CHIGNECTO POST.

VOL. 14.—NO. 24.

SACKVILLE, N. B., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1883.

WHOLE NO. 699.

Farm and Household.

Canada's Great Fair.
Beautifully located on the shore of Lake Ontario, in the western outskirts of the "Queen City of the West" are the grounds of the Industrial Exhibition Association of Toronto. These grounds comprise an area of about 125 acres, upon which the Association has erected permanent buildings at a cost of about $250,000. For the past five years this Association, second to none in Canada in point of enterprise, beneficence and financial success, has been labored with the most satisfactory results. Un-supported by governmental aid, it stands to-day upon a foundation which nothing can shake, save the future election of inefficient officers or some other unforeseen calamity.

The present exhibition was officially opened on Wednesday, September 12, by His Excellency the Governor-General and Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise, and closed on the 22nd.

The writer has seen stock shows that exceeded this in the number of animals exhibited, but it would be difficult to surpass it as regards the uniform excellence of the exhibits in the various classes and the high breeding and remarkably fine appearance of all the animals shown. Indeed our Canadian friends deserve much praise for the spirit and enterprise that brought together such an excellent display of the choicest strains of domestic animals.

The Jerseys exhibited comprised an especially fine and well-bred selection. Valancy E. Fuller, Hamilton, Ont., exhibited a remarkably fine lot of this breed. He is the owner of a Jersey cow for which he has refused $10,000. Her record for the past nine months has exceeded that of the celebrated Euros for the same period. In this class was also exhibited a very fine herd belonging to Mrs. E. M. Jones, of Brockville, Ont. It would be hard to find a better judge of Jerseys than this lady. As regards the merits of the Jerseys, I fully coincide with the remarks of Mr. T. S. Cooper, of Coopersburg, Pa., in his report to the officers of this society who selected him as one of the judges. He says: "The exhibits of Jersey cattle at your annual fair of '83, upon the merits of which I have been asked to decide, I regard as a remarkably attractive one, and though not the equal in numbers, it was certainly the equal in quality of any similar collection I have seen for a long time."

The Ontario Experimental Farm at Guelph exhibited Aberdeen-Angus Poles, a breed which appears to be very popular in the Dominion. Conspecifics in this class were Chivalry, a three-year-old, finely formed bull, which weighed about 2,200 lbs., the property of Hay & Paton, New London, Ont.

In the Farm exhibit was a fine Short-horn bull, three years and nine months old, that weighed 2,150 pounds, while a Hereford bull 3½ years old weighed 2,020 pounds. There were also many fine specimens of all the other popular breeds, as well as a good display of sheep. Altogether, there were 403 entries in the cattle department.

Horses.
The draft stallions of the Percival and Clydesdale breeds were all remarkable for their fine points. The heavy draft stallions imported from England and Scotland formed one of the finest displays ever seen, and it is doubtful whether it is the finest ever seen in this Dominion. Canadian breeders may well feel proud of the value of their horse interests. In the twelve classes of this department there were 638 entries, nearly all of which were filled; and to examine each animal separately required more time than any visitor could give.

High Priced Animals.
Lord Fitzharding purchased a Short-horn bull, the Duke of Connaught, when about two years old, at the great Dunmore sale, for the very high price of 4,500 guineas ($22,987). Those present at this sale thought his lordship would never see his money back; but from that time to the present, the bull, now eleven years old, has not only regularly served his owner's cows, which has been of great benefit to him, but also upwards of 100 cows belonging to other people, at from 50 to 100 guineas each. These latter alone have paid double or more the first cost of the bull. The Duke of Connaught is still just as serviceable as ever, and may continue so for several years to come—a mine of wealth to its owner.

The highest price ever paid in England for a Hereford animal was paid the 6th of this month by a Chicago man. Mr. Culbertson, Jr., bought the prize bull Grove 3d (No. 6,061), for $250, or about $4,000, at a public sale of the Leam herd near the town in England from which this celebrated breed of cattle takes its name.

Prices of Beefsteaks.
Here is a table of the comparative prices of beefsteaks in New York at the same time this year and last:

Farm and Household.

