Seamy Side of Life His Worship Has Been Getting .

lardened Against the Refuse of Soclety who Keep the City Justice Mill Grinding.

During his temporary incumbency of the lice magistracy Mayor Smith has been apidly and thoroughly learning the general haracteristics of the offenders, in the maority of the cases, which come before the police magistrate in a city such as Chatnam. Summing up his impressions the other day His Worship said,

"I find that the majority of offenders brought before me are cnarged with being drunk and disorderly, with prostitution in the case of female prisoners, and with petty thieving. Moreover, they are nearly all habitual attendants at the police ccu t in the capacity of prisoners for one or more of these offences until they virtually become a public nuisance and are so well known to the police that they pass as "old offenders." Now, imprisonment for a short time has no terrors for these petty criminals, in fact some of them will go out of their way to get sent down, especially during the winter months. At the penitentiary they have a comparatively comfortable time. At any rate they get plenty to eat at the expense of the government. Therefore it is small wonder that the number of tramps and habitual drunks is not on the decrease.

"The only remedy for this condition of affairs which I can see is the lash and the stone pile. Those who advocate a return to the old and effective mode of punishment are many and of late years I have joined their ranks. Physical suffering or the anticipation of it is the only thing that will prove a sufficiently powerful deterrent to cause these people to make an effort towards reformation.

"As regards the tramp nuisance I would other day His Worship said,

"As regards the tramp nuisance I would treat it in this way: I would get in a ship load of stone and have it placed near the police station. When a weary Willie hove in sight and asked for a night's lodging and supper I would first give him a hammer and indicate the stone pile. When he had broken a certain amount then he could have his supper and before he departed on his way in the morning he should make further acquaintance with the stone hammer. Moreover, I would have prisoners, incarcerated in the gaol for a short period only, work on the roads at any job which the city might be doing. This is the way they treat such offenders in Germany and the system has been found to work like a charm there. But people who flatter themselves that But people who flatter themselves that they are philanthropic, strongly object to seeing the poor, ill-used criminal working on the street with a ball and chain around his foot and of course these good people's wishes must be respected.

"There is also another consideration. Should we put our criminals to work on the treet we would at once hear the oft-repeat street we would at once hear the oft-repeat-ed cry, There you go, taking the food right out of the poor laborer's mouth, and so such an action is prevented by this phase of the question. However, in spite of all this it is extremely desirable that strong measures should be taken to reduce the number of frequent police court effenders and you will find that in time the lash will now of Grand Rapids, recently secured, may do much to add to the comforts of the soldier on the march and on the battle field. The invention consists of a patent folding cot, tent, hammock and stretcher, weighing 15 pounds, and capable of being reduced to a size small enough to be carried without discomfort. The inventor is E.S. Bedford, a brother of Chas. Bedford, of Chatham. Mr. Bedford segured his patents on the contrivance about four months ago, and he has submitted a model of his invention with specifications to the officials of the war department at Washington the war department at Washington for their examination with a view to having the appliance adopted by the United States government. In official circles such things move slowly and an examination of the cot has not been or-dered as yet. When it does occur Mr. Bedford is confident it will be accepted and made a part of Uncle Sam's soldiers' equipment.

The folding cot, hammock and tent is made very simply, but strongly. As a basis of strength it has a folding framework of strong light wood, This wooden frame work can be instantly changed from the supports of a cot to the framework of a stretcher, with handles. Another twist converts it into a comfortable hammock with a canvas roof overhead,

For the use of the soldier the contrivance would seem to have a num-ber of advantages. One of the horrors ber of advantages. One of the horrors of the Santiago campaign was the lack of stretchers in which to carry off the wounded. If every soldier carried one of these folding stretchers in his pack such a back would never be felt. Again, in campaigning in a wet, easily found on the march, the soldier swung between two teees or stakes, easily found on the march, the soldier would have a bed high and dry with easily found on the march, the soldier would have a bed, high and dry, with his tent swung over his head to keep off the dampness. By care in selecting the materials, the weight has been reduced to 15 pounds, which is but slightly heavier than the ordinary "pup" tent with its stakes, now carried by the regular soldiers in the Philippines and in China.

Besides being of value to the soldier the invention seems likely to prove po-

19th Century's Growing Glory. Over 1,000,000 Cares to Its Oredit Neither Distance Nor Dis-

Belief a Barrier The marvellous cures enacted by

The marvellous cures enacted by Magnetic Healing continue to be a source of wonder and remark with the press and public. While Magnetic Healing has an indisputable record-of over a million cured cases, there has been no practitioner in the faith whose success has been so invariable. Exceptionally gifted for the chosen work, the mind and soul of this healer have been brought into full correspondence with the infinite mind, the seurce of life, of health and of happiness.

By years of study and introspection, the wonderful secrets of concentration and transmission have been mastered, and the life-giving currents from infinite mind are guided into the being of the patient. Under this treatment pain and disease are vanquished like mist before the morning sun. The patient is not only healed but invested with a new store of vitality, that will add years to his life on earth. Prosperity attends the well-directed efforts planned by a vigorous mind, from which the delusions of fear and disease have been removed. The benefits resulting from Magnetic Healing often revolutionize the lives of these who secure it.

Did you ever stop to consider h much unhappiness is caused in the world by fear? Isn't it fear of dis-ease, fear of death, fear of failure in some enterprise that causes sleepless nights and hours of agony? Isn't it fair and logical to say that if there was nothing we feared this world fair and logical to say that if there was nothing we feared this world would be a paradise? The bats of fear cannot live in a mind illumined by the truths of Magnetic Healing. There comes with it a blessed feeling of strength in repose, of having come into your full stature, through correspondence with the infinite mind and source of all nower.

Many people have the mistaken idea that Magnetic Healing cannot cure those who disbelieve in its claims. As well might we think that the sun shone for flowers alone and would no shone for flowers alone and would not give life and growth to cereal plants or weeds. Hundreds of unbelievers have been cured by Prof. G. Stockwell, who has just arrived in the city and has taken up his-residence for a few weeks at 60 Centre St.; but it may be added that "those who came to scoff, remained to pray."

Distance is no barrier with the Magnetic Healer. The power he directs pervades all matter and space, even as it animates the earth, and gives movement to the stars and planets. It is the essential principle of life and light, the foe to darkness and deluslight, the foe to darkness and delusion. It can be directed with the same surety and potency across the continent as across the room. Many of the most wonderful cures have been accomplished when patients were thousands of miles away.

The so-called incurable diseases yield to this bealer as readily as do the

It is not necessary that you should believe in Magnetic Healing. If from the bottom of your heart you wish to be cured, you are in the favorable and receptive condition that insures suc-

Prof. G. Stockwell will remain in this city for a short time at 60 Centre street, and will undertake the treatment of cases presented to him, as advertised elsewhere.

A Cirl's Success in Life

Depends on her education, and the choice of a college to which to send your daughter is a serious matter, not only on account of the educational features, but also in the difficulty of finding an establishment where the moral and social education will be given proper consideration. The best conditions for securing a well-balanced education are in a home school like Alma College. Here not only the mental powers are trained but the moral nature and the social impulses directed to the higher ideals. Many a girl, bright, capable and interesting, has had her success seriously impaired because of neglect of the ethical and social sides of life. At Alma College these matters receive attention along with mental develop-
