POETRY.

Unbelief.

Lord, help Thou me! Oh haste to my relief!
Touch Thou mine eyes, sin-blind, that I may see
The beauty of Thy face. Lord, show Thou me
The way of truth. Against the storm-swept reef
My ship so frail must surely come to grief,
Without Thy guiding hand. Star of the sea!
With faith in Thee, my pilot Thou shalt be—
Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief!

The road I tread is long—the path is steep;
I blindly grope, as one bereft of sight;
I stumble, crying, "God, is there no light—
No hope beyond?" Out of the lowest
I call: "Lord, I believe; Oh help Thou me!
The clouds part, and the cross of Christ I see."

The Story of Life.

Only the same old story, told in a different language;—sometimes a gleam of gladness, and then a stab of pain;
Sometimes a flash of sunlight, again the drifting
rain.
Sometimes it seems to borrow from the
crimson rose its hue;
Sometimes black with thunder, then
changed to a brilliant blue;
Sometimes as false as Satan, sometimes as Heaven true.
Only the same old story! But oh, how the changes ring!
Prophet and priest and peasant, soldier
and scholar and king;
Sometimes the warm hand-clasp leaves
in the palm a sting.
Sometimes in the hush of even, sometimes in the mid-day strife,
Sometimes with dove-like calmness,
sometimes with passions rife,
We dream it, write it, live it, this weird,
wild story of life.

SALLY.

BY ALBERT FLEMING.

Continued.

"You're right!" she said, triumphantly. "I am old Hannah, and what's more, I never catch you having a fit again!"

"I'll run you in."

Aunt Maty was the very reverse of this. Aunt Hannah always alluded to her in her milder moments as "poor, dear Maty," and in her more vigorous ones as "that fool Matilda." Matilda had never been on a board in her life; but if you looked down the subscription list of any missionary society you would be sure to find her modest initials.

"I never put my full name," she said meekly. "Hannah makes such a fuss."

It was to this household that Kenneth brought Sally. Kenneth placed her on the seat; but Sally preferred lying on the floor of the cab, and coiled herself up at his feet like a dog.

The Queen of Arts.

Honored above all gifted women is Rosa Bonheur, accounted worthy to wear what other women may not aspire to—the Cross of the Legion of Honor, which was bestowed upon her by the ex-Empress Eugenie. Though grown old, the famous artist has recently finished another painting, which promises to rival in popularity the celebrated "Horse Fair." As an artist, Mrs. Bonheur is especially skilful in the minute and spirited delineation of various forms of animated life. Her father was a French artist of no mean ability, and she was born at Bourdeaux, March 23, 1822. Receiving instruction in art from her father, she produced in 1841 at Paris two pictures—"Chevres et Moutons" and "Les Deux Lapins," which at once established her reputation. She has since painted a large number of pictures representing animal life. Among her other productions are "Labouring Nivernais," "The Horse Fair," and "The Hay-making Season in Auvergne." Mrs. Bonheur has been awarded several medals, and elected a member of the Institute of Antwerp. During the siege of Paris her studio at Fontainebleau was spared and protected by the special order of the Crown Prince of Prussia.

AYER'S PILLS

Excel all others as a family medicine. They are suited to every constitution, old and young, and being sugar-coated, are agreeable to take. Purely vegetable, they have no ill effects, but strengthen and regulate the stomach, liver, and bowels, and restore every organ to its normal functions. For use either at home or abroad, on land or sea, these Pills.

Are the Best.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family for over thirty years. We find them an excellent medicine in fevers, eruptive diseases, and all bilious troubles, and seldom call a physician. They are almost the only pills used in our neighborhood."—Hodson G. Cony, Bow Landing P. O., W. Falcata Parish, La.

"I have been in this country eight years, and during all this time, neither I, nor any member of my family have used any other kind of medicine than Ayer's Pills, but these we always keep at hand, and I should not know how to get along without them."—A. W. Soderberg, Lowell, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Cathartic Pills as a Family Medicine for 35 years, and they have always given me the utmost satisfaction."—James A. Thornton, Bloomington, Ind.

"Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me of severe headaches from which I was long a sufferer."—Emma Keyes, Hubbardston, Mass.