Stock at the Centennial Exhibition.
From our own correspondent.
In horses, the display was far beyond any Provincial Exhibition ever held in New Brunswick. But, of course, this was to be expected if the other Provinces of the Dominion came forward with their best animals. The Island took the largest number of prizes, making the clean sweep in heavy horses. Charles Gardner's Clydesdale, weighing nearly a ton, was a magnificent animal in the eyes of those who admire horses of that description. The Suffolk Punch, which took first prize in other classes, was very much admired, as well as the gray stallion owned by Mr. Pickering, of P. E. Island, which took honors in the same class as the Suffolk Punch. This latter horse travelled in the Parishes of Sackville and Westmorland. In the walking race a Clydesdale mare from P. E. Island took first prize, almost distancing the other competitors. In roadsters the show was large and most of the animals fine, yet there was some defect in each one that was quite marked, which made it difficult to award the prize. Good action was the characteristic of all, but the judges, in awarding the prize, seemed to think action was all that was needed in horses, light or heavy, and the light horse won.

CATTLE.
Short Horns maintained their standing for size, symmetry and numbers, or rather in numbers they were far ahead of any Provincial Show before held. Mr. Josiah Wood's herd securing the first prize, with Prof. Sheldon as one of the judges, shows that Westmorland is to the front in this breed. Albert County showed some splendid Grand Short Horns as well as Westmorland; in fact it is pretty hard to tell which led, Albert or Westmorland, in this class of cattle.

In Polled Angus, which were shown for the first time in a New Brunswick exhibition, there were some very fine animals, and the exhibit in this class attracted a good deal of attention. This breed, judging from the specimens shown, will grow in favor, especially among shippers.

ATLANTIC SHEEP.
were shown in great numbers and in good form. Perhaps the judges in this class had more difficulty in deciding as to which animal to award the prize than in any other. The color and size of the ewes were so near the same in a number of instances that it required an expert to decide on the points.

JERSEYS.
There has probably been the greatest improvement in this breed in New Brunswick in the last ten years than any other, and perhaps some of our Westmorland farmers would say there was need enough of it. The Jerseys make a grand exhibit and attracted more attention than any other breed. There were some too that had succeeded some in growing into a very good specimen of form. The owners of some of this stock seem to set a very high value. One man, after figuring down to the lowest possible point, couldn't do better than $15,000 for a cow.

HERFORDS.
seem to be running out. I did not see an animal of this breed on the ground. It was said there was one. POLLED NORFOLK.
This is a new breed in New Brunswick. The first animals imported were brought by the Government in their last importation on the recommendation of Professor Sheldon. There were some five or six on exhibition. These are red in color, with a glossy coat, and look as if they might do well in our climate.

SHEEP.
In this class there was not so large an increase in numbers of former exhibitions as in the cattle. The Downes were there in larger numbers than three years ago, but they are not a good exhibition sheep to those who have got their ideas of what a sheep ought to be from the Leicester and Cotswolds. The Leicester were fine sheep and I noticed that the River Counties and P. E. Island divided the prizes pretty evenly between them in this class.

SWINE.
The standard breeds were well represented, and to the lovers of this animal there was much to admire. Help for Farmers' Wives.
Is there no help for some farmers' wives? The farmer has sulky plows, riding drags and rollers and cultivators, mowers and self-binders, horse hay forks and hay loaders; but his wife scrubs and cooks and soothes the baby without machinery. A woman must invent. Man is too selfish, too blind to his own interests, to invent for her. (The only agency in heaven or on earth that helps woman is God, and He helps her only when she helps herself. Angels weep over her, but they can't do the scrubbing or soothe the baby's colic.)—Rural New Yorker.

Minnesota.

Opinions of a New Brunswicker.
Mr. Edwin Chapman, formerly of Point de Bute, now of Redwood Falls, Minnesota, U. S., is back visiting his old friends. Mr. Chapman, very shortly after going West, identified himself with the country, by becoming a naturalized citizen, and has ever since taken an active part in public affairs. For the last twelve years he has held an important public position in the gift of the people. Like most New Brunswickers, that go to the U. S., his sympathies are with the Republican Party. His opinion of the Democrats are not very flattering to that organization. The military spirit, which is a characteristic of the Chapman, showed itself during the Southern war, when he joined a regiment of Minnesota volunteers and was made a Lieutenant. He also took a hand in the Indian chase of the massacre of 1862.

Reporters.—How does the climate of Minnesota compare with New Brunswick?
Mr. Chapman.—It is very similar. Being further west, the air is drier but quite as cold, the mercury running down sometimes into the forties, but the winter is perhaps a little shorter.

Reporters.—What about the crops this year?
Mr. Chapman.—The crops for two years in Minnesota have been good. This year's wheat will average about 20 bushels per acre, and oats 40 bushels. The wheat crop for several years previous to 1882 was almost a failure from blight. Hay, you can always get for the cutting by going far enough out into the prairie. Grass is sold sometimes near the towns for 25 cents per ton. Cattle, of course, have to be housed the same as in New Brunswick. Pastureage is very plenty and stock-raising is on the increase in the State.

