already elected to the House of Commons, the first was an Irish woman, who had refused to take her seat. She paid high tribute to Lady Astor, the first woman to actually sit in the Commons, who, she said, had broken down age-long traditions in a most tactful and graceful manner, and who had done a great deal in the interests of women and children.

Referring to what women had accomplished in countries in which they had possessed the vote for some time, New Zealand was cited, instead of the breaking up of the home that had been prophesied there had been a steady evolution. Greater civil liberty had been obtained, the standard of morality was made equal, women did not have to prove special damage in an action for slander, men were prevented from disposing of their property by will without making equal provision for their families. The adoption of children had been regulated, the welfare, health and comfort of shop girls had been legally protected, and colleges had been thrown open to the women.

England, in contrast to this, refused to grant the guardianship of her child to a married woman, that right rested in the father; but if a married woman failed to provide for the support of her child she could be imprisoned. Colorado was cited as another place where women had secured beneficial legislation. There it was enacted that there should be no woman physician on the board of every insane asylum; that there should be three women out of the five members of the State Home for dependent children; an Industrial School for Girls had been erected; protection for the feeble minded, and a juvenile court. In Denmark the women had secured a law providing for equal pay for equal work, and all Government positions had been thrown open to women, and an equal status in marriage granted.

Commenting on Austria, the audience was informed that to qualify a woman to vote in that country she was required to be the mother of two children.

The women members of parliament elected in each country were given as follows: Sweden 5, Norway 1, Germany 40, Poland 5, Netherlands 2, Rhodesia, Africa, 1, United States Congress 1, State Legislatures 33.

The women of France, Spain, Italy, Portugal and South America, Mrs. Trounson said, were still fighting for the vote, and it was to help and encourage them that the alliance aimed. She urged that Canadian women lend them their sympathy, and said they should not forget that the women of England were still fighting for equal franchise.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. E. A. Smith, who in thanking Mrs. Trounson on behalf of those present, stated that she had never been a member of a suffrage association, and although now in favor of suffrage, thought there were certain fields of effort in which women should remain at home and not meddle amongst others, just.

Mrs. R. J. Hooper seconded the motion and stated she was proud to have been a member of a suffrage organization for over twenty years. She hoped the Canadian women, having won the vote, would be able to acquire themselves as well as those of New Zealand. She thought that women should realize that there was a great task than merely considering the welfare of women and children, but that they should also consider that of the men, and thought the most beneficial results in legislation would be obtained by men and women considering the other's point of view.

The vote of thanks was unanimously carried and extended by Archdeacon Crowfoot to Mrs. Trounson, who in thanking the meeting, took occasion to extend the greetings of the Canadian Women's League of Great Britain to the Catholic women of Canada, as she had been requested by them to do. The Suffolk branch, she said, had received the apostolic blessing of the newly elected Pope Pius XI, who had wished them blessings and enlightenment on all their undertakings.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the executive of the Women's Council, convened by Mrs. Wilfred Campbell.

Reports Received and Addresses by Mrs. Bone and Miss Hill on Missions.

Last evening was observed as missionary rally in Waterloo Street Baptist Church and there was a large attendance. The meeting opened with a song service after which Miss Margaret Hamilton, superintendent of the Mission Band announced their objective for their department for the coming year, as also did Mrs. Thomas Robinson for the Ladies Missionary Aid Society. Pastor Swetnam rendered a solo and then introduced Mrs. Bone as the speaker of the evening. Mrs. Bone delivered an inspiring missionary address and dealt with the needs of India and the foreign mission city of St. John as a home mission and Canada as part of the Missionary enterprise. The address was very interesting and held the attention of the audience from start to finish.

A visitor in the congregation was Miss Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill, missionaries of the Congo. Miss Hill also addressed the meeting and made a deep impression on all present.
