

WAR NOTES.

Well, President Wilson is at least not too proud to parade. Canadians are now commanded by General Byng. That's the kind of a name for a leader. It means something.

War prices have affected Bibles. Most of us have copies almost as good as new, however.

New York Staats Zeitung calls the Kaiser "Admiral of the Atlantic" now. For the present, however, his flagship remains in the Kiel Canal.

An eagle in full flight is pictured on the new coins just minted at Washington. "In full flight," mark you.

When the war began Germany wanted the earth. Now the Huns will be satisfied with a peace.

English corset-makers cannot get exemption from compulsory military service. Well, many women are now self-supporting.

The Germans have set their clocks an hour ahead, but that doesn't seem to hasten their entry into Verdun.

Greece denies that it tried to get a loan from Germany. Of course not. The Fatherland is not making loans just now.

Courierettes.

JOHN BULL is fairly busy on the high seas these days, reading Uncle Sam's letters and keeping a weather eye out for stray German ships.

There may be peace in Europe soon, but there'll be none in the U. S. until November.

Why does a man who talks as much as Teddy live at a place with a name like Oyster Bay?

Sir Edward Carson and John Redmond have recently been seen smoking cigarettes together. Will their peace parley end in smoke?

Man arrested in England had his pants lined with Treasury notes. "Cheque trousers" indeed.

A wise girl may throw herself at a man if she is sure that he is a "good catch."

Germany has ordered that crows and sparrows are to be used as food. Just by way of getting accustomed to the diet of crow that is sure to come.

Nasty critics of the British Government accuse it of killing nothing but time.

Germany has had a lot of war, but food reports do not go to show that she is "fed up" with it yet.

Sir Sam Hughes would be a great Minister of Militia if he were as silent as his namesake, the Republican nominee.

Shoes are going up in price, and it's only natural that people should kick.

Herr Liebnicht says that the war is living on lies. There's no lack of that kind of war munition.

Rockefeller has bought a new suit of clothes. The price of gasoline didn't go up for nothing.

It is announced that the labour unions in Mexico are opposed to war. We did not know that there were enough workers down there to form a union.

Von Tirpitz has retired to the Black Forest, which is a fitting resort for a man with such a black record.

Query.—Some months ago, was it not, the newspapers proclaimed the fact—"Portugal enters the war." What war?

Just a Suggestion.—In order to modify to some extent the horrors of war, why do not the armies use mild anesthetics instead of poison gases?

Rather.—"Going to the mountains for your vacations?"

"No—cost of living is too high already."

Sir David Beatty's Thanks.—Col. Cecil G. Williams, chief recruiting officer for the Dominion, a live wire of an officer who has risen with remarkable rapidity to his present important post, tells of an interesting incident which gives a glimpse of the human side of the character of that great British naval officer, Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty.

It happened in Picton, Ont., last fall when Col. Williams was lecturing there, and making an appeal for comforts to be sent the sailors in Britain's navy. The colonel himself had spent 18 years in the navy and knew the needs of the men. He is a man of magnetic personality and compelling eloquence, and he made a strong impression on the mind of a lad named Carter. As Col. Williams, along with the local newspaper man, was leaving the hall, the boy approached him and extended his hand. There were 40 cents in it.

"That's for the sailors" said the lad, shyly. "I was saving it up to buy a pair of skates, but I can do without them."

Col. Williams refused to take the money. "God help me, I didn't see the spirit of the boy," he remarked afterwards. But the Picton editor nudged him on the arm, and said, "Take the boy's money—it will do him good." The colonel finally took the 40 cents.

He sent the money to Lady Beatty, along with a note explaining the origin of the gift. She was so struck by the spirit of self-sacrifice shown by the lad that she sent the letter on to Sir David, who with his British bulldogs was somewhere in the North Sea, keeping watch day and night for the fleet of the foe. Sir David liked the lad's unselfish spirit so much that he assembled the crew of the Lion and read Col. Williams' letter, to the accompaniment of the cheers of the men.

A few weeks later there arrived in Picton a pair of the best silver-mounted boy's skates obtainable in England, the thanks of Sir David and Lady Beatty for the 40 cents given by young Carter.

"It was a paying investment" says Col. Williams. "That pair of skates will be historic."

There's a Reason.—A Boston stenographer declares that she has had eight employers, and that not one of them tried to kiss her. It is quite evident that her face is not her fortune.

Rightly Said.—Teacher.—"What are the chief exports of the United States?"

Bright Pupil.—"In time of peace, tourists; in time of war, munitions."

Tough.—Three thousand newspapers shut down in Germany since the war began. Liberty of the press is a tough proposition in Hunland. It consists chiefly of liberty to cease publication.