Reporters.—Do you think Minnesota a better country for the poor man than New Brunswick?
Mr. Chapman.—I do.
Reporters.—Why?
Mr. Chapman.—Principally because land is cheaper, which makes the necessities of life cheaper. There seems to be more enterprise and push West than there was in New Brunswick when I left. I would judge, however, from what I hear of your advance in manufactures and the number of miles of railroad now in operation in New Brunswick, that you must have shown some push and go ahead cleverness the last 20 years, as well as the Yankees.

General News.
—New Hampshire's manufacturers are experiencing the evils of closing down their forests. Many factories have stopped their wheels for want of water in the streams.

—The Navajo Indians of New Mexico are likely to be well supplied with funds this year. They expect to take 800,000 pounds of wool and 600,000 skins and furs to market.

—The International Congress met at Vienna on the 27th of August found a careful estimate of the grain crops of the world. From this it appears that the wheat crop of the largest wheat-raising countries of Europe is very much behind that of last year. If 100 represent the average crop for the last ten years then last year's crop for Great Britain and Ireland, France, Austria, Hungary and Russia, which are the great wheat-producing countries, will rise no higher than 85. This showing makes the prospect bright for the wheat-raisers on this side of the water.

—The New York Evening Post argues that America has little to fear from India as a wheat-producing rival, and considers it highly improbable that a country so densely populated as India will ever be able to spare any large amount of food for export. Even should the irrigation works now in progress, and others contemplated, realize expectations, the Post regards it as probable that the higher producing power will be attended by an increase of the local population and an increased need for the local population and an enlarged home demand. The Post, however, presents only one side of the case. The fact is that Northern India there is a vast tract of land capable of producing hard wheat, and inhabited by millions of workers, who consider themselves well paid on about five cents a day. They prefer rice to wheat as a diet, and they can be fed on rice brought from China and other parts at very small cost. Hence the anomaly of a densely populated country exporting food is rather apparent than real.

—The Great Secret.—At some of the Western agricultural fairs a "great secret" is sold in sealed envelopes at ten cents apiece. Here is the secret: "Never buy an article before examining it. If you had known this before, you would have paid ten cents for a worthless envelope when you could have got a dozen good ones of the same price."

About Men.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes is busily engaged in writing a life of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

—The Marquis of Lorne has given a five-hundred-dollar purse to the Dominion Rifle Association for Provincial competition, the conditions to be settled by him.

—Sitting Bull is in a state of uncertainty as to which of his two wives he will give up, and the ceremony of receiving him into the Catholic Church has been indefinitely postponed.

—Henry Irving, the famous London actor, is shortly to visit America on a professional tour. He will take up his quarters in New York with the American Croesus, W. H. Vanderbilt, who is having a splendid suite of apartments specially fitted up for his guest.

—Sir Henry Brand, the speaker of the British House of Commons will retire from that office at the close of the present Parliament. He has held the office for eleven years and is entitled on resignation to a pension and a pension of $20,000, tenable for two lives.

—Gov. Murray, of Utah, says that Mormonism is to-day broader, deeper, stronger and more aggressive than ever before. The polygamists are only about 20 per cent. of the Mormons, and the remainder can outvote the Gentiles. The governor considers the Edmunds' bill practically a failure.

—Judge William Fullerton and Gen. Roger A. Pryor, two of the most distinguished lawyers of America, have been retained as American counsel for O'Donnell, Carey's assassin. Both were employed in the famous Beecher trial. Gen. Pryor has left for London and his colleague is to follow immediately.

—The queen will have her way as to commemorating John Brown, the hero of the Revolution. A statue is to be erected in the grounds of Balmoral, a monument placed in the Prince Consort's mausoleum at Frogmore, and a tablet in the nave of St. George's chapel, Windsor. Then by her "order" the queen, Mr. Murray has written a poem in commemoration of the dunkey's virtues.

—Princess Mary Edira, son of the Emperor of Morocco, on his pilgrimage to Mecca last year fell in love with an Italian governess, to whom he promised marriage if she would follow him to his father's court, and be promised, moreover, that she should be his only wife. The contract was made in due form at an Italian consulate. His imperial father, when consulted, gave his consent on condition that the pair should wait a year, and that, in the meantime, the fiancée should take charge of the education of his daughter. The year is almost ended, and the ceremony will soon be performed. The bride will not give up her religion; she will not be the only Christian in the Sultan's family.

—An Englishman, Mr. Henry Edin, the chief of Wedgwood, is happily married to an Englishwoman, and has been continued in his spiritual functions in spite of his connections with an unbeliever.
