HOW CARDINAL FOOLED HUNS

Mercier Sent Out Letters by Shrewd Ruse.

Germans Thought Them Cheese Wrappers.

New York despatch—In the course of a speech to the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor to-night Cardinal Mercier told them a story of a round Dutch cheese that, as an instance of top-grade business acumen and efficiency set every practical man of them rubbing his hands with a relish that none tried to conceal.

"At the frontier between Holland and Belgium we have a seminary with seven or eight hundred students in it, and for their living their receive very frequently a number of Dutch cheeses in boxes. I had there a very good friend, a priest. Many of the boxes come to Belgium from Holland for commerce. And as the Germans liked the cheese, they allowed it to pass into our country.

"Well, I thought I could send my letters in a very sure way this way. When the cheeses came to our Belgium seminary from Holland they arrived wrapped in papers which were afterward carefully sent back. By then, of course, they were old and stained. So I wrote my letter on paper which I had carefully made old and filthy and soiled looking, and my friend in due time received it. He took it and published it, and had it sent to France and England, and you in America got it from England, and it was published here on the same morning that German officers were upbraiding me for it at home."

NEAR BANKRUPTCY

Many German Industries in a Bad Way.

London Cable—Reports reaching this city from Germany relative to the Leipzig fair throw light on Germany's economic position. According to the secretary of the exhibition, there were 7,000 foreign buyers present.

Conversations with exhibitors gave observers the impression that many German industries were near bankruptcy, owing to the shortage of coal and the loss of export trade, their only hope being to trade with neutrals and America. Fear was expressed that the continued hostility of the British would prevent trade with England.

If Miller's Worm Powders needed the support of testimonials they could be got by the thousands from mothers who know the great virtue of this excellent medicine. But the powders will speak for themselves and in such a way that there can be no question of them. They act speedily and thoroughly, and the child to whom they are administered will show improvement from the first dose.

BRITISH UNREST.

Not All Labor Troubles Ended as Yet.

London, Cable.—(Reuter Despatch).—Leading labor men with whom the settlement of the railway strike was discussed yesterday issued warnings against the ending of the dispute now being regarded as final and as ending all the labor troubles. It is pointed out that the protracted strike of iron moulders, which is seriously affecting the engineering industry of the north, is still unsettled. There were other disquieting incidents, showing that the temper of labor was still on edge. It is particularly complained of that the Government delayed putting into operation the Joint Industrial Council established at the beginning of the year to secure a universal living wage and a 48-hour week.

A method has been discovered of distilling valuable products from the chips that accumulate in wood-working establishments, and of making paper out of the residue.

For Frost Bites and Chilblains.—Chilblains come from undue exposure to slush and cold, and frost-bite from the icy winds of winter. In the treatment of either there is no better preparation than Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, as it counteracts the inflammation and relieves the pain. The action of the oil is instantaneous, and its application is extremely simple.

ONE MORE HUN LIE EXPLODED

Origin of German Pretext for Declaring War.

Flew Over Nuremberg, Dropped No Bombs.

Paris Cable.—The origin of the German story that French airmen flew over the city of Nuremberg and dropped bombs on Aug. 2, 1914, which was made one of the pretexts for declaring war on France was brought out yesterday at a hearing by a court-martial in an army airplane case. The man who settled the historical point was M. Unne, former administrator of the Salmson Motor Corporation, one of the witnesses.

Toward the end of July, 1914, testified M. Unne, the Salmson Company had put a machine in the hands of Aviator Laporte for a flight from Paris to Constantinople. Engine trouble compelled Laporte to land in Bavaria. He informed M. Unne of the mishap and the latter, he said, took a train and went to the place where Laporte had come down. The machine was repaired, and Laporte was about to start off again when he was prohibited from doing so by the German authorities. On Aug. 1, however, he was released and told he might return to France by way of

The Knuckles as a Calendar.

Most persons remember the number of days in any particular month by recalling the rhymes they learned in childhood. Another method is practiced in Iceland, and it is so simple and ingenious as to be worth knowing.

Shut the fist and let the knuckle of the forefinger represent January with its thirty-one days, and the depression between that and the next knuckle will represent February with its smaller number of days. And thus every month that corresponds to a knuckle will be found to contain thirty-one days, and every month that corresponds to a depression a smaller number of days.

The little finger knuckle will represent July; begin again with the forefinger knuckle, which stands for August, and from this on continue to count through the months of the year.