Legal Notice

Canadian Calumet & Montana Mining Company, Limited

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that under the First Part of chapter 79 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, known as "The Companies Act," letters patent have been issued under the Seal of the Secretary of State of Canada, bearing date the 21st day of February, 1916, incorporating Thomas Anderson Burgess and J. Ogilvie Cairns, barristers-at-law, Charles Osborne Wood, civil engineer, and Mary Ida Keays and Margaret Surgeon, stenographers, all of the City of Ottawa, in the Province of Ontario, for the following purposes, viz:—

(a) To prospect for, open, explore, develop, work, improve, maintain, and manage gold, silver, copper, nickel, lead, coal, iron and other mines, quarries, mineral and other deposits and properties and to dig for, dredge, raise, crush, wash, smelt, roast, assay, analyze, reduce and amalgamate and otherwise treat ores, metals and mineral substances of all kinds, whether belonging to the company or not, and to render the same merchantable, and to sell and otherwise dispose of the same, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and generally to carry on the business of a mining, milling, reduction and development company;

(b) To acquire by purchase, lease, concession, license, exchange, or other legal title, mines, mining lands, easements, mineral properties or any interest therein, minerals and ores and mining claims, options, powers, privileges, water and other rights, patent rights, processes and mechanical or other contrivances, and either absolutely or conditionally, and either solely or jointly with others, and as principals, agents, contractors or otherwise and to lease, place under license, sell, dispose of and otherwise deal with the same or any part thereof or any interest therein;

(c) To construct, maintain, alter, make, work and operate on the property of the company, or on property controlled by the company, tramways, telegraph or telephone lines, reservoirs, dams, flumes, race and other ways, water powers, aqueducts, wells, roads, piers, wharves, buildings, shops, smelters, refineries, dredges, furnaces, mills and other works and machinery, plant and electrical and other appliances of every description, and to buy, sell, manufacture and deal in all kinds of goods, stores, implements, provisions, chattels and effects required by the company or its workmen or servants;

(d) To construct or acquire by lease, purchase, or otherwise and to operate and maintain undertakings, plant, machinery, works and appliances for the generation or production of steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic, or other power or force; also lines of wire, poles, tunnels, conduits, works and appliances for the storing, delivery and transmission under or above ground of steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force for any purpose for which the same may be used, and to contract with any company or person upon such terms as are agreed upon to connect the company's lines of wire, poles, tunnels, conduits, works and appliances with those of any such company or persons, and generally to carry on the business of generating, producing and transmitting steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force; to acquire by lease, purchase, or otherwise steam, electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force, and to use, sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the same and all power and force produced by the company, provided, however, that any sale, distribution or transmission of electric, pneumatic, hydraulic or other power or force beyond the lands of the company shall be subject to local and municipal regulations;

(e) To take, acquire and hold as the consideration for ores, metals, or minerals sold or otherwise disposed of, or for goods supplied or for work done by contract or otherwise, shares, debentures, bonds or other securities of or in any other company having objects similar to those of the company and to sell or otherwise dispose of the same, notwithstanding the provisions of section 44 of the said Act;

(f) To manufacture and deal in logs, lumber, timber, wood, metal, all articles into the manufacture of which wood or metal enters and all kinds of natural products and by-products thereof;

(g) To build upon, develop, cultivate, farm, settle and otherwise improve and utilize the lands of the company and to lease, sell, or otherwise deal with or dispose of the same and to aid and assist by way of bonus advances of money or otherwise, with or without security, settlers and intending settlers upon any lands belonging to or sold by the company, or in the neighbourhood of such lands, and generally to promote the settlement of such lands;

(h) To purchase or otherwise acquire and undertake and assume all or any part of the assets, business, property, privileges, contracts, rights, obligations and liabilities of any person, firm or company carrying on any business which this company is authorized to carry on, or any business similar thereto or possessed of property, suitable for the purposes thereof;

(i) To raise and assist in raising money for and to aid by way of bonus, loan, promise, endorsement, guarantee or otherwise any corporation in the capital stock of which the company holds shares, or with which it may have business relations, and to act as employee, agent or manager of any such corporation, and to guarantee the performance of contracts by any such corporation, or by any person or persons with whom the company may have business relations;

(j) To build, acquire, own, charter, navigate and use steam and other vessels;

(k) To apply for, purchase or otherwise acquire any patents of invention, trade marks, copyrights or similar privileges relating to or which may be deemed useful to the company's business and to sell or otherwise dispose of the same as may be deemed expedient;

(l) To join, consolidate and amalgamate with any person, society, company or corporation carrying on a business similar in whole or in part to that of this company and to pay or receive the price agreed upon in cash or in paid-up and non-assessable shares, bonds or debentures or other securities or guarantees of the company;

(m) To develop or assist in developing any auxiliary or allied company carrying on business of a like nature or germane to that of this company and to become shareholders in the same;

(n) To enter into partnership or into any arrangement for sharing profits, union of interests, co-operation, joint adventure, reciprocal concession or otherwise with any person or company carrying on or engaged in, or about to carry on or engage in any business or transaction which the company is authorized to carry on, or engage in;

(o) To lease, sell or otherwise dispose of the property and assets of the company, or any part thereof, for such consideration as the company may deem fit, including shares, debentures or securities of any company;

(p) To do all acts and exercise all powers and carry on all business incidental to the due carrying out of the objects for which the company is incorporated and necessary to enable the company to profitably carry on its undertakings;

(q) To do all or any of the above things as principals, agents or attorneys. The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere by the name of "Canadian Calumet & Montana Mining Company, Limited," with a capital stock of forty thousand dollars, divided into 40,000 shares of one dollar each, and the chief place of business of the said company to be at the City of Toronto, in the Province of Ontario.

Dated at the office of the Secretary of State of Canada, this 24th day of February, 1916.

THOMAS MULVEY,
Under-Secretary of State.
